New Plan On Campus Bombings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon called today for legislation to permit federal authorities to act immediately in cases of bombing or arson on college campuses even if local authorities opposed intervention.

Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., said after a meeting of Republican Congressional leaders with Nixon that the proposal would be added as an amendment to a Senate-passed anti-crime bill, now being considered by the House Judiciary Committee.

Ford, the House GOP leader, and Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican Senate leader, outlined the legislation to newsmen following the two hour, 45-minute White House meeting. Attorney General John N. Mitchell and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover also attended.

Ford said Nixon and Mitchell recommended that the FBI and other federal authorities be permitted to intervene immediately on any campus which receives any form of federal subsidy—virtually all of the colleges and universities in the nation—following an overt act such as a bombing or firebombing.

Scott also referred to "other acts of terrorism" but he declined to define them. He said the legislation would not be triggered by "throwing rocks or breaking glass."

The bill now before the House Judiciary Committee was approved by a subcommittee Monday on a day that saw Nixon gain important victories in his effort to get anti-crime

A Switch In Seashore Lease Policy

The National Park Service has partially changed its policy on leasing future land purchases in Point Reyes National Seashore back to the owners for ranching and dairy uses.

Park Supt. John L. Sansing said today that, following a restudy of the land acquisition program to determine need for public use, it was decided to lease back seashore land for a "limited period of time" if present owners request such leases.

He said he wouldn't know the terms of the leases until after discussion with owners.

Seashore policy announced Sept. 11 was that future acquisitions would not be rented back because a clause in the April 3 land acquisition appropriation prohibited it.

Sansing said ranchers had been upset about the leasing ban, and legal opinions of the meaning of the clause subsequently obtained by the park service indicated that a future leasing would be permissable after all.

However, "most of the lands above and adjacent to Drake's and Limantour esteros are within a high public use area and are needed for park purposes," Sansing said. "Consequently, they will be purchased without reservation of possession except for a

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN — A ghostly wedding party assembles in the Mill Valley city council chamber, the spirits moved, it would appear, by a vain plea last night for a real-life wedding in the timbered hall. Weddings are not in the general interest, city councilmen announced in resisting the beguiling blandishments of the bride-to-be. What city hall is missing is demonstrated by Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax who superimposed a wedding photo on one of the council chamber.

Council Divorces Wedding Idea

They say love conquers all, but the Mill Valley City Council showed last night that good old bureaucratic red tape can beat it everytime.

The council, after some discussion, turned down a request to use the council chamber for a wedding on the grounds that it would be against city policy and granting the request would set a precedent.

The request was made by Lucy Stofle of 415 Shoreline Highway who is marrying Leonard Anderson, a reporter for the Mill Valley Record, in November.

Miss Stofle told the council the "deep windows, hardwood floors and high ceiling make it a perfect place for a wedding," and added that the chamber had a special meaning to the couple as their first dates were spent there while Anderson covered the city council meetings.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard said she thought the idea was "delightful. It's the first time I've heard of anyone having a warm, romantic feeling toward the council meetings."

In the end, however, she joined Mayor George E. Wickham and Councilman Robert H. Andresen in defeating the request. They said the chambers can be used only for activities "of general interest to the citizens of Mill Valley."

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, who with Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker supported Miss Stofle's request, ventured the wedding would be in the general interest of the city's citizens.

82nd Airborne Unit On A Mideast Alert

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—Rows of nearly empty lockers line the barracks of paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division at this Army post.

The men of the 82nd packed their duffle bags and slid them under their bunks Monday after the division was placed on alert for possible use in evacuation of Americans in war-torn Jordan.

A big semiannual military firepower demonstration called "Brass Strike Seven," involving all branches of the service was called to an end five days early. The men of the 82nd are restricted to the base.

For the average soldier of the 82nd, the alert meant packing extra uniforms, shaving gear and personal articles in the duffle bags and checking out M16 rifles and bayonets from the weapons room. The weapons hang on the foot of each bunk.

The 82nd, which comprises about 10,000 of the 55,000 men stationed at Ft. Bragg, primarily is an infantry unit, and most of the men of the division have only to grab their rifles and duffle bags for transportation to their planes.

In addition, the division has an "initial ready force" always on alert which rotates between the units. Many jeeps and other support equipment are kept rigged with parachutes and ready to go.

The division was placed on alert on June 12, just over a month ago, because of the Jordan crisis, but was not used at that time for evacuation purposes.

Many of the men of the 82nd are Vietnam veterans. The Third Brigade formally rejoined the division on Dec. 16, 1969, after more than a year in Vietnam.

The Pentagon also announced the alerting of Pope Air Force Base, adjoining Ft. Bragg, and was bringing in C141 jet transports, apparently from Charleston, S.C., for possible use.

Ft. Bragg officials said the U.S. Strike Command terminated "Brass Strike Seven" because of "operational priorities of the U.S. strike command elements."

Prime Rate Drop To Aid Real Estate

The lowering of the prime interest rate charged by major banks should have an immediate effect on short-term commercial loans and a "softening" effect on local real estate loan rates within 30 days.

This is the general opinion expressed by most Marin County bank officials, who look for a possibel drop of one-quarter to one-half of 1 per cent in financing charges. Recently placed real estate loans have been earning an average of 8.5 to 9 per cent interest.

The feeling is almost unanimous that rates on personal loans will be slower to move downward.

Government insured home loan interest rates may not be immediately affected and are

Reagan Is Victor In Patrol Pay Battle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jess Unruh lost a legislative fight with Gov. Ronald Reagan today when the Assembly, on a preliminary vote, rejected the Democrat's request to override the governor's veto of a Highway Patrol salary increase.

The override required 54 votes and fell far short, receiving only 33 on an initial try. Seven Republicans voted to sustain the veto. Unruh kept the roll open in an attempt to gain the first override in 24 years.

The scuffle involved Reagan's trimming of a five per cent pay raise for highway patrolmen to three per cent. The governor blamed the state's "tight fiscal situation." The boost was on top of an earlier five per cent pay hike.

"This is an outrageous veto," charged Unruh, speaking to an Assembly chamber less than half filled with members.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee said the $1.6 million in additional pay raises would be "one small way that we could put our money where our mouths have been" on law enforcement.

"Apparently the governor feels paying lip service to law enforcement is enough. Quite clearly, one of the things lacking in this state is adequate compensation for law enforcement."

Unruh pointed out Reagan had signed another bill providing $7.2 million for the horse racing industry and said, "I think this is really an outrageous sense of values." The horse racing money comes from a tax on track betters.

The CHP pay hike bill was authored by Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, who was not present.

The Assembly—voting primarily along party lines—also declined to override vetoes of bills:

—By Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, to abolish tenure for San Francisco school administrators. The vote was 19-13.

—By Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, establishing urban community schools. The vote was 12-24.

—By Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, permitting San Francisco port employes to change their retirement system. The vote was 15-17.

In the Senate, a Republican broke ranks with Reagan and asked the legislature to override the veto of his bill creating a $150,000 commission to study splitting up the sprawling Los Angeles Unified School District.

Reagan vetoed the measure, but failed to telephone the author and tell him—as he had promised. The miffed GOP senator, John L. Harmer of Glendale, said he later was told the governor "lost my phone number."

Harmer placed his bill on the Senate's morning agenda and—in a rare move for a Republican—asked the body to override Reagan's veto.

Hussein Sends Two Brigades To Check Syrian Tank Moves

Arab World Appears Convinced U.S. Ready To Intervene; Threats Made

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

King Hussein sent two brigades of troops into northern Jordan today for what Israeli military dispatches said could be a showdown with invading Syrian tanks. Large scale Israeli tank movements were reported along the border as the cabinet met in emergency session in Jerusalem.

The Arab world appeared convinced the United States was ready to intervene in the spreading conflict and there were separate warnings from Syria, Egypt and the Palestinian guerrillas who said U.S. interests in the Arab world would be blown up if intervention came.

Pope Paul VI cautioned Israeli against intervention in Jordan.

In Washington, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott met with President Nixon for two hours and 45 minutes today and reported afterward Nixon was "prepared to preserve the proper interests of the United States in the current Middle East crisis."

He sidestepped questions on whether American armed intervention was discussed but called the situation "perilous."

Palestinian guerrillas said the Jordanian air force had gone into action against their positions in the northern sectors for the first time. Most of the air force was destroyed in the Six Day War but it still has 38 combat aircraft and a number of transports and helicopters.

The guerrillas said Israeli artillery had shelled Irbid early today but there was no confirmation. Previously they reported Israeli Air Force Mystere jets flying protective cover for Jordanian resupply flights.

Israel military correspondents in the city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee said Hussein sent in two brigades of troops before dawn today toward Irbid, 12 miles below the Syrian border and only 18 miles east of the cease-fire line.

They said convoys of Jordanian army trucks rolled southward on the east bank of the Jordan River later in the day but that they were empty Jordanian supply trucks returning south for more supplies.

U.S. Eyes King's Assistance Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration is considering a request for assistance from Jordan's embattled King Hussein, who was understood to have sent a similar appeal to Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials declined to speculate just how they would respond to Hussein's appeal. They indicated they have been asked for military help in the event of further setbacks in Hussein's position as his forces try to stem an invasion of Syrian troops who came to the aid of Arab guerrillas.

It has been assumed here the United States, which has placed paratroops and naval units on alert, would intervene in Jordan if it became necessary to protect and evacuate U.S. citizens there including the airline hostages still held by Arab commandos. However, the administration has given no hint whatsoever as to whether it would be prepared to intervene on Hussein's side in the fighting against Syria if the Jordanian government's existence appeared threatened.

Syrian armored forces were reported to have captured Irbid, 40 miles north of Amman, the second largest city in the country. Palestinian guerrillas still were holding out in Amman itself, although Hussein's forces had routed

Detectors Will Be Used To Screen Courtroom Visitors

Security at the Hall of Justice will be bolstered by metal detectors to screen courtroom visitors and small walkie talkies to improve communication.

These and other security measures, costing a total of $28,266, were approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors today by a unanimous 4 to 0 vote. Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation, and Louis H. Baar presided today in his place.

Undersheriff Sidney Stinson declined to disclose details of the added security measures, explaining that he does not want to tip the county's hand. "We're being deliberately vague," said Stinson.

He said metal detectors will be used "During certain trials." Locks will be changed in certain courtroom areas, and handie-talkies, a small version of the walkie-talkie, will be used by officers in both the Hall of Justice and the Civic Center Administration Building to improve communications within the quarter-mile long building.

These security measures and six additional court bailiffs are an outgrowth of the Aug. 7 kidnap-shoot-out which left four dead, including Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, and three wounded.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Lava Spills Out

VOLCANO, Hawaii (UPI) — Fiery lava Monday traveled seven miles down the slopes of Kilauea Volcano, wiped out a prehistoric Hawaiian Village and poured into the sea.

The lava started from the volcano's Alae and Aloi craters, which have been in an almost constant state of eruption for nearly six weeks.

The ancient village, which was known to anthropologists and Volcanoes National Park Rangers, was in a remote forest far from any towns or highways.

The lava's first contact with the ocean was unspectacular but by early evening when high waves began to crash ashore a huge steam cloud rose into the sky.

Inflation Plea

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — The United States said today it is doing its part to fight inflation but more must be done by others to liberalize trade and share mutual defense costs.

David M. Kennedy, Secretary of the Treasury, told the Internationoal Monetary Fund (IMF) annual conference U.S. defense expenditure will be cut by $5 billion this year by scaling down the Vietnam conflict.

Kennedy addressed the conference after a sharp attack on the United States by French Finance Minister Valery Giscard Destaing, who compared the U.S. dollar to a broken down clock.

Giscard blamed the United States for spreading inflation and said other countries' currencies "cannot be permanently determined in relation to a standard that is no longer fixed but variable."

To Join Panthers

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — John Froines, one of two defendants in the "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial to be acquitted, is resigning from the University of Oregon faculty to help Black Panthers and other "third world" people.

"America has forced me to stop my scientific work," Froines told a news conference Monday. "Instead of creating a scientist, it has created a revolutionary."

He said he would go to New Haven, Conn., to work for the release of Black Panther Chairman Bobby Seale, charged in connection with a homicide.

The 30-year-old assistant professor of chemistry was acquitted last February of riot charges, but along with all the other defendants and their attorneys was sentenced to prison for contempt of court. He is appealing.

Special POW Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to designate Nov. 11 as a national day of support for U.S. prisoners of war was introduced today by Rep. John T. Myers, R-Ind.

Myers offered the joint resolution following a speech by Col. Frank Borman to a joint session of Congress. Borman is President Nixon's special representative on prisoner of war matters.

The Indiana Republican said it was appropriate to dedicate this year's observance of Veterans Day to the more than 1,500 Americans listed as prisoners of war or missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Priest Fund Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Thomas C. Lynch has been asked by Milton G. Gordon, Democratic candidate for treasurer, to investigate the campaign fund raising practices of incumbent Ivy Baker Priest.

Gordon told newsmen Monday that "several" California bankers had received a campaign solicitation letter from Arthur J. Dolan, Mrs. Priest's Northern California campaign chairman, soliciting funds.

"I am concerned that California bankers are being forced to make campaign contributions to the treasurer by veiled threats that the state will withdraw its funds from them," said Gordon.

Resigns Position

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)—Tengku Abdul Rahman, prime minister of Malaysia since it gained independence 13 years ago, resigned today and handed over the government to Tun Abdul Razak, an aide 20 years his junior.

Rahman, 68, stepped down with his power and prestige intact.

Rahman submitted his formal resignation to Malaysia's new king, Sultan Abdul Halim Shah, in the throne room of the national palace.

He then introduced Razak, 48, to the king—who himself was sworn in only Monday—and Abdul named Razak prime minister. The public was barred from ceremonies in the palace that once housed a Chinese millionaire's seraglio.

Candidate Tells Of Reds Success

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Peace and Freedom party candidate for U.S. Senator, Robert Scheer, Monday gave a glowing report on Communist Asia.

The former editor of Ramparts Magazine said the report was based on his tours of Red Asian capitals with Black Panther fugitive Eldridge Cleaver. Both were part of an 11-man delegation which traveled through China, North Korea and North Vietnam for the past three months.

Scheer said he was convinced of the "success of Marxist-Leninism."

SCENE OF VIOLENCE AGAIN

Police in Washington, D. C., patrol a glass-littered street in the area hardest hit during Washington's August 1968 rioting. The outbreak of rock throwing and minor looting erupted late last night after police tried to make a narcotics arrest at a hotel along Northwest 14th Street. In the rioting that followed 47 persons were arrested for rock throwing and looting. Meanwhile, Gov. John J. McKeithen has declared a state of emergency in Houma, La., following racial incidents after a football game Friday night at nearby Thibodaux, La.

Agnew, Students In Confrontation

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bitter student, face to face with Spiro T. Agnew, charged the vice president's speeches had done much to build an aura of violence and said Agnew was a "precursor of violence."

Flushing and spirited but possessed, the vice president in reply struck at "the disgusting permissive attitudes of the people in command of college campuses." To blame him for the resultant violence, he said, was "one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

The exchange flared at the end of a 90-minute taping of a television show in which Agnew debated with five student leaders Monday night. They appeared on The David Frost Show, scheduled to be aired Friday in most larger cities of its broadcast circle.

The student who voiced the charge was Richard Silverman, president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, who is studying for a doctorate in political science in the field of urban violence.

The preceding sections of the show, while often critical on both sides, was conducted with generally good spirits. Student unrest and Agnew's recent addresses got a going over.

Discussion of the Kent State University campus slayings and the "hardhat" construction worker attacks on student activists led to the heated final five minutes. Agnew said "the evidence seems to indicate the National Guard overreacted" in the Kent shootings that killed four students.

"I don't excuse what they did," Agnew said of the guard, but he added it was amazing how the American people had "forgotten the precursors" of the shooting—the two nights of rioting, the burning of the ROTC building and the cutting of hoses of firemen trying to fight the blaze.

The hardhat clashes with students were not premeditated, as were some campus disruptions, Agnew said, but resulted from "the rage of people who work to build this country." He added that "I don't condone the violence" but that "I can't equate that wave of revulsion when they saw the flag defiled" with campus unrest.

Silverman said Agnew had "a strange sense about what happened" at Kent State in suggesting the cause was rock throwing and protests.

"You don't suggest how disgusting, how abhorrent it is for those of us who feel this way to watch the United States invade Cambodia," Silverman said. "You talk about an aura of violence, about precursors of violenve. And there's one small failing left out here. And this is the distinction between your being a political joke and your being a very sericus man.

"And that is that you yourself, singularly, are perhaps the greatest precursor of violence in this country. You have done more to build an aura of violence, to build a milieu in which violence is accepted, than anyone I know."

"Let me just point out one thing," Agnew replied. "Long before I became a household word, violence was rampant in this country. The Berkeley campus exploded when I was still back in county government. Columbia University turned topsy-turvy long before President Nixon was even inaugurated.

"And yet you say my rhetoric has caused the violence . . . student violence is a way of life in Germany, Japan, England and many other countries where the effect of my rhetoric is virtually nonexistent.

"Now to use me as some convenient bete noire for the violence that's existed in this country because of the disgusting permissive attitudes of the people in command of college campuses is one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

Eva Jefferson, student body president at Northwestern University and the only Negro in the debate, told Agnew that what disturbed her about his speeches was that "you're doing us a great disservice because you're making people afraid of their own children . . . When you make people afraid of each other, you isolate people."

Agnew said that if isolating people were his goal "I wouldn't be here tonight." Bete noire, a French term, the dictionary says, means "something that one especially dislikes or dreads: bugbear."

Ky Leaves For Paris; U.S. Next?

SAIGON (UPI)—Vice President and Mrs. Nguyen Cao Ky left for Paris today with every indication he would fulfill a speaking engagement Oct. 3 at a Washington, D.C. pro-Vietnam War rally. But some U.S. officials speculated Ky might never make it to the United States.

Ky and his wife, Mai, boarded a regular Air Vietnam flight to Tokyo, with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker a surprise fiugre at the colorful sendoff ceremony at Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Bunker as a safety precaution had advised Ky against going to the United States, and suggested the South Vietnamese vice president's visit might influence U.S. Congressional elections.

Asked why he showed up at the airport, Bunker chuckled.

"No comment," he said. "I am here at the invitation of the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry."

On the war front, Cambodian troops led by an elite paratrooper corps captured the North Vietnamese stronghold of Tang Kauk today in a thrust that broke an eight-day lull in the biggest government drive of the Cambodian campaign.

Early reports said the Cambodians met little resistance in seizing Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh. Heavy concentrations of Communists, most of them identified as members of the 275th North Vietnamese regiment, had stalled the embattled task force along Highway 6. Casualties were not announced.

The government troops had been heavily reinforced Monday.

Communiques from Saigon today reported loss of two U. S. helicopters, killing five Americans and wounding five others. Five men died aboard a Marine Corps CH46 Seaknight 'copter today 11 miles south-southeast of Da Nang. Five were wounded Sunday in a Uhl medical evacuation copter shot down 45 miles south-southeast of Da Nang.

The U. S. Command said today the last units of the U. S. 9th Infantry Division had begun pulling out in preparation for leaving the war zone under President Nixon's Phase 4 withdrawal. About 2,570 men are affected. Removal of the units will leave no American infantrymen south of Saigon.

Viet Cong units early today attacked a South Vietnamese position 5 miles south of Artillery Base O'Reilly, 12 miles east of the Laotian border and 2 miles west of Hue. The defenders killed 27 Communists in driving off the assault.

Tito's Plans For A Joint Leadership

BELGRADE (UPI)—Yugoslavia's aging President Tito, who has guided his nation through a quarter-century of increasingly liberal Communist rule, says a collective leadership will replace him at the head of the government when he is gone.

Tito, still hale and hearty at 78, spoke to a meeting of Zagreb social and political workers Monday night.

"It is true that I have been on this post a long time and I would like to have more possibilities to deal with some other matters," he said.

The announcement followed—and resembled in overall shape—Tito's 18-month old plan for the future rule of the Communist party.

Under the Yugoslav constitution, Tito now heads both party and government. But at the Ninth Party Congress in March, 1969, he announced formation of a 14-man executive committee at the head of the party composed of two top Communists from each of Yugoslavia's six republics and one each from the two autonomous provinces of Kosovo and Vojvodina. It contained the party's ranking ideological, theoretical and political minds.

DRAWING OF SHIP — This is a drawing of the two-masted Brother Jonathan which sank 105 years ago with $200,000 in gold and the loss of 203 of 222 persons aboard her off the coast of Crescent City.

Vessel With $200,000 In Gold Believed Found Off Crescent City

CRESCENT CITY (UPI)— Eight northern California men believe they have located the hulk of a ship which sank 105 years ago with $200,000 in gold.

Larry Holcomb, a school psychologist and diving enthusiast who spent 19 years on the trail of the vessel, the sidewheeler Brother Jonathan, says an attempt to reach the ship may be made within the next month.

The Brother Jonathan foundered in a storm 18 miles northwest of Crescent City on the afternoon of July 30, 1865. Aboard were 222 passengers and crewmen, 900 tons of cargo and the payroll for U.S. soldiers stationed in the Pacific Northwest.

More than 200 persons drowned in the disaster.

Two years ago, Holcomb found what he believes may be the Brother Jonathan's wreckage. For understandable reasons, he won't say exactly where.

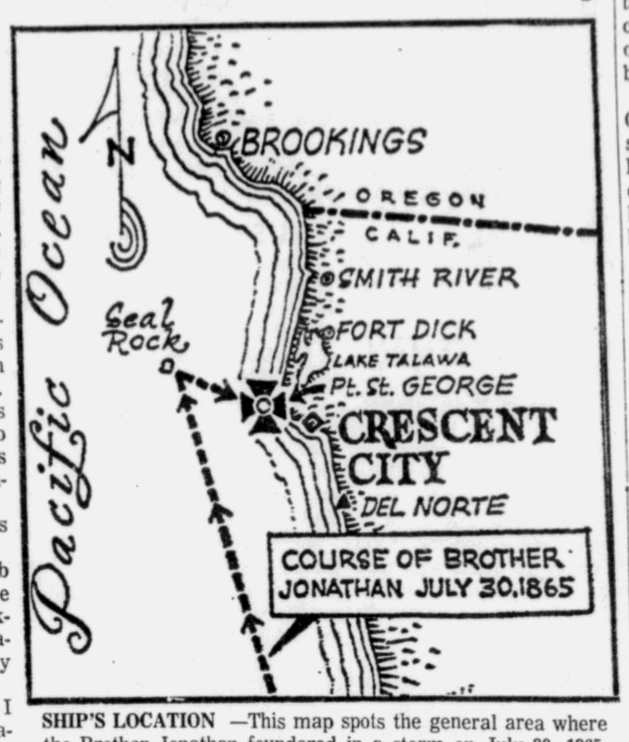
"A couple of years ago I thought I had enough information to go out and search for it, and I built a ship for that purpose," Holcomb said.

"We found a hull, but we're not sure about it at this point."

In June of this year Holcomb and seven other men formed the Brother Jonathan Co. and obtained a permit from the California State Lands Commission for all salvage rights.

John Fraser, a Del Norte County supervisor, is secretary-treasurer of the company. Other members are divers Ben Kirby Jr., James Moore and Dean Fox; Larry Bosh, an engineer; Lee Smallwood, an electronics expert; and Dr. Glen Olson, an undersea photographer.

Olson, of San Francisco State College, plans to photograph the operation and eventually write a book about it.



SHIP'S LOCATION —This map spots the general area where the Brother Jonathan foundered in a storm on July 30, 1865, off the Northern California coast. (UPI Telephoto)

One of San Francisco's most popular and able seamen, Capt. Samuel J. deWolf was in command as the 220-foot long Brother Jonathan loaded freight and passengers for what was to be the final and fatal voyage.

At noon on July 28, the ship backed away from the wharf at San Francisco and sailed out the Golden Gate for the trip up the northern California coast.

The following day, north of Eureka, heavy seas and strong winds were encountered. The ship put into Crescent City harbor for the night, and continued the journey the next morning.

But the strong winds turned into a gale and Capt. deWolf decided to turn back toward the harbor he had left that morning.

Fleeing toward Crescent City, the Brother Jonathan struck a submerged rock off Point St. George about two miles south of Seal Rock and about 18 miles northwest of Crescent City.

A hole was smashed in the bottom, just forward of the engine room. Water poured in. A mast broke and hurtled down on the deck. Cannon shots fired on the ship were heard by people ashore, who gathered on a bluff to watch, helpless to assist.

Six lifeboats were launched, but only one made it to shore, carrying five women, three children, 10 crewmen and the ship's first mate. Captain deWolf and 202 others were lost.

Holcomb says that once positive identification of the ship is made, salvage operations will begin, preferably during October and November when visibility for deep-sea diving is best.

"The area is such a terrible combination of bum current and bad weather that we've had trouble in the past," he said. "At this point we're holding off until good weather."

Jordan Fighting Hinders Efforts To Free Hostages

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Palestinian guerrillas said Monday 54 hostages from three hijacked jetliners, including 38 Americans, were safe. But a five-nation committee trying to negotiate freedom for the captives said efforts had been stymied by fighting in Jordan.

"Our latest information is that the hostages have not been harmed," said an official of the Popular Front For the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) in a statement from Beirut.

"They are still being held at various locations (in and near Amman, Jordan)," the spokesman said.

The guerrilla spokesman said a third party Sunday approached the PFLP asking whether the Red Cross could negotiate on behalf of the five governments involved in efforts to free the hostages.

"We have no objection," the PFLP spokesman said. "But there is no point in negotiating at this stage. We have set our demands and they are not negotiable. The only thing to negotiate is how to implement these demands once the governments agree."

The PFLP demands released of seven Arab guerrillas from three Western European countries and release of two Algerians detained in Israel; and freedom for a Swiss accused of spying for the Arabs, 10 Lebanese held by Israel and an unspecified number of Palestinians held in Israeli jails.

There has been no word from the hostages since fighting broke out Thursday between Arab guerrillas and Jordanian army forces in Amman.

Jury Trial Set For Teens In Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the week of Oct. 26 for Stephen John Pappas, 19, of San Rafael, and Arthur George Metzger, 19, of no known address, accused of burglary and possessing stolen property.

The two youths and a third 19-year-old, Reade Collins Backer, of Ross, were arrested on April 1 when a deputy sheriff noticed their car being driven erratically in Tiburon.

Baker, who is serving a jail sentence, testified at a preliminary hearing that Pappas and Metzger stole various articles from a Tiburon residence.

All three, according to the deputy, said they were heroin addicts.

Metzger is also due to be tried the week of Oct. 19 on a charge of burglarizing a Panoramic Highway residence last December.

Corte Madera Orders Draft Of Bike Paths

The Corte Madera Town Council, faced yesterday with demands for construction of safer bicycle routes through the town, approved the drafting of a route map, an ordinance outlining bike registration and provisions for citing offensive bike riders.

The matter came before the council as 44 residents petitioned the town council to insure provisions for a bicycle lane were included in reconstruction plans for Tamalpais Avenue.

The council said such a lane parallel to the sidewalk, would cost the taxpayers about $70,000. With less than a third that amount in their budget reserve, the council quickly shifted discussion to less expensive means of providing safe passage for bike enthusiasts.

Gladys G. Polhemus of 291 Golden Hind Passage however suggested the $70,000 bicycle lane along Tamalpais Avenue could be financed over the years by a registration fee of $1 per bike.

"It would take quite a while to recoup the expense of the $70,000 improvement," she admitted but added it would be a showpiece for the county.

Other suggestions included the banning of parking along the north side of Tamalpais Avenue with the existing parking lane opened for bicycles. This was rejected because the council could foresee strong protest from residents along the avenue who would lose parking space.

"The demand for improvements is not as great for the sport bicyclists as for the children," Councilman Robert P. Simmons said suggesting the council concentrate on providing safe routes, possibly on sidewalks, for children.

After initial quibbling over whether bicycle signs should be posted designating safe streets for riders to use, or designating unsafe streets not to be used, the council directed its staff to outline relatively safe bike paths within the city and report at the next meeting.

It also directed the police department to work with the town engineer in developing an ordinance to outline bicycle safety regulations and registration. The draft will be returned at the next meeting for consideration.

"This is a first step," Mayor Edward W. Colthurst told the audience. "It's about all we can do at this time."

The council agreed that the designation of bike paths coupled with registration and strict enforcement of bicycle regulations were about the only provisions it could make in a tight budget year.

Corte Madera Theater Wins Right To Raise Sign

Operators of the Cinema I Theater in Corte Madera last night won their appeal to the town council of planning commission denial of raising a sign along Highway 101.

The split 4-to-1 vote approving raising the sign six feet, came after Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff had expressed his displeasure over the appearance of the theater, and voted against the appeal.

"I don't think raising the sign will improve your patronage materially," Wagstaff told owner Nathan Blumenfeld.

He suggested Blumenfeld make his establishment "more esthetically attractive. You're landscaping is dying on the vine."

He also took issue with the $3 charge for admittance to the theater, saying such a charge makes it prohibitive for families to attend the theater.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

MORTUARY — Approved unanimously a planning commission recommendation that the C-1, local shopping district zone, include mortuaries. The planning commission approved Aug. 10 a use permit to San Francisco mortician Nicholas P. Daphne on condition the council approved the use .

Soviet Craft Continues Toward Earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space craft carrying moon rocks never touched by human hands sped toward earth today and Russian commentators said its mission opened the way for a "safer and cheaper" exploration of outer space.

The news agency Tass emphasized the recovery of the vehicle with lunar soil would be a "complex task." It said: As the area of possible landing is rather large, the search and retrieval of the return aparatus will be a complex task."

SHOW ADVANTAGE

If successful, Luna 16 would demonstrate what the Russians have contended all along — the great advantage of unmanned flights over much more costly manned missions

American experts said last July that if Apollo 11's landing craft had been piloted by a computer alone instead of by men, it would have probably crashed on the moon.

By contrast, these experts said, the Soviet unmanned Luna 15 that shadowed Apollo 11 around the moon crash landed near the Sea of Tranquility where astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. set down.

FLAWLESS MISSION

According to official Soviet reports Luna 16 carried out its mission flawlessly.

"The Luna 16 mission," said a Moscow television commentator, "Opens the way for a cheaper and safer exploration of outer space."

The soviet craft, hurled toward the moon Sept 12, softlanded on the lunar surface Sunday, scooped a bit of moon surface and carried out a "complex of technological operations."

An electric shovel aboard the craft collected Lunar soil, placed it into a sealed container aboard Luna 16's return apparatus which was lifted off atop a rocket Monday. It is scheduled to return to earth Thursday.

Younger is opposed by Democrat Charles O'Brien, chief deputy attorney general under Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch, who is retiring.

Alto Bowl Project Finally Approved

After a year-and-a-half of trying, Cal-Fong Investment Corp. last night got approval from the Mill Valley City Council for a density change which will allow construction of a 109-unit housing development in Alto Bowl.

By a 3-2 vote, with Councilmen Robert H. Andresen and Edward J. Boessenecker dissenting, the council agreed to let the company go ahead with plans for 104 garden cottages and five one-family residences on a 27.5-acre site. The area is zoned for three units per acre and the Cal-Fong plan calls for 3.96 units per acre.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard said she thought the plans represented a "significant difference" from a proposal calling for 4.3 units per acre which the council turned down earlier this year.

Attached to the council's approval were conditions calling for contracts for flood control work to be let and traffic arrangements having city approval before any development can begin.

Members of the audience, including representatives of the adjacent Alto-Sutton Manor and Scott Valley Homeowners' associations, argued against the plan as they have in the past on the grounds the project will contribute to a traffic problem around Edna McGuire School and on Lomita Drive and will complicate flood hazards in Alto Bowl.

A petition with 200 signatures opposing the plan was presented to Mayor George E. Wickham, although the mayor said the signatures included those of people from "Burlingame to Bolinas."

Andresen said the project was "trying to put a square peg in a round hole" because it proposes housing for young couples and some elderly and is "somewhat antichildren." He said it didn't make sense to build a development with few children near a school, and a development with elderly people some distance from shopping areas.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

INTERSECTION — Awarded a contract of $108,072 to Ghilotti Bros. of San Rafael for widening the intersection of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

REZONING — Continued to Nov. 16 consideration of an application for rezoning property near La Goma Street and Miller Avenue. The applicant, Peter Haywood, said he was amending the application and now planned to construct condominium townhouses instead of apartments.

SUBDIVISIONS — Approved a tentative subdivision map for the shelter ridge residential development, but continued until Oct. 5 consideration of a minor subdivision request for two lots near Mason and East Blithedale avenues.

MEETING — Scheduled for Nov. 10 a joint meeting with the city-county planning council.

SLIDE — Held over until a closed session at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 5 consideration of whether or not the city should spend $3,500 to determine the cause of the Miller Avenue slide.

BONDS — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 29 for a study session on possible bond issues.

The Canadian National Railway carried 13.8 million passengers in 1969 .

State Discussing Antioch Bridge Ferry

STOCKTON (UPI)—The state Division of Highways disclosed today that negotiations were under way with the Army for ferry passenger service during repairs of the Antioch Bridge.

Highways Administrator Tom Platt said the ferry would travel the San Joaquin River between Eddo's on the Sacramento County side and Driftwood on the Contra Costa County side. An Army landing barge would be used, he added.

The negotiations, Platt said, were concerned with who would man the barge and on insurance coverage for passengers. The state planned to start the service "as quickly as possible," he added.

The bridge was damaged during the Labor Day holiday weekend when the SS Washington Bear scraped fenders guarding the foundations of the south tower as it passed under the 180-foot lift span.

A division spokesman said the tower's foundation legs were bent, locking the span in the "up" position. Bridgetender Jack Davidson was stranded in his cabin until firemen lowered him to safety.

Davidson, at the time, said he was afraid of heights and would never return to the span because of his fear.

Platt said Davidson, a 10-year veteran with the division, was being reassigned to a lower bridge.

Original estimates of the damage were set at $500,000. However, a spokesman said a more thorough investigation placed damages at between $700,000 and $900,000.

Owners of the Washington Bear were sued recently for $950,000.

Repairs to the span were being made by the Peter Kiewit & Sons Construction Co. The spokesman said they would not be complete for at least five more months.

Credit Sales In Bay Area Under Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—At least six investigators for the Federal Trade Commission are investigating credit sales in the San Francisco Bay Area today, according to Charles Thurber, manager of the Better Business Bureau.

"These men are investigating whether the Federal Consumers Credit Protection Act is being enforced in the area," Thurber said.

He said the investigators were investigating all remifications of credit sales in the area involving advertising, instalment purchases and interest rates.

"The Better Business Bureau met with those in charge a week ago," Thurber said, "and offered cooperation in all ramifications of the problem."

Brush Fire Rages In Oakland Hills

OAKLAND (UPI)—A brush fire in the Oakland Hills raged out of control today, endangering homes near the Caldecott Tunnel.

Flames 50 feet high raced through dry grass sending a cloud of smoke over Oakland that was visible throughout the Bay Area.

Fire units were battling to prevent the fire from engulfing homes on the side of the tunnel which takes Highway 24 through the hills.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

Fire departments in a number of East Bay cities were alerted. In addition to handling emergency calls they were swamped with calls from persons who saw the smoke.

REAGAN

during its brief session this week to consideration of veto overrides. The meeting legally can last up to five days, but legislative leaders hoped to adjourn Wednesday.

There hasn't been a veto overriden by a legislature since Earl Warren was governor in 1946.

Senate Democrats made two futile attempts Monday and fell far short of gaining the necessary two-thirds vote. Needing 27 affirmative votes, each override attempt failed by 18-16.

One bill, by Senate Democratic leader George Moscone, would have provided presidential counselor Robert Finch and state Supreme Court Associate Justice Stanley Mosk retirement benefits for the full terms they didn't serve as lieutenant governor and attorney general, respectively. Now they are eligible only for partial term benefits.

The other bill, by Senate Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles, would have required the appointment of two legislators to the Coliseum Commission.

The Assembly met only briefly Monday and adjourned.

Although a small attendance had been expected, all but eight of the 120 lawmakers showed up for the first day.

One of the more irritated legislators was Harmer.

The conservative senator, normally one of Reagan's staunchest supporters, told newsmen he was "dismayed and disappointed" at the governor.

Harmer said Reagan telephoned him Sunday afternoon to inform him there were "some serious questions" about his bill.

"If you do have to veto the bill, I'd appreciate hearing about it without reading it in the paper," Harmer said he told Reagan.

"I'll take care of it," the Senator said the governor replied.

Forgery Suspect To Enter Plea

John Stephen Heckenberg, 19, of San Francisco, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of credit card forgery.

Heckenberg was arrested Sunday after he reportedly attempted to make a purchase at the Peg Leg clothing store in Sausalito with a credit card which was on a list of ones reported stolen or lost.

He is to return to court next Monday to enter a plea.

Hussein Sends Units To Check Tank Drive

Earlier, Syrian units were reported moving south toward Amman.

Heavy fighting broke out in Amman today amidst scenes of horro. An Arab correspondent who got a dispatch out of Amman said hundreds of houses had been destroyed and thousands of bodies were in the streets and under rubble. The death toll was said to exceed 10,000 with tens of thousands wounded.

Guerrilla broadcasts said King Hussein's palace was under fire.

The Palestinian Red Crescent said "thousands of children are dying in Amman of hunger and thirst and tens of thousands of wounded are dying due to lack of medical aid and the destruction of hospitals."

The International Red Cross said in Geneva the food situation in Amman was so critical its chartered DC6 had begun flying in food rather than medical supplies. It said 6.5 tons were flown in today and that the food situation in one Palestinian refugee camp outside Amman is "absolutely catastrophic" after six days of civil war.

The Egyptian information minister said he had received a message from guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat that the shelling of the Al Wahdat refugee camp on the outskirts of Amman had killed 7,000 persons and left 120,000 refugees homeless.

Israel announced that its hospitals will treat women and children and aged victims of the fighting in Jordan if Jordan reopens the Jordan River bridges to allow the wounded to cross.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Davan and Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev briefed the cabinet today on "security problems" but no word leaked out of Israeli military plans. The country itself was on full military alert.

Military sources in Mainz, Germany, said a strong American mechanized airborne force was making hasty preparations for a possible drop into Jordan.

The military newspaper Stars and Stripes quoted Maj. Gen. Donald V. Pattan, commanding general of the 8th Infantry Division, as saying, "We have no time phase and nothing is committed at this time. We're just to button up and make all plans for an airborne drop."

With the possibility of American intervention increasing, Egypt warned the United States against stepping in, saying this would threaten world peace. Egyptian Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Hiedal said intervention would endanger American lives even further.

Syria issued a similar warning.

Arab nations led by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt called a summit conference today in Cairo to try to end the war but the meeting appeared doomed to failure before it started when the principals involved in the fighting boycotted it.

King Hussein sent his military premier Brig. Mohammed Daoud. Guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat refused to go and told the Arab leaders "go back to your palaces because you . . . no longer make the decisions." The Syrian President, in Cairo, also refused to attend.

The Israeli cabinet was called into session in Jerusalem today to assess the situation and hear Premier Golda Meir report on her American arms quest. The British cabinet also met in London in special session and shortly afterwards the new appeal was sent to Russia.

The British appeal was delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Sir Duncan Wilson. Both Britain and the United States had appealed earlier to Russia to intervene with Syria to get the Baath government to pull its troops back out of Jordan.

POLICY

them from several sections of the capital.

There was some speculation in diplomatic quarters here that Israel, feeling threatened by the Syrian armor on the plains to the west, might intervene with air power to aid Hussein. However, there was no evidence whatsoever Israel actually was considering such action.

As word of Hussein's aid feeler came out, Roger P. Davies, deputy assistant secretary of state for Mideast affairs, met first with Jordanian Ambassador Ahmid Sharaf, then with Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin.

There was no word on what Davies and Rabin discussed, but Davies and Sharaf talked about the situation in general and how the Jordanian government could avail itself of two field hospitals the United States has contributed. The International Red Cross has not been able to get the hospitals into Jordan.

Sharaf said after his talk with Davies that his government had not asked for U.S. military intervention.

It was not clear exactly why Hussein had put his request in the form he did. However, it was assumed that he did not want to risk a flat rejection on the possibility of military intervention, believing it wiser to leave it up to the Western powers to decide what they could do best to aid him.

These areas total 4,000 to 6,000 acres, he said.

Whether policy on lands presently leased will be changed will be decided after meeting with the ranchers, Sansing said. He predicted Sept. 11 that rental agreements would be terminated within 18 months.

Three of six leased areas are within the Drake's and Limantour esteros area.

Although lands may be rented back after purchase, "included in the reservation of possession in some cases would be appropriate public access corridors and the right of the National Park Service to utilize certain portions of the land for development," Sansing indicated.

Already leased areas will be reexamined so that adjustments — if necessary — can be made to insure full public access, the park head said.

Sansing also said he would like to discuss with an interested rancher the possibility of setting up a model dairy farm and ranch which could be visited by the public.

Public ideas for other possible land uses in the seashore will be solicited by the National Park Service at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Room 311 of the Civic Center.

Funds Approved For Holding Pond

The Novato Sanitary District Board, in a special meeting last night, approved spending $2,000 for construction of a pond to store contents of the Novato plant digester tank while it is cleaned and renovated.

Cleaning and repair of the 500,000-gallon tank, which has been in operation for 15 years without cleaning, was budgeted at a total cost of $20,000 in the fiscal 1970-71 budget.

The board also accepted easement deeds for eight parcels of property on the Marin Golf and Country Club golf course through which lines were installed several years ago, but deeds were not previously accepted.

determined by the Federal Housing Administration. But there may be another drop in "points" charged buyers and sellers when such loans are placed. (One point is equivalent to 1 per cent on the face amount of the loan). The point system has been dropping for more than a year and is down to a total of two or three points.

There is some feeling among local bank officials, however, that the lowering of the prime rate was premature and resulted from government pressure on the banks. Most of them agree that there will be no dramatic additional supply of funds made immediately available, as there is presently a high "loan to deposit ratio" among California banks.

However, the present supply of money will continue to hold, it is believed, if depositors continue to take advantage of the high interest paid on savings accounts - and there is no immediate drop foreseen in these rates.

All bankers reached by the Independent-Journal said they believe there is bound to be a psychological effect on the economy and a stimulation in real estate activity.

Commercial banks across the country fell into line today behind major New York banks which cut their prime interest rates a half-point to 7.5 per cent Monday.

Belvedere Orders Dogs To Go

A Belvedere man will have to get rid of the 10 sled dogs he has had for years, the Belvedere Planning Commission decided last night.

Chairman George V. Banning said the commission denied a request from Robert I. Levorsen of 332 San Rafael Avenue to keep the dogs. Levorsen is a dog-sled fan, Banning said, and uses the dogs for exhibits and races in Alaska.

Levorsen had to apply for the permit because of a new ordinance restricting the number of dogs which can be kept to three.

Banning said three neighbors, citing possible pollution of Belvedere Lagoon, opposed the use permit.

Commissioners were also concerned with what would have been a "rather unusual precedent," Banning said.

The commission also referred to the city attorney for an opinion a request from Henry K. Mettier of 330 Beach Road for a variance to construct a new home on his property and use the present house as an accessory building.

The commission recommended to the city council adoption of an ordinance setting minimum lot sizes and frontages in single family residential zones similar to those for other zones.

16-Year-Old Hurts Leg In Cycle Crash

A 16-year-old Mill Valley boy was reported in good condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with a compound leg fracture and scalp cuts suffered in a Tamalpais Valley motorcycle accident yesterday.

Four other persons were injured, none seriously, in Marin automobile accidents yesterday and Sunday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The Mill Valley youth, Rickey E. Duerner, of 438 Wellesley Avenue, was injured when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Philip F. McGovern, 17, of 716 Cabin Drive, Mill Valley, at 5:20 p.m., the highway patrol said.

McGovern was westbound on Eastwood Way when Duerner turned onto Eastwood from Glenwood Avenue and the two collided, according to officers.

James H. Asselin, 52, of Novato, was treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and scrapes on his left arm after his car hit an embankment and overturned at 2 p.m. yesterday on Grandview Avenue in Novato near the Black Point Inn.

The patrol said Asselin, of 324 Grandview Avenue, said he swerved to avoid an oncoming car.

Richard P. Wahler, 18, of 5 Valley Circle, Mill Valley, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for cuts and bruises suffered when a car he was driving slid across Almonte Boulevard near Rosemont Avenue in Almonte and into the path of a car driven by David Miller, 46, of Daly City.

The patrol said Miller and a passenger, Marilyn Pickens, 30, of San Francisco, were also taken to Kaiser following the accident at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, but the hospital had no record of treating them.

Bolinas Quarantine To Students Sought

The quarantine at Bolinas Lagoon should apply to College of Marin students conducting Marine studies as well as to the general public, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared today by unanimous vote.

Louis H. Baar, acting as chairman in place of vacationing John F. McInnis, said college students were still using the lagoon, which has been declared off limits to the public because of water contamination and danger of hepatitis infection.

"To me it doesn't make sense," said Baar. "If it's quarantined, then everyone should be kept out." Otherwise, said Baar, outsiders would come to the lagoon, and seeing students digging for specimens or in boats, would assume that the quarantine had been lifted.

"Why flirt with the problem of hepatitis?" Baar said.

Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer, suggested that students could wear arm bands or bright jackets to identify them as sturents, but Baar insisted that this yould not deter the casual visitor, who would not take the time to ask what the arm bands or jackets meant.

"As a part-time resident of the area, I'd concur with Mr. Baar," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. He suggested that college students engaged in marine research use other areas like Suxbury Reef and Esteros areas in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors advised the College of Marin that students should stay clear of Bolinas Lagoon and offered to help the college find other areas for their studies.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

POLICE — Voted to ask the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to set up a county service area for police services, as recommended by the City-County Services Committee last night. Establishment of a county service area would allow communities in the unincorporated areas to get additional police protection if they are willing to pay for the added cost.

TAXES — Received a detailed report from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell showing an overall increase in taxes in every community in the county.

SHACKS — Asked the department of public works to come back in two weeks with photographs of dilapidated shacks in San Geronimo Valley to see what abatement action can be taken. The central citizens committee of San Geronimo Valley complained that shacks, posted as uninhabitable five years ago, are still being occupied, with no county enforcement.

Units Hunt Three Lost In Balloon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rescue units searching for a downed balloon and its three crewmembers today concentrated on two areas of the Atlantic Ocean off Cape Race, near St. John, Nfld.

Balloonists Rod Anderson, 32, his wife, actress Pamela Brown, 28, both New Yorkers, and the skipper, Briton Malcolm Brighton, 32, have not been heard from since 6 p.m. Monday. At that time, they radioed they were at 600 feet and descending. "We'll call you again when we hit the water."

The Coast Guard today said that searching for the balloon, "Free Life," were the cutters Ingham out of Norfolk, Va., the Duane, from Boston, and the Dallas, based on Governor's Island, New York, and a Royal Canadian aircraft from Halifax, N.S.

The status of the 80-foot, helium-filled balloon was "highly uncertain," the Coast Guard reported from its search and rescue center here. Two large areas roughly 450 miles southeast of St. John's, Newfoundland, were being searched, but there were no definite clues to the craft's location, a spokesman said. The search area included 52,000 square miles.

New Plan Is Sought On Creek Access

The Novato Park and Recreation Commission last night directed the recreation department staff to prepare new plans for access to Novato Creek Park from Novato Boulevard with parking to be provided behind the Novato Prehistory Museum.

Residents of San Miguel Way had protested previous plans to provide access from San Miguel Way and parking spaces to be located between rear property lines and the creek.

The Novato Parks and Recreation also:

ATTENDANCE — Heard a report that the August attendance at Novato recreation facilities, 56,463, was a drop of 47,045 from attendance in August 1969. The drop was attributed by Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, chiefly to decreased use of the Novato High School swimming pool in cooler weather.

PISCEANS — Agreed to cosponsor the Pisceans, a San Marin synchronized swimming group.

Decline In Enrollment Cuts Revenue

The Novato Unified School District board last night heard a report that low attendance figures would leave the district with $137,000 less revenue than expected when the fiscal 1970-71 budget was hammered out.

Enrollment in the district, 11,723 pupils as of Sept. 15, was expected to produce an average daily attendance 285 to 300 lower than anticipated, Supt. James G. Bunker told the board.

Savings in other parts of the budget would reduce the net loss of expected revenue to about $48,000, he said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

HIRING — Hired Lois Hellstern at $6,959 annually to teach at Hamilton Air Force Base School; Richard Lorraine at $8,108 for Hill Junior High School; Christine Morehead at $6,959 for Rancho School; Carlene Searway at $7,607 for Olive School; Nancy Thurmond at $8,183 for San Ramon School, and Harold Messenger at $11,232 to act as district purchasing agent.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Approved an agreement with San Francisco State College to provide for student teaching in district schools.

LUNCH PROTEST — Received a protest from a California School Employees Association representative that the district's contract with A.R.A. Slater Services to provide school lunches was of questionable legality and that Slater's interests were contrary to those of school cafeteria employees.

NEGOTIATIONS — Went into closed session to discuss teacher salary negotiations.

Pickets Up In Boycott Of Lettuce

Picketing of grocery stores started today as Cesar Chavez' Farm Workers Union pushed a boycott of lettuce not bearing the organization Aztec eagle union label.

Some 500 AFL-CIO United Farm Workers organizing committee members were bused from Salinas to San Francisco yesterday and attended mass at Sacred Heart Church as a prelure the picketing.

Lucky Stores in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley were hit by pickets this morning, according to Viviane Levine, Bay Area coordinator for the boycott strike of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

No store in Marin county had pickets today, but they would have "soon" she said. How soon, she would not say.

The farm workers pickets held a rally yesterday afternoon at Safeway in San Francisco, but the Safeway chain was not picketed, she said.

$253,000 Grant To Sonoma State

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Sonoma State College has been granted $253,000 in federal funds for student loans, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, reported yesterday.

The federal funds provide 90 per cent of the loan, with the remaining 10 per cent provided by the institution.

The funds were part of $236 million allocated nationwide to 2,092 institutions and nearly 650,000 students, Clausen said.

Lake Winnipesaukee, largest body of water in New Hampshire, covers 72 square miles.

The Sad Story Of Deaf Duncan— He Didn't Hear His Partner Bid

You may think that your opponents are nitwits of the first rank, but it would be a mistake to pay no attention at all to their bids. Even foolish opponents bid fairly normally, and you will get better results if you use the facts than if you disregard them. Consider the sad story of Deaf Duncan.

SAW HANDWRITING

Duncan took the first trick with the ace of hearts, drew a round of trumps and then hopefully led a low heart toward dummy. West discarded the ten of diamonds, and Duncan saw the handwriting on the wall. (He was deaf, not blind.)

East won with the ten of hearts and returned a low diamond. South stepped up with the ace of diamonds and led another heart, but East won and led a diamond to West's nine. West then returned a club, and South lost two hearts, a diamond and a club. Down one.

GOOD EARS

Deaf Duncan could have made his contract if he had good ears. East's opening bid of one heart surely promised a four-card suit. Hence there couldn't be any real chance of developing dummy's hearts in time to make the contract.

After drawing one round of trumps, South should lead a club, losing dummy's king to the ace. Declarer wins the diamond return, leads a trump to dummy in order to ruff a club, and then gives up the diamond trick, not caring whch defender wins the trick.

If West wins the diamond, he must return a diamond or a club; in either case declarer ruffs in dummy and discards a heart from his hand. If east wins the diamond, he may return a diamond or a club, with the same result; or East may return a heart, setting up dummy's queen. No return from either side can defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

♣ — J 9 8 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds with a rash partner, but jump to four diamonds with a normal or conservative partner. You want to shut the enemy out, but you don't want to get to a silly slam.

Traffic Safety Project Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $58,000 traffic safety project for Highway 101 in both Marin and Sonoma counties has been approved by the California Highway Commission.

The project calls for the removal or modification of existing obsolete guard rails and installation of additional new railing from 1.3 miles north of Atherton Avenue in Novato to the Todd Road overcrossing one mile north of Rohnert Park.

Griffith Park, which covers 4,200 acres in Los Angeles, is the largest municipal park in the world.

Sewer Work Engineering Firm Eyed

San Rafael City Council agreed last night to consider hiring an engineering firm to work on the planned $1.4 million sewer improvement project.

Councilmen authorized Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles to get proposals on the job and submit them to the council at its Oct. 5 meeting.

Rawles said outside help was needed because the Department of Housing and Urban Development requires that plans for the entire project be submitted at one time.

SEWER BONDS

Voters approved a $1,105,000 bond issue for the sewer work in June and the city is seeking a $289,000 grant from HUD to supplement the bond money.

If the project could have been handled in stages as originally proposed, the public works department could have handled the job, Rawles said. "But if we want participation of HUD we have to do it all at once."

Rawles said he didn't know how much it would cost to have an engineering firm take the job, but believed it would ask a fee of 7 or 8 per cent of the cost of the construction.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. said the intent is to have plans completed by Dec. 15. The city will have to seek an extension of time from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board which wanted the first three phases of the job done by Nov. 1

TIMETABLE

Under the proposed timetable for major sewer construction, work would get under way next April and be completed at the end of September 1971.

Listed as major sewer reconstruction jobs to start next April are:

From D Street and Bayview to Second Street and Francisco Boulevard, Irwin, Third, and Mary streets, Mission Avenue and Park Street, Fourth Street to Santa Margarita Drive, Grand Avenue from Third Street to Belle Avenue, Highway 101 frontage road, Paloma Avenue, Lincoln Avenue and Stevens Place, Mountain View Avenue from Grand Avenue to Sienna Way, Fourth and F streets and Fifth Avenue, Seaway, and Fifth Avenue from K Street to Sirard Lane.

Minor jobs scheduled to be done in November 1971, are Clark Street from San Rafael Avenue to Bayview Street, Court Street from Fourth to Mission Avenue, First from D to C streets, Marin Street from Bayview Street to Clorinda Avenue and Taylor Street from B to C Street.

Minor jobs scheduled for May 1972 are Third Street and Francisco Boulevard, Third Street from Lincoln Avenue to Tamalpais Avenue, Treaner Street from B to C street, and Miramar and Miraflores avenues.

Drainage District Plans Hit A Snag

Formation of an East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District, long in the planning, ran into a two-week delay last night when the San Rafael City Council sought assurances that a levee would be constructed.

The district would cover lands on both sides of Highway 17, roughly from just beyond Bellam Boulevard to the junction of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Highway 17.

Debate flared over whether the proposed assessment district or Holiday Magic, owner of diked tidelands, would be responsible for an improved levee along San Rafael Bay.

Richard Duncan, president of Quail Hill Co., owner of filled land south of Highway 17, said the assessment district move wouldn't have started "if we knew we had to take over the levee."

Representatives of Holiday Magic said it would be unfair to place the burden of the levee on one property owner.

Engineer Carlos Gonzalez said 70 per cent of the property owners involved signed the petition for formation of a district with the understanding that the levee wasn't part of district responsibility.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said the city had to know who was going to improve the levee and when it was to be done before entering into agreements.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette explained the drainage plan was based on elevations of four feet above mean sea level, with the levee to protect the area.

Councilmen postponed several steps toward formation of the district until their Oct. 5 meeting hoping the levee matter will be resolved by that time.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

JOBS LET — Awarded Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera a contract to make drainage improvements on Bret Harte Road and replace a bridge on Forbes Avenue at Quarry Road at a cost of $18,801; Ghilotti Brothers Inc. of construct a retaining wall to precnstruct a retaining wall to prevent slides on Terradillo Avenue at a cost of $4,362; and Bresnan-Dalecio Inc. of San Rafael a contract for resurfacing stretches of 11 streets at a cost of $66,476, about half the resurfacing projects slated for 1970-71. All firms receiving contracts were low bidders.

HIRING — Authorized hiring Douglas Brown as an assistant civil engineer at $954 a month and of Robert J. Cunha as a patrolman at $812 a month.

HOUSE DANGER — Voted 3-1 to start abatement proceedings to tear down a house in danger of sliding at 33 Maywood Way if satisfactory improvements aren't made in two weeks, with Mayor C. Paul Bettini, who wanted to start abatement proceedings immediately, dissenting. Councilman John A. Miskimen was absent.

The land was designated agricultural preserve by Marin County, but has since been annexed to San Rafael.

LIBRARY STUDY — Approved an agreement whereby the Consulting Organization of San Francisco, will undertake the second phase of a master plan for the city library system at a cost of $7,000.

PARK LAND — Took under study a request from Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ponseti of 74 Robinhood Drive to purchase an unused portion of Victor Jones Park, a triangular strip of 1,901 square feet adjacent to the Ponseti lot.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Oct. 5 at San Rafael City Hall.

Sausalito Vehicle Control Plan To Be Discussed

A controversial vehicle control plan for Sausalito, prepared by Sacramento traffic engineer Jackson Faustman, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

Faustman's plan prepared for the city at a cost of $3,000, includes three proposals. The first, which the engineer estimates would cost the city $440,000 a year, would encourage individuals to use a parking facility at the city's north end (which would be provided), but would allow cars downtown with no restrictions.

The second plan, estimated to cost $470,000 annually, would allow no vehicles, except perhaps sightseeing buses and emergency vehicles, downtown.

And the third proposal, at a cost of $500,000, would feature a permit system, complete with checkpoints, to allow only authorized vehicles into the city and restrict sightseers and tourists to the northern parking lot.

Man Fined $100 For Pot Charge

John Edwin Hardcastle, 25, of Bolinas, has been placed on probation for one year and fined $100 by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possessing marijuana.

Hardcastle was arrested April 26 in Bolinas when an off-duty deputy sheriff chased him down Overlook Road and cornered him in a backyard. The deputy said that Harcastle, who was nude had gone up to three girls and tried to embrace them.

He had a marijuana cigarette wedged between his fingers, the deputy said.

San Anselmo Tour Of Schools Set

A tour of school facilities has been scheduled for Oct. 3 at 10 a.m. by the San Anselmo School District Board.

The tour will begin at Brookside School and then proceed to Isabel Cook, Red Hill, Wade Thomas, and Yolansdale schools in that older. About 45 minutes will be spent at each school.

The district's two other schools, Hidden Valley and Sleepy Hollow schools were toured Sept. 13 .

NWP Is Hit With Charge Of Pollution

Mayor C. Paul Bettini last night urged that the state Public Utilities Commission "clamp down" on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for "pollution" of its right-of-way in San Rafael.

Bettini's blast came after the council received a letter from the commission asking for comment on its proposal for a general order prohibiting pollution of railroad rights-of-way by railroad corporations.

"This is a thorn in my side," Bettini said. "We've directed letters to clean up the right-of-way and they never reply, and continue to pollute the railroad right-of-way."

The city should ask the commission to investigate, he said. "We have been abused by the railroad."

Jury Trial Set For Pot Charge

Craig Ritchie Westling, 23, of Inverness, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin superior court to a charge of possessing marijuana March 23 at his home.

The case was set for jury trial the week of Jan. 18, the same time as he is due to be tried on a pot charge stemming from a drug raid in Inverness in May, 1969.

Westling was arrested in March when a constable went to his home to warn Westling to keep his eight dogs tied up and noticed pot in his kitchen.

Veterinarian Wins Horse Clinic Permit

Dr. James Steere, Bolinas, veterinarian, will be allowed to establish a clinic for horses and other large animals on a part of the Corda Ranch just south of the Sonoma County line.

He was granted a use permit yesterday by Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns.

Steere said he will buy seven acres of land from Lester Corda at 11111 Redwood Highway, on the west side of Highway 101 near the Sonoma County boundary. He plans a clinic, paddocks and pasture area for convalescing animals.

Cairns said Steere must submit a layout of his clinic and landscaping plans for a design and sign review, and must get a land division (separating the seven acres from the Corda Ranch) from the county planning commission.

The zoning administrator also granted Stanley Weigel permission to divide his two-acre parcel at 3614 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, into two building sites of one acre each.

He granted Frederick Longfellow permission to keep a horse at 23 Fire Road in Woodacre, and for Monica Humble to keep a small pony at 322 Calle Del Mar, Stinson Beach.

Batik Class Reopened For Evening Students

A class in traditional batik and innovative tie-and-dye fabric techniques has been reopened at Redwood High School for evening students, beginning at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Carolyn Toner, designer, will teach. Sign-ups will be taken in Room 113.

Youth Fined In Store Break-In

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Michael Thomas Hall, 22, of Larkspur, on probation for one year and fined him $250 for breaking a window and stealing articles from a Larkspur store on May 14 .

Noting that Hall was intoxicated at the time of the burglary, the judge said that he was receiving a light sentence because it seemed an unusual case. He ordered Hall, however, to pay for the window and to refrain from drinking excessively.

Hall was arrester after an officer saw him break a window at Key West Leathers, enter the store and leave.

Classified Employees Pay Hiked

Tamalpais High School District classified employees were given a new salary schedule last night by district trustees. (For story on revival of athletes hair-length controversy in the district, see sports, page 29)

The change meant a 6.2 per cent raise for most workers, and a new, five-step pay scale instead of the former seven-step scale. The raises mean about $62,000 more payroll in the district this year, according to Assistant Supt. Robert D. Torrey.

The district' negotiating team — which wrapped up its chores with an hour-long closed session before last night's trustee meeting — was praised by spokesmen for the employees.

Trustees, however, did not approve the workers' request for 20-day vacations after nine years' service, requiring instead 15 years for 20 days.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

CONTINUATION SCHOOL — Requested James L. Pierce, director of instruction, to continue with plans to establish a single, daytime school in place of the evening continuation schools at the district's three high schools. But the board also asked him to explore possibilities of cooperation with San Rafael or the county schools office on combined facilities for continuation classes or vocational training.

EVENING SCHOOL — Approved 4-0 with Trustee Bette Wallace abstaining, the semester's list of classes for adult evening school. Mrs. Wallace objected strongly to an astrology class planned at Sir Francis Drake High, paying instructor ancy Bennet $7.50 per hour.

EXTRA SERVICE — Voted extra pay for special duties by : Marion Belden, work experience counselor at Tamalpais High, $150 for the year; Tam freshman basketball coach Laurence Mayer, $250; Drake High tennis coach Reynolds Crutchfield, $172; Redwood High soccer coach Patrick Bacchus, $200; Pamela Deschler, girl's swimming track and field coach, $500; freshman football coach Robert Troppmann, $250, and counselor Judd Gee, $250.

DRIVER EDUCATION — Raised from $30 to $33 the fee for adult driver education training.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS — Raised daily pay from $26.50 to $30.

BUS CONTRACTS — Approved contracts with the county superintendent of schools to provide (through Greyhound Lines) bus service for students in Marin City at $93 a day and with Marin City Transportation Co. for service to students in Bolinas, Stinson Beach and Muir Beach, at $96 a day.

CONTRACTS — Added $2,300 from special reserves to the architectural contract with Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons for a budgeted total of $233,300 for remodeling at Drake. The action settled a controversy raised Aug. 17 over architects' fees for the job.

STAFF ADDITIONS — Approved request for hiring an attendance clerk for each high school, at a total cost this year of $19,500. Action on recommended audio-visual technician hirings and increased allowances for instructional aides and campus supervisors was postponed to an unspecified date.

ORCHESTRA — Approved continuing paying Marin Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo at his longtime rate of $15 per hour for the orchestra's training sessions at Tam. Torrey explained that the conductor travels from Palo Alto to conduct the orchestra, and that the class pays its own way.

$4.5 Million Starfish Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed and sent to President Nixon a bill authorizing $4.5 million for research on how to control the Crown of Thorns starfish —a sea animal which has been destroying the coral reefs around many Pacific islands.

An unexplained population explosion among the starfish has caused the destruction of some reefs, endangering the natural protection of some islands. The measure directs the Interior Department and the Smithsonian Institution to work with Hawaii and other islands in the U.S. Pacific territories to attack the problem.

Jerrold Ladar Takes Tam High Board Seat

Jerrold Ladar, 36, of 30 Keats Drive, Mill Valley, last night took his seat as a trustee of the Tamalpais High School District.

He was the only candidate to file for election to the vacancy created by the resignation of Gloria Melbostad, and will fill out her term which runs until 1973. The election, set for Sept. 15 was called off.

Ladar introduced his wife, Joyce, and two young sons in the audience, after the brief swearing-in ceremony.

Board chairman David D. Ring soon gave the new trustee a chore — heading the district's transportation study committee, over which Ring presided last year, and on which Ladar previously served as a citizen.

Ring asked Ladar to report on the proposed addition of one more member to the committee, and said the panel is being revived to make a study of the district's entire transportation policy.

Ladar, an attorney in the U.S. Attorney General's office in San Francisco, has been active in other Tamalpais and Mill Valley school district affairs.

Studio Without Kitchen Asked

The Rev. Robert Hayburn, who has been trying to get approval for a studio apartment above his garage at 27 Portola Avenue, Inverness Park, is willing to settle for a guest house with no kitchen facilities.

He appeared before zoning administrator Werner Von Gundell yesterday with an application for a sideyard setback variance. His attorney, Gil Medeiros, said a variance may not be necessary because the accessory building has been in existence since 1948, and the only change since then has been wall and interior remodeling.

Von Gundell held up a decision until he can get a ruling from the county counsel on the need for a variance.

Hotel Fire Death Toll Set At 19

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The final death toll at the Ponet Square Hotel fire of Sept. 13—the city's worst structural fire—has been set at 19.

The coroner's office said Monday it expected no more bodies would be found in the rubble. The gutted four-story structure was ordered demolished for safety reasons.

One of the victims, a teen-age girl, died when she jumped from the 69-year-old building. The others—10 of whom remained unidentified — were burned to death inside.

Investigatorsr said they had not yet determined the cause of the blaze.

Homeowner Taxes Going Up $30

The average Marin homeowner will pay about $30 more in property tax this year than he did last year because of rising tax rates.

Total tax rates in Marin for this year will range from a low of $8.567 per $100 assessed valuation in the Nicasio area to a high of $13.885 in Bel Marin Keys, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell has announced.

The total tax rate includes the basic county rate of $2.575, plus rates imposed by cities, school and special districts.

Overall, the average tax rate in Marin for this year will be $11.684 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 54.8 cents over last year. This means that the owner of a $30,000 home will pay $718.56 in taxes, where last year he paid $684.86. (These figures include the homeowners exemption of $750 in assessed value.)

Mitchell explained that in general, the western part of Marin has lower taxes because it has fewer special districts and no cities. Bey Marin Keys has a record high tax rate because the community services district there voted a tax increase for dredging improvements.

The county auditor-controller picked out 16 representative tax code areas to compare this year's tax rate with last year's and to show how much tax increase can be expected in various communities.

Following is the expected tax increase in tax payment based on a home with a market value of $30,000 with the 1970-71 tax rate, the 1969-70 tax rate in parenthesis and the increase in tax payment.

CITIES

Belvedere, $11.848 ($11.595), $15.38; Corte Madera, $11.595 ($11), $36.59; Fairfax $12.48 (11.29), $73.19; Larkspur, $11.165 ($10.99), $10.77; Mill Valley, $12.524 ($11.565), $59.98; Ross $11.815 ($11.725), $5.54; San Anselmo, $12.365 ($12.015), $21.53; San Rafael, $10.643 ($10.36), $17.40; Sausalito $11.23 ($10.74), $30.13; Novato, $11.995 ($11.065), $57.19, and Tiburon $12.315 ($11.77), $33.52.

Unincorporated Areas

West Marin, $9.335 ($9.08), $15.68; Terra Linda, $12.72 ($11.825), $55.04; Marinwood, $12.72 (11.81), $55.97; Kentfield, $11.105 ($10.945), $9.85, and Loma Verde, $11.085 ($10.40), $42.13.

A breakdown of taxes levied shows that 60.8 per cent goes to schools, 22.5 per cent to county government, 8.4 per cent to special districts, and 8.3 per cent to city government.

"While it is no consolation," said Mitchell, "the average total tax rate in the Bay Area will be higher than that in Marin County. Again, it is unfortunate that the Governor's tax program did not pass because it would have somewhat alleviated the situation."

The auditor-controller blamed the state Legislature for the bulk of the increase in the county tax rate, which went up from $2.395 last year to $2.575 this year. He said the state shifted responsibilities to local government without funds to finance those responsibilities.

For example, said Mitchell, the state shifted about a million dollars in added cost to the county for welfare and the Medi-cal programs, and at the same time reduced the state contribution to the mental health program by almost $600,000.

San Anselmo To Discuss Parking

The San Anselmo City Council, meeting at 8 p.m. today, will consider a report from its street and traffic committee on ways of encouraging offstreet parking within the city.

The report, held over from the last council meeting, recommends among other things that one off-street parking space be provided for each dwelling unit to be constructed in the future, and, that variance fees for off street parking structures be lifted.

The council will also discuss and forward its opinions on two proposed county ordinances regulating multiple occupancy of single family dwellings and inhabitation of campers, cars, buses, and panel trucks and the discontinuance of the 8 a.m. fire alarm horn on weekends and holidays.

Fire Group Asks For Hall Improvements

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night reiterated its year-old stand that fire protection improvements must be made at the Marin County Juvenile Hall before the county seeks to annex it to the Marinwood Community Services District.

Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said the commission received a letter from Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, reporting that the county had delayed closing its fire substation at juvenile hall until the end of the fire season, probably about Nov. 15.

The county supervisors will seek to annex the hall to the Marinwood district next year, Bonfield said. Earlier this year, the supervisors had planned to close the substation as of July 1, but postponed the action several times.

The fire commission first took the stand in September 1969 that the county must improve water supplies and bring buildings up to code requirements before the county property can be annexed, Bonfield explained.

The commission last night approved a mutual fire aid pact with Hamilton Air Force Base, and passed it on to the community services district board for action tonight.

Bonfield said he told the commission that Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley homeowners have received a break on insurance rates, with the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau improving the Marinwood rating from Class 6 to Class 5, and parts of Lucas Valley from Class 10 to Class 5.

Hearing Set For Three In Raid

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Oct. 6 for three persons arrested in a narcotics raid on an Irwin Street garage in San Rafael last Thursday.

Charged with sale of heroin, possessing heroin for sale and sale of dangerous drugs was Donald Dean Oliver, 35, of San Rafael.

Lynlie Katherine Davison, 22, of Bodega Bay, is accused of possessing methamphetamine and a hypodermic needle, and Larry Ray Minard, 25, of Fairfax, of misdemeanor counts of using heroin and methamphetamine and having a needle.

The garage at 516 Irwin Street had been under surveillance by police because of the large amount of traffic seen there.

Rohnert Park Passes Pigeon Restrictions

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved a compromise ordinance regulating the keeping of pigeons.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the ordinance would permit the two residents who now have pigeons to continue as a nonconforming use, but would place strong restrictions on others.

Under the ordinance that was introduced, a permit would be required from the council including an application fee of $25. No section of any building housing pigeons would be permitted within 75 feet of any structure on adjacent properties.

Callinan said the distance requirement would probably bar any further keeping of pigeons in residential areas because of lot sizes. The ordinance also sets a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment for any violations.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

INTERVIEWS — Set a closed meeting for next Monday at 7 p.m. to interview candidates for the recreation commission.

WELL — Heard Callinan report that the city's new water tank and well are in operation.

CHILD CARE — Granted a use permit to Susan C. Powell to operate a child care facility at the Faith United Presbyterian Church on Arlen Drive.

SIGNS — Asked Callinan to prepare an ordinance regulating the placement and size of political campaign signs.

Drive For San Geronimo Lighting Plan Rescheduled

The drive for signatures to form a lighting district in San Geronimo Valley will be renewed in an effort to get them within a month, said Mary Bochetti, secretary of the San Geronimo Valley Association.

The association had 140 signatures in July but has not obtained any since. At last night's meeting it was decided to renew the effort to get the necessary 300 signatures.

Purpose of the district is to place 348 street lights in Woodacre, Forest Knolls, San Geronimo and Lagunitas.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger of the Marin Municipal Water District told the members that if the $11.5 million bond issue passed in the November general election, 90 per cent of the water mains in the valley would be replaced, according to Mrs. Bochetti.

Bolinas-Stinson School Meeting Not Held

Last night's meeting of the Bolinas-Stinson School District Board was not held because the district's architect did not have new construction plans ready for presentation to the board, according to Avis Pattison, school secretary.

Mrs. Pattison said the board will meet next Monday at 8 p.m. in Bolinas School to discuss the effect of the recently defeated $210,000 bond issue and plans for new construction at the school.

Youths Charged With Pot Counts

Clayton Carr Oliver, 18, and Donald William Rodriguez, 19, both of Corte Madera, were told yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to return to court Sept. 30 to find out if their cases have been accepted for disposition in juvenile court.

Charged with cultivating marijuana they were arrested Sept. 13 after sheriff's deputies saw them watering four suspected pot plants off Paradise Drive.

Two young women arrested with them, Sandra Estell Hinkle, 18, of Larkspur, and Laura Lee Arbuckle, 18, of San Rafael, were not charged.

James Cook, an English naval officer, took possession of Australia for Britain in 1769.

Extra Time On Smokeless Jets Vetoed

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan has vetoed a bill by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, that gave airlines additional time to convert to "smokeless" jet engines.

The governor said he vetoed the bill at the urging of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District, which had objected especially to a provision that would have given enforcement powers over airlines to the state Air Resources Board.

A 1969 state law gave the powers to the Los Angeles district for aircraft operating within the district. McCarthy's bill would have made the law apply statewide, thus requiring its enforcement by the state board.

The 1969 law gave the airlines until Jan. 1, 1972, to convert their engines. McCarthy's bill would have extended the deadline by one year.

The governor said he was sympathetic to the problem of the airlines in getting enough conversion kits, but said that the 1969 law provided for exemptions if the kits were not available in large enough numbers by the deadline.

Preliminary Hearing Set On Drug Charge

A preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of dangerous drugs against Edward Michael Upchurch, 18, of 212 Baker Street, Petaluma, was set yesterday for Oct. 20 at 2 p.m. in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Upchurch, released on his own recognizance by Judge Alexander J. McMahon, had been arrested Sept. 6 by Petaluma police, who said they found two red pills and marijuana in his possession.

TV Star To Attend Concours

By MOLLY MARIN

The Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home will host a reception at the Silverado Country Club in Napa on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Galloway will serve as personal emissaries of Raymond Burr, honorary chairman of the 1970 Silverado Concours d'Elegance. Mr. Galloway is Sgt. Ed Brown in the television program "Ironside."

Past presidents of the Circle and Mrs. Gordon Wright, concours chairman, will host a luncheon at noon Sunday for honorary judges and honored guests in the Patio Room of the Silverado Club.

Circle members participating are Mmes. Gerald Elbert, Peter Knowles, William Keplinger, Virginia Collbran, Mildren Montgomery and Marianne Dant, circle president.

COORDINATOR OF volunteers at American National Red Cross's Marin County Chapter in San Rafael, Deborah Kimball will leave this fall for two years of graduate work at University of Wisconsin in economics of under developed areas.

On a Lyle Fellowship work program in 1968-69, she traveled to a tiny village near Cali, Columbia, to study their social problems, help them market their products, plan a school and help secure a teacher for the village which could only provide education for their children up to fourth grade. She will be replaced at the Red Cross by Linda Partle.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Royce of Novato have returned from a vacation to Vancouver Island.

They visited with former Novato residents, Mr. and Mrs. David Suling at Salmon Point resort, Campbell River. They took a ferry from Port Angeles, Wash., to Victoria and then traveled inland down the Campbell River by trailer to Gold River, a newly built logging community, completely modern with post office, school, coffee shop and community hall in the Nimpkish valley.

From Gold River they went by boat to Nootka Sound, an Indian Village where they were served pie and coffee by the Indians, who performed a ceremonial dance.

Men with famious names who stopped at the sound during early days of exploration were Captain Cook, Vancouver and Bodego-Quadra.

VACATIONING IN Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Connell of San Rafael.

FIVE MARINITES have been welcomed as new provisionals of the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

New members are Mrs. George Lent Howard of Fairfax, Mrs. Richard L. Kress, Novato, Mrs. Seaver Page and Miss Lorna Zander of Sausalito and Miss Virginia Poust of Mill Valley.

The members will work in the volunteer program of the hopsital and assist with the 1971 Mardi Gras Ball.

Marin Women

Gloria Steinem Accuses Hefner

Women's liberation writer Gloria Steinem, in a recent confrontation-interview with Hugh Hefner, accused the publisher of Playboy Magazine of turning women into "objects . . . like being on a meat hook."

Hefner in turn dismissed the Women's Lib Movement as "foolishness."

The tough, lots-of-give-and-little-take dialogue, published in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, caused Miss Steinem to conclude, "What Playboy doesn't know about women could fill a book."

SHE ALSO accused Hefner of not only ignoring Women's Lib, but dismissing it in a staff memo as "our natural enemy."

In the taped session of Hefner's famous Chicago townhouse, Miss Steinem asked Hefner if he had ever talked to anybody in the Women's Lib movement.

He answered: "No. Well, I've met a few . . . what annoys me most about this Women's Lib thing is that, with so many more important problems around today, women shouldn't be wasting time on this foolishness. I don't think that in the generation or two immediately ahead, women have any major beefs. They have all the opportunities that are really important to their human potential.

"Second, I think that the militant feminists really want to be men, and I wouldn't want to live in a society with no man-woman differences."

IN TURN, Miss Steinem insisted, "Militant feminists do not want to be men; then want to be themselves. Women went through a period of believing they had to behave like men in order to make it in society, just as black people went through a period of wanting to be white. But we're mostly past that."

Answered Hefner, "I still think the militant feminists are pathetic. There's no comparison to the racial problems, because racial differences don't matter and biological ones do."

MISS STEINEM: "They matter for nine months if one chooses to have children. More than that we don't really know. You're partly responsible for Women's Lib, in a way. You supplanted brute strength as a symbol of maleness with sports cars and appliances. If men don't play their "warrior role," women don't have to play their "mother of warriors" role."

HEFNER: "I don't understand why feminists aren't grateful to us, to the Playboy philosophy. I didn't pick them out as special enemies, you know, they picked me first."

MISS STEINEM: "But don't you understand that you've made women objects, more easily exchanged than sports cars? It's like being on a meat hook. And by Playboy standards, women are objects that become useless with age."

HEFNER: "I'm all in favor of women being able to vote, own property and all that. But I want women to be attractive to men."

MISS STEINEM: "Well, I want men to be attractive to women. But I don't want their whole identity to rest on that. There are times when a woman reading Playboy feels a little like a Jew reading a Nazi manual."

HEFNER: "That's ridiculous. Obviously, women have had a non-human role for centuries, but that's because of the Judaic-Christian concept. Playboy reflects some of this, but the major thing you can say about Playboy is its fight against these things."

MISS STEINEM: "Then why did you personally turn down an objective survey of the Women's Liberation Movement and write a memo calling for a male journalist to ridicule Women's Lib? I think you called it 'our natural enemy.'"

HEFNER: "I know how the women around here feel. I think I know what they want, what makes them happy."

MISS STEINEM: "You sound a little like a good-hearted plantation owner who's deeply hurt when his childlike slaves start rebelling. Why don't you feel everybody and do an accurate article on the Women's Movement?"

HEFNER: "Well, I'll wait and see how I feel about this article."

TASHA, THE 2-year-old daughter of skating stars Tommy Allen and Juanita Percelly (Mrs. Allen) has good foot and ankle control on the ice, according to her parents. Although Tasha seems to enjoy traveling around the country with her parents, they hope to settle in Las Cruces, N.M., by the time she is of school age. (UPI Telephoto)

Ice Skating Couple Travel With Two-Year-Old Daughter

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)— Bringing up baby presents no particular problems for a team of precision ice skaters who are husband and wife and who travel with their toddler most of the year.

"Travel doesn't seem to bother her at all," said Mrs. Tommy Allen of daughter Tasha, 2. "When she sees the suitcases, she stacks up her books and toys and is ready to go "bye-bye." She's been traveling with her skating star parents since she was two weeks old.

The Allens (Mrs. Allen is billed professionally as Juanita Percelly) are part of the Holiday on Ice troupe and appear in 32 cities across the tour each year.

Although most of the other members of the show's cast live in trailer camps, the Allens prefer hotels. "We have more room and can move around more freely," they said. "We usually rent a suite so Tasha can have her own room."

Both said they try to keep the blonde-haired, blue-eyed Tasha on a schedule, but admitted that she doesn't take a nap in the afternoon and usually goes to bed late.

"After a show we usually go out and when we come in Tasha likes to get up and play," Mrs. Allen said in an interview. "But she sleeps late the next day." Mrs. Allen said that sometimes babysitters are upset because Tasha stays up so late. They use professional babysitting agencies in the cities where they perform. "But I feel you should raise your child the way you want," Mrs. Allen said. "I don't think it's necessary to have to read up on how to raise a child. We're doing it our way and Tasha is healthy and happy

As for the problem of young playmates for Tasha, Mrs. Allen said it isn't solved. "There really aren't any children she can play with since most of them live in the trailer camps during the tours. With the babysitters and us, she's around grownups most of the time," she said.

The Allens said they hope to settle down year-round in their home in Las Cruces, N.M., by the time their daughter is of school age.

"But I could never just sit at home and do nothing," Mrs. Allen, 26, said. "After traveling for 20 years, that would be hard."

She was born into a circus family in Frankfurt, Germany, and joined the family acrobatic act at the age of 5. A few years later the Percelly Family joined one of the European companies of Holiday on Ice, and Mrs. Allen changed from tumbling tights to skating costumes. She has been performing with the American company for the past nine years.

Her husband started with the company at the age of 16. Born in Minnesota, he won the National Novice skating title and the Midwest Junior and Senior titles in 1955.

In 1956, he took his eighth and final test to become Gold Medalist, the highest award for amateurs. He

Rumor About Selling Fingernails Has Persisted For Generations

DEAR HELEN:

Caughtcha!

You said there is no truth in the "rumor" that you can sell a one-inch long fingernail to a cosmetic company for $50. I happen to know that Revlon will pay good money for them. — SMART

DEAR SMART:

I sent your "facts" to Revlon and received the following reply:

DEAR HELEN:

For serveral generations a rumor has persisted that a friend of a friend sold her long finernails to Revlon for $50. This has never been true, and we are at a loss to explain how the tale started or why it flourishes. Your helping to eliminate further growth of the canard by labelling it as totally untrue would save many a girl from nursing along Mandarin length nails in the mistaken hope of reaping great financial rewards. We work to make it possible for women to enjoy lovely nails — on their own hands. Sincerely yours, ANNE MEREDITH, REVLON "

DEAR HELEN:

I guess there's always room for one more "What is a Mother?" so here's mine:

A mother is the one who:

Borrows money from you and when she pays you back she puts in some extra.

Calls your hamster a rat when you first get it but when it dies she's as sad as you are and she helps you bury it.

Gets a part time job so she can buy you more stuff without bothering your Dad about bills.

Changes the filter on the fish aquariums when you're too tired.

Hunts all over town for that one dress or certain pair of shoes you want.

Listens to your secrets and you know she won't tell anyone — and tells you hers too.

Buys you something for your birthday and then says it's from your brother because he forgot to get you anything.

Cheers you up when you're sad and takes good care of you when you're sick.

Makes the best spaghetti sauce in the world even though it's never the same twice.

Gives you a VIP tour of where she works.

She's the one you'd rather have as a mother than anyone else you ever knew.

Helen, I hear so many other kids complaining about their parents that I just had to write and tell you mine are the best. — L.B. AGE 13

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a little overweight and this guy teases me. I asked him not to make me the butt of joke, and he said, "Why not, when you've got a joke of a butt?" Is that kind? — MAD

DEAR MAD:

No, but kinda clever. Why not compliment this guy on his fast comebacks and maybe he'll start playing up to you instead of playing you down. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

placed second in the National Juniors and was made an alternate on the World Team in 1958. He joined the professional company the next year.

The Allens have been skating partners for three years.

"When Tasha sees us during the show, she recognizes us right away and yells out, "Daddy," Mrs. Allen said "She seems fascinated."

Tasha, however, may have her eye on the ice, too. She already has skates, the smallest pair the company that donated them ever made. Her parents said she already has good foot and ankle control.

Ninety Per Cent In Agreement

On one point — whether husbands and wives should share in family decision making —the views of young people and their elders are in surprisingly close agreement, according to a survey conducted by University of Wisconsin sociologists. Among 66 families, each with grandparents, parents and at least one college-age member, over 90 per cent in each age group favored joint decision making.

Answers to other questions, however, showed only a widening generation gap. A belief that the gap is now the greatest ever was the sole other point of agreement.

For School Girls

Sewing for the classroom? Don't forget the two-in-one outfit that's the latest look for school girls of all ages. It's the pants-plus-dress costume. Make the short tunic dress for school in a soft pinwale corduroy with white collar and cuffs. Wide-leg pants in the same fabric can be added for after-school wear.

Search For Gonorrhea And Pediculosis Recommended

A search for peduculosis (crab louse infestation) and gonorrhea might well become part of a routine gynecologic examination.

Albert Altchek, MD, recommends such a search in an editorial in the official journal of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. He reports an upsurge of both conditions in all strata of society, especially among adolescents and young adults.

Pediculosis, as gonorrhea, is readily spread through physical contact. It is also spread by interchange of infected clothing and from toilet seats. It is marked by intense itching. An individual who suspects he may have contracted this infestation should seek help from a physician.

"The preferred form of therapy," Dr. Altchek advises, is the use benzene hexachloride in shampoo, cream or lotion form.

The cowgirl look, with lots of fringe and buckskin, brings shades of the Old West to the classroom this fall. New buckskin garments are often made of cotton suede with a crushed pile surface. Cowgirl suedes are often seen in gaucho pants outfits with short belted jackets.

Many Widows Face Future Alone And Assume Dual Role

Facing the future alone is just one of the hardships a widow encounters. If she has children, she may have to assume the dual role of father and mother.

And there's a good chance the widow will choose not to remarry, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

Latest statistics for widows show:

Only 3 of every 10 between 21 and 25 remarry

Only 2 of every 10 between 26 and 30 remarry

Only 2 of every 15 between 31 and 35 remarry

Only 1 of every 15 between 36 and 40 remarry

A March, 1970 report by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association and the Life Underwriter Training Council stated that 725,000 women became windows in one recent year, including 318,000 whose husbands died before they had reached 65. More than 20 per cent of American households were headed by widows that year.

Of these numbers, some will remarry. However, the majority will remain single and raise families alone.

Does this necessarily mean a lonely life? Depending on the invividual woman, it could be a very full and satisfying one.

Following the loss of her husband, the younger widow faces the immediate problem of her children, her home and finances and any changes in life style that might occur.

Take the case of Rosemary J.., a 32-year-old Massachusetts housewife, who made a decision to return to nursing after her 33-year-old husband died of a heart attack. She had three school-age children, a mortaged home and car and several debts. Her husband had been a personnel director at a small tool company, earning $12,000 a year. Besides a small savings account, he left a $30,000 life insurance policy.

Rosemary at least found herself in much better shape financially than many widows older than herself. Because her husband was earning a substantial income at the time of his death, he had provided a meaty amount of coverage for his small family. Older widows typically have smaller insurance coverage because their husbands probably stopped buying life insurance back in the 1930s when they were earning $3.000 or under. The widow in the 55-70 age bracket may find herself left with a $5,000 policy.

Today, the older widow who wishes to return to work may find it harder than someone younger, like Rosemary. By returning to work, Rosemary joined the more than 2.5 million widows who hold jobs. She was lucky because she could return to the nursing profession and had the education to continue in her career without refresher courses. By taking a job while her children were in school, she filled up lonely hours and felt productive.

Other widows might find a rude awakening when they job hunt. Women who marry young often find that a high school diploma is a poor qualification in today's degree-happy world. The widow may find she has to return to school or take a training course because her former skills are unmarketable.

The U.S. Deartment of Labor has a guide assisting mature women toward finding a job. The pamphlet, "Jobfinding Techniques for Mature Women," which is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C., contains tips on preparing a resume, a letter of application and how to respond effectively during an interview. Training opportunities, including high school programs, private trade or business course, federally-aided training opportunities and correspondence courses are briefly outlined for the jobseeker.

Crochet Caps

Hats have never been as important an accessory as they are for the longuette. The small crochet and chenille caps, the knitted headhuggers, the broad brims, fedoras are great flatterers. Hats were shown at practically every major fashion collection on 7th Avenue, New York.

Panel To Consider New Transit Post

Hiring a public relations consultant to promote the Golden Gate Bridge District's long-range transit plan will be considered by the joint transportation and legislation-public relations committee at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday in toll plaza offices.

Okamoto-Liskamm, the district's urban design consultants for the transit plan, have been pushing unsuccessfully for months to have a public relations consultant hired to help explain the plan to the public. The plan, ordered by the 1969 Legillature, is due for presentation to the 1971 Legilsature.

Also on the agenda is setting a schedule of public hearings on a draft of the plan, due for completion in mid-December.

The regular meeting of the full board of directors will be at 10 a.m. on Friday, and includes action on a recommendation by the building and operating committee that a $355,000 contract be made with Ammann and Whitney, New York engineers, for bridge repair and improvements. The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

Bay Water Board To Hear Pollution Order

OAKLAND — A hearing on a cease and desist order against the Mill Valley Air Force Station, which reportedly has been polluting Marin Municipal Water District drinking water supplies with sewage runoff, will be held by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board on Thursday in Martinez.

The board will meet from 9:30 a.m. to noon, and from 1:30 p.m. to the conclusion of business in the Contra Costa County Administration Building, Pine and Escobar streets.

Also on the agenda is setting a deadline of March 1, 1972, for houseboats in Richardson Bay to conform to all sewage treatment provisions in a new ordinance recently adopted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The regional board also will consider requirements for Novato Sanitary District's San Pablo Bay outfall, which will replace the one in Novato Creek.

Formal enforcement proceedings against Gilardi's Resort on the Petaluma River in Sonoma County also will be heard. Raw sewage is still being dumped from some structures on the resort property, despite a cease and desist order against its owners, according to the staff or the regional board.

Youth Admits To Quarry Burglary, Having Dynamite

Gerald Clair Crane, 18-year-old Larkspur youth, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he burglarized the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae and also possessed 100 pounds of dynamite on March 15.

A second count of burglarizing the same quarry was dismissed.

The district attorney's office indicated that it would recommend a jail sentence of four months for the youth, who was reported to have no known connection with subversive groups.

The youth was referred to the probation department for a presentence report, and was told by Judge E. Warren McGuire to return to court Oct. 26 for sentencing.

Crane had led police to more hidden explosives after they stopped him and he showed them dynamite in the trunk of his car.

Workers Back At Test Site Jobs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)— Workers at the Nevada Test Site were to return to their jobs today, ending a 112-day strike which postponed at least two U.S. underground nuclear tests.

The strike officially was halted Monday when the building and trades council, acting on behalf of 10 striking unions, signed agreements calling for binding arbitration.

The Labor Relations Panel of the Atomic Energy Commission will arbitrate the dispute.

PROBATION SPEAKER — Dr. Ivan H. Scheier, author of several books and articles dealing with probation problems, will give two lectures in Marin County on the need for volunteers in probation work. He will speak Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Adaline E. Kent School and Sept. 29 at 9:30 a.m. at the First Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael.

Benefits For Veterans Will Be Explained

Disability and education benefits for all Marin County veterans will be explained at a special counseling sesssion at San Rafael High School cafeteria on Oct. 1 from 7 to 9:30.p.m.

"We will not only inform veterans of their rights, but will take action to file claims for them on the spot," said Gordon R. Elliott, director of the Northern California Veterans administration regional office in San Francisco. "We know there are many veterans and their dependents in the community who are eligible for benefits and may not know it."

The coundeling session will be sponsored by the regional office in cooperation with James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans service officer, and various service organizations.

One of the primary objectives of this meeting, said Ellictt, well be to contact Vietnam veterans personally and encourage them to return to high school or to consider going on to college or entering an apprenticeship training program.

Riders To Compete For Rex Trophy

Men, and women 17 years and older will compete Sunday in the 31st annual Tamalpais Trail Riders horse test.

The difficult ride over a course featuring 10 hazards will begin at 9:30 a.m. from the Girl Scout camp entrance on the Marin Municipal Water District lands, according to Robert Ross of San Anselmo, ride chairman.

Post entries will be taken up to departure time, or may be mailed to Karlee Swainston, Tamalpais Trail Riders secretary, at Post Office Box 62, San Geronimo.

The winner of the test will not only be declared to ride Marin's top trail horse, but will also become holder of the Rex trophy, Ross said. The tricky course is designed to see how horse and rider handle themselves under adverse conditions, he explained.

The trail riders also stage a test each year for riders from 8 to 17 years old. This year the junior trail ride was Aug. 7, Ross said.

Larkspur Residents To Voice Future Concerns

A group of about 50 Larkspur residents have agreed to voice their concern for the future of Larkspur at a twon meeting similar to those held in other Marin communities.

Joan Sestak, co-chairman of a steering committee to organize the town meeting, said yesterday residents who attended last Thursday's meeting at the city hall listed planning of undeveloped lands as one of the most critical matters facing the city.

Besides zoning and development, other proposed discussion topics for the town meeting include population density, downtown improvement, proposed ferry terminal, recreation, transportation within the city, sources of city income, communications between city agencies, the relationship of Greenbrae to the city,, the Northridge development area, drug abuse and law enforcement.

The group agreed the steering committee has been set for this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the city hall, to draft the questionnaire and then set a tentative date for the meeting.

The proposed town meeting would be co-sponsored by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. through its Congress for Community Progress program. Such programs have been held in San Anselmo, Fairfax and Novato where citizens selected topics, formed panels, and recommended alternatives to city government on such topics as education, transportation, business and industry, recreation and human relations.

Pleads Guilty To Pot Charges

Russell Michael Guidi, 22, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of attempting to transport marijuana and possessing it for sale on April 9.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Oct. 26.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, the district attorney's office moved that an allegation of a prior conviction for pot possession against Guidi, which would have made a state prison sentence mandatory, be dismissed.

Guidi was arrested in April after Mill Valley police found him acting suspiciously near a car on Miller Avenue. The officers said they found three sticks of hashish under the front seat.

Boat Owners To Compete In Parade

Boat owners can sign up, beginning this week, to vie for trophies in the fifth annual Marine Holiday boat parade sponsored by the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce..

The parade will be Oct. 18 along San Rafael's waterfront, beginning at 1 p.m. Bruce Thompson, chairman of the chamber committee for the Marine Holiday, said boats are expected from all over San Francisco Bay for the event.

Trophies will be offered through third place for boats decorated in the best Marine Holiday theme, most unique design or best over-all decoration. An additional trophy will go to the yacht club with the most representation in the parade. However, entrants do not have to be yacht club members to participate.

Judges will be the commodores of all Marin yacht clubs.

The waterfront celebration also will feature free boat rides for the public from 8 a.m. to noon, aboard Marin County commercial craft, Thompson said. Many San Rafael waterfront businesses will take part in the daylong celebration.

Entry forms for the boat parade are available in any San Rafael marine supply shop, Thompson said.

Tiburon Eyes Open Space Bond Plans

Tiburon City Council last night acknowledged it may have to hold a bond election to raise money for open space and park land acquisition and that an open space plan is needed immediately to prevent overdevelopment.

These related realizations came at the end of an informal, rambling meeting at which the council called for a joint meeting with the city's planning commission and parks and recreation commission within the next six weeks.

"We're going to have to start thinking seriously about a bond issue for open space acquisition," said Mayor Denis T. Rice.

Previously, the council had indicated that it might solicit public donations to raise money for park and open space. No target date was set for a bond election.

The land acquisition question arose when Councilman Albert H. Sennett made a general recommendation that the planning commission make a study of all nonsubdivided land in Tiburon to determine its best planned use.

"I think it's up to the city to determine land use, not the developers," Sennett said.

"I think what you're suggesting is a radical thing to do," said Councilman M. Carlisle Becker, "but I think it's commendable. What we want to be on guard against is legislating tsate . . . the basic thing we need to look forward to is more integrated housing. Every time we legislate density, we exclude some economic group."

"Density is something we need to do a little rethinking on," said Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood. "I think we owe it to ourselves to provide some leadership in the county where we still have some open space."

Sennett insisted he was not seeking specific action at this time, but emphasized that it should be known it is the sense of the council that it is dissatisfied with present zoning laws and is reexamining its priorities on land usage.

"If the market conditions change," Sennett said, referring to yesterday's drop in the prime interest rate by many banks, "then we may face a land rush (in Tiburon) and we ought to prepare for that eventuality. . .

"We all agree, I think, that we want to preserve the remaining open space and present zoning doesn't do that. I'm suggesting we adopt this in principle and then get the expertise. If we don't do it (make a plan for open space and its acquisition), this peninsula will disappear."

The Tiburon City Council Also:

LIGHTING — Authorized $500 for a consultant to design street lights on Tiburon Boulevard, between Beach Road and Juanita Lane, conduits for the lights to be put underground beginning in November and done within 90 days.

POLICE — Agreed to take up the matter of getting a city police department, possibly jointly with Belvedere, to replace the Sheriff's department, which contracts its services to Tiburon at present.

COUNCIL POLICIES — Adopted several long-standing informal procedural policies for the council, including allowing a 15-minute open period for the public to address the council on nonagenda matters; insisting that all recommendations, ordinances and resolutions come before the council as a whole before being assigned to committee and encouraging community participation by holding at least two meetings each year in various places in the city.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned till 7:30 p.m. next Monday in city hall.

Ayala Cove was previously declared a state historical landmark. The designation was extended to the entire island by the California Historical Landmarks Advisory Committee in March.

Ayala Day activities will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a barbecue.

The first Ayala Day sponsored by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last year featured the renaming of Hospital Cove to Ayala Cove in honor of Lt. Juan Manuel De Ayala, commander of the first ship known to enter San Francisco Bay.

Ayala's ship anchored at Ayala Cove for six weeks in 1775 while he directed the first survey of the Bay.

The island, which Ayala named Isla De Los Angeles, was a Mexican ranch, U.S. Military Post, Bay defense site and quarantine and immigration stations before being made a state park.

Some of the debts date from World War II and the postwar period. Others relate to postal fees, weather forecasting assessments, maritime fees, and satellite charges.

MUSIC BREAK — One World Family members take a moment out from their everyday chores to hold an impromptu concert on the front porch of the group's home in Larkspur. They favor such songs as "Love Is Service Given" and "The Brotherhood Of Man."

ONE WORLD FAMILY

Life In A Commune: Love—Service Done

By GEORGE NEVIN

(Second of Two Articles)

It is Sunday at the One World Family's Larkspur commune.

The evening meal has been eaten — green salad, soy bean soup and steamed vegetables over brown rice — the dishes have been cleared away, and the family now gathers in the meditation room to talk and sing.

Twenty voices join in singing songs, hymns really, most of them written by family members. "Love Is Service Done," they sing, and "The Brotherhood of Man."

One commune member plays the piano. Several others strum guitars. All sing with an enthusiasm hard to find in a modern-day church.

They end the songfest with a long chant of "O-o-o-m-m-m-m." Then there is silence.

After a time, commune leader Allen Noonan begins to speak softly. He tells how he was shown a vision in 1947, how alien beings showed him how to tap into a cosmic energy source.

"I am the Messiah, and I have been given a plan that will unify the world and bring everyone into absolute freedom, security and abundance."

Noonan's appearance contrasts markedly with that of the family. He is fond of wearing brightly colored pants, shirts, and socks and a beanie cap. His thinning gray hair stands out among the shaggy locks of most of the others.

His bright blue eyes peer at the family members as he describes a plan, which he says will bring "a new age revolution to the world. It will break the economic system, and then all things will be held in common."

The new order, Noonan believes, will be based on the world bill of rights and new covenant, which he wrote. He quotes from it:

"Let each of us own all the world — the Kingdom of God — and call one place of our choosing our own and be free to come and go in the world and stay at any dwelling accommodating travelers.

"Let each of us give of ourselves to the extent of our abilities to the One World Company, and in return all things shall be added to us. Let each person be judged only by their conscience in God and let no one judge their fellow beings, but rather judge themselves."

Noonan continues reciting the credo that has guided the family since he founded it in 1967:

"Let the government seat be only the storehouse and inventories of the people's products. Let all things be done unto edification, for God is not the author of confusion."

Noonan now begins to talk about the kind of revolution that the One World Family anticipates:

"We don't want an armed revolution, but a spiritual one which will be the final karmic cleansing of the world. Then everyone will return to nature, and the right use of all material things."

In fact, Noonan emphasizes, the commune movement is trying to "save the system from itself. If the establishment doesn't come to an understanding of youth, there is going to be a real shooting revolution. Our movement will stop that."

(Until the "gentle revolution," though, the One World Family will continue to exist in the capitalistic world, and that means using money as a medium of exchange. After the revolution, money will not be needed.)

The session ends with another "Om" chant, and family members drift away to their own pursuits. Some will sew clothing in the sewing room, others will work on tie-dyeing or batiking curtains and still others will put the children to bed.

There's a lot of work to be done at the commune, and family members put in a hard day. Babies have to be washed, fed and entertained. A full crew is needed to staff the Mustard Seed restaurant in the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center. The garden must be tended, the house cleaned and the kitchen kept in order.

But Family members say they wouldn't have it any other way. "Love is service done," they like to repeat.

With the routine chores out of the way, the members turn to their areas of specialty. Take Barry Koral, for instance. Much of his time is spent running the Berkeley House, but his real interest is art.

"I'm a photographer-artist, creating a vision for the new age," he said. "We have to replace the old order with the new, which is manifested in what I call flow art.

What is flow art? "It is art that teaches you to flow through life, tuned in to the universal energy source." The Family believes that art is a tool for teaching as well as an esthetic experience. That is why the art at the Larkspur house, with its children, differs from that of the Berkeley commune.

"Art is needed to stimulate people, to get them to a higher state of consciousness," said Koral, who holds a master's degree from the Institute of Design in Chicago.

Once they reach that high state, the Family believes, the movement toward the commune is inevitable and unstoppable.

"The United States of the world is our destiny, and it won't be won through war," Noonan said. "This is the truth, and all the people who stand on anything but the truth will fall."

Noonan and his Family are biding their time, confident that their way of life is spreading, convinced that the new age is coming.

Larkspur may be attempting to evict them from the home because of an alleged zoning violation, and the management of the Strawberry Shopping Center may be trying to force them out of the Mustard Seed, but the One World Family has a vision that today's power structure is not long for this world.

"Our movement is not weeds popping up in the establishment's garden, as they think," Noonan said, "but beautiful flowers popping up in their weed patch. And the flowers are going to keep popping up faster than they can pull them out."

Marin Suicide Prevention Center Boost

Organization of a Marin County suicide prevention center got a big boost yesterday with the announcement that San Rafael developer Harry H. Heifetz had donated space for the round-the-clock telephone counseling service.

Sheila Cerofeci, a member of the organizing group, reported Heifetz had agreed to donate office space free for the first few months until the center becomes self-sustaining.

Rae S. Taub, president of the Marin Association for Mental Health, explained that the address of the suicide prevention center will not be made public because it will provide only counseling by telephone and will not be equipped as a walk-in service.

ELECTS CHAIRMAN

The group elected Kay Lyons of San Rafael chairman; Berni Craig of Novato, secretary and Peggy Gartman of San Rafael, treasurer.

"The Marin Association of Mental Health has been trying for two years to set up a suicide prevention center in Marin," said Mrs. Taub. "Now we're finally ready to go into business." However, it may be Jan. 1 before the counseling service is actually in operation because telephones must be installed, and office workers must be recruited and trained to man the center 24 hours a day.

"Marin is the only county in the Bay Area without a suicide prevention center," said Mrs. Taub. At present, many distraught residents of Marin call for help to the San Francisco Suicide Prevention Center.

LEGAL COUNSEL

James M. Kennedy, San Rafael attorney, handling the articles of incorporation for the group, said he hopes approval for the non-profit corporation will come from the Secretary of State in Sacramento this week.

Next meeting of the group is set for 4 p.m. Oct. 5 at Civic Center.

Mrs. Taub announced that Dr. Edwin Shneidman, national authority on suicide prevention, is scheduled to be in Marin on Oct. 28 to help present a skit, based on Shneidman's book, "Quiet Christ." The skit will explain some of the suicidal clues, which are often overlooked.

Lack Of Quorum

Directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District did not meet last night for lack of a quorum and rescheduled their session for 9 p. m. today in the firehouse, according to secretary Helen Lontz.

Riles For Expanding Pre-School Program

Wilson C. Riles, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, came out strongly last night for expansion of early childhood education and the principle of accountability for the schools.

Riles addressed a capacity crowd of more than 350 in the Congregation Rodef Sholem auditorium in Santa Venetia, supported by a panel including James Standard, College of Marin student who was the first president of the Marin Peace Coalition; Marcia Smith of Corte Madera, president of the Marin Kindergarten Association; John F. Plank, superintendent of San Rafael city schools, and Dr. Ellen Binckley of Strawberry, former member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. President S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College was moderator.

"I want to see the preschool program extended," said Riles. "If it works for the most disadventaged, ot can work for everyone . . . In the long run, it will be much cheaper than trying to do remedial work at seventh and eighth grades."

On accountability, which Riles made a key issue throughout his primary campaign, he urged "a systematic method by which we can define what our goals are, so parents and students know what we're trying to do."

When Dr. Binckley questioned whether means are available to adequately assess schools' performance, Riles responded: "We've got to do it. If we don't, somebody else will do it for us." He pointed out that the present state testing program was forced on the schools by the legislature.

The candidate, who ran second to incumbent Max Rafferty in an eight-candidate primary field, drew his greatest applause for his answer to a question from the floor as to how accountability could be made to work with teachers protected by tenure and collective bargaining.

"The obvious answer," said Riles, "is that we have to revise our tenure laws so we can support and help the competent, and we have to get rid of the incompetent."

Another questioner wanted to know, "What about teachers who come to class and say, 'What shall we talk about today?'"

"When I talk about goal setting, I think I'd eliminate this kind of business," said Riles.

He called for greater state support of the public schools, pointing to the loss of many recent tax and bond issues. The state constitution gives education first claim on the state general fund, he noted.

The candidate also came out for year-round school operation, with staggered vacation schedules.

To a question of what he would do about University of California and the state colleges if elected, he responded:

"If we do a better job at elementary and high school levels, some of the problems at the college level, they won't have to face."

Riles scarcely mentioned Rafferty during the two and one-half hour panel discussion, concentrating on what he hopes to do if elected in November. He repeatedly stressed the need for parent involvement in school decisions, and for cooperation with the legislature and with such groups as chambers of commerce and taxpayer associations to win wider support for schools.

"I want to be part of the solution, not part of the problem," he said to a burst of applause.

Dr. William L. Clark of Mill Valley, Riles' Marin campaign chairman, announced three fund-raising events: a flea market at the Marin Co-op in Corte Madera on Sept. 27, an art auction at the Sausalito Art Club on Oct. 4 and a benefit play in Mill Valley on Oct. 10.

Marin Players To Wind Up Season

The costumes may be borrowed, but the play's the thing, as the Marin Shakespeare Festival winds up its 10th season this week.

Friendly competitors in the American Conservatory Theater, collegiate drama groups and private benefactors have helped put the Marin players back in costume after arsonist-set blazes wiped out most of the theater's costumes and sewing equipment, Aug. 30.

On the bill for the final week are "Henry V" at 8 p.m. Thursday; "The Tempest" at 8 p.m. Friday, and "Taming of the Shrew" at 8 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday on the outdoor stage of Forest Meadows Theater, Dominican College, San Rafael.

Petaluma Sets Undergrounding Of Utilities In Two More Sections

Underground utility districts were established in two sections of Petaluma last night after the city council found costs to howeowners would not be excessive.

Approval of undergrounding plans on McDowell Boulevard at East Washington Street and on East Washington near Hopper Street was withheld two weeks ago pending estimates.

Coy Gore of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said that costs to the 10 homeowners on North McDowell Boulevard should be less than $100 per home. He said they would be responsible only for the cost of trench digging and electrical reconnections.

Gore said the company would provide 100 feet of electrical line to each home and that it should be sufficient in each case. He said exact cost figures could not be given because the line placement would be different at each home.

Arlie Blankenship of 94 North McDowell Boulevard said he was concerned that he and other homeowners would be paying for a beautification project that would be benefiting the entire city.

Mayor Helen Putnam explained that the undergroundng projects would be extended to other sections of the city when utility funds are made available for the major portion of the work.

No problem was raised in connection with the East Washington Street project, but another delay was called in undergrounding plans for Petaluma Boulevard North at Magnolia Avenue.

Victor De Carli, who owns several parcels on Magnolia Avenue, asked that his property be removed from the proposed district because it is served by rear yard lines and would not be affected.

The Petaluma City Council also:

DUST — Received a petition from 40 residents of the Leisure Lake Mobile Home Park complaining about dust caused by a loader used by Chicken International on the railroad spur. City Mgr. Robert H. Heyer said company officials had promised to abate the nuisance.

DREDGING — Heard Meyer report that the Army Corps of Engineers may go to bid soon on the Petaluma River dredging. He recommended however waiting until spring after the rainy season . Cost to the city will be $4.000 to repair dikes to store spoils.

RESURFACING — Awarded a contract for street resurfacing to Brown Ely of El Cerrito at a low bid of $61,331. City engineer David A. Young said city crews will do some of the work and bring cost down to $45,412.

DRAIN — Awarded the contract for storm drain installation on B Street to the Arthur B. Siri Co., Santa Rosa, at the low bid of $29,694. Cost had been estimated at $33,114.

PARK — Introduced an ordinance that would permit the city staff to negotiate purchase of property adjacent to La Tercera School for a neighborhood park.

REZONING — Approved the rezoning of one-third acre on Casa Grande Road at Lakeville Highway from agricultural to highway-commercial to permit a service station.

TOW AWAY — Introduced an ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles on streets and alleys for more than 72 hours and authorizing towing away after that.

ANIMALS — Adopted an ordinance permitting large domestic animals to be kept on lots of more than 20,000 square feet.

SEWER FEES — Adopted an ordinance doubling sewer connection fees on single family homes $300 to $600.

PARKING — Adopted an ordinance putting all parking meters on the rate of 5 cents per hour.

LAND PURCHASE — Approved purchase of property on Magnolia Avenue from Norman Rollins for $3,000 for future street work.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Carol Brandner from the recreation, music and parks commission.

ATTENDANCE — Noted that Councilmen Fred V. Mattei, Albert L. Battaglia Jr. and Robert A. Brunner were absent.

MEETING — Scheduled an adjourned meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday to consider the effects of mobile home parks, ambulance fees and weed abatement.

Extra Taxes Are Supported On Future Police Protection

The City-County Services Committee decided by split vote last night that the unincorporated areas should not pay any more for the present level of sheriff's services but should be levied extra taxes for police services added in the future.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. moved that a county service area for police protection be set up in the unincorporated areas, with the understanding that the present $2,240,000 sheriff's budget be considered a countywide tax levy as at present. The unincorporated areas would pay extra for any added police protection. Supervisor Louis H. Baar and County Aditor-Controller Michael Mitchell voted for the motion.

Mayor Frank J. Egger of Fairfax dissented, and Councilman Alfred J. Malvino of Larkspur abstained. Both Egger and Malvino, the city representatives, argued that the unincorporated areas should pay a bigger share of the present sheriff's cost because cities pay for their own police departments, as well as sharing in sheriff's costs.

Malvino and Egger suggested that a county service area for police protection be set up in unincorporated areas, and the question of cost sharing be left open. But they were outvoted by the three county representatives.

The majority recommendation will go to the board of supervisors.

Woman Arraigned In P-TA Theft

The former secretary of the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Association, Petaluma, was charged yesterday with grand theft of more than $200 from the club treasury.

Delores May Brattin, 384 Monte Vista Lane, was arraigned by Judge Alexander J. McMahon in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. She will plead Monday at 1:30 p.m. She is free on $1,250 bail.

Mrs. Brattin was arrested Sept. 8 after an audit of the club's books by accountant John C. Mohrman disclosed the missing funds. She had served as secretary from April through June.

Disrespect For Courts Has Variety Of Causes

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the California Supreme Court told the Conference of California Judges last week in Beverly Hills that public respect for the courts has eroded.

One reason, he said, is "moonlighting by members of the judiciary" which results in conflict-of-interest charges.

Across the continent from Beverly Hills, Chief Judge J. Edward Lumbard was telling the 54 judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second District at Lake Placid, N.Y., that public confidence in the courts is "sorely lacking."

One reason, he said, is too-long appeals procedures, made worse by meddling of federal judges in state criminal cases.

A month earlier in St. Louis, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the United States Supreme Court warned the American Bar Association convention that confidence in the courts, which he said "is essential to maintain the fabric of ordered liberty for a free people," can be destroyed if Americans come to believe inefficiency will delay and prevent justice.

WE ARE PLEASED to see such wide recognition by the bench of the ills that plague it. The question is: what to do about them?

The Conference of California Judges will vote next year on a new code of ethics which might help to curb the "moonlighting" that Justice Wright deplored. It would prohibit judges from nonjudicial activities for pay other than teaching or writing which do not interfere with their courtroom duties.

In the meantime, however, the judges could divorce themselves from outside interests without any formal prohibition. It would help restore confidence in the courts.

JUDGE LUMBARD had a simple and radical solution to the delays caused by intermeddling of federal and state jurisdictions: keep hands off state cases.

"For all our work on thousands of state prisoners' cases I have yet to hear of one where an innocent man had been convicted," he told his fellow judges. "The net result of our fruitless meddling in search of the nonexistent needle in the ever-larger haystack has been a serious detriment to the administration of criminal justice by the states."

Justice Burger had a whole series of suggestions on ways to speed up the legal process. His goal would be to have criminal cases tried within 60 days after indictment. "I predict it would sharply reduce the crime rate," he said.

NEITHER JUSTICE WRIGHT, Judge Lumbard nor Justice Burger, apparently, referred to something else that is causing disrespect for the courts: the disrespect shown by some in the legal profession itself.

Outside the New York courtroom where 13 Black Panthers are on trial this month on murder and conspiracy charges, the Panthers held a rally which was addressed by William M. Kunstler, an attorney who represented the "Chicago Seven." Kunstler declared the 13 were being tried "by a judge who is determined to convict them and a jury that will be stampeded by informers and undercover agents."

It was not the first such attack on the courts by Kunstler; nor is he the only lawyer who denounces the judicial system he is sworn to uphold, yet continues to practice as "an officer of the court."

If the legal profession does not enforce respect for the courts in its own ranks, can the public be expected to respect them?

"It's the ONLY way to fly!"

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Two Bond Issues Among 20 State Propositions On Ballot

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A heavy schedule of propositions faces the voter at the November general election, and before going into the 20 propositions in detail, it may be well to sum up the package handed the public by the state legislature.

There is no proposition on the ballot initiated by the people, nor is there a referendum. Everything is the result of legislative action.

FIRST, the legislature wants a new bond issue of $250 million for "clean water" and a second issue for $60 million for wildlife enhancement. These are the only two issues with specific price tags, although the rest of the proposition will cost some money.

There is no argument against Proposition 1, the clean water proposal, despite the fact that there is no guarantee that $250 million, plus about the same amount in interest, will provide clean water for California.

The proposal is to use this bond money as state matching funds for installation of sewage treatment plants and facilities for waste treatment by local government, with the federal government contributing a proportionate share. Thus, before the state is done with its clean water program, the $250 million probably will be just a drop in the bucket of the total amount to be spent.

However, no one is against clean water, especially after having to drink the chlorinated mess that comes through the faucets in this day and age. And despite the fact there is no assurance that a $250 million bond issue will provide clean water, it may help a little.

THE OTHER BOND issue is the last item on the ballot, Proposition 20, for $60 million. Probably it's not for more money because the state can't spend it fast enough, and will be back later with new and larger requests for recreation, fish and wildlife enhancement.

It would appear to be a worthy cause to spend this amount of money on recreation, but the program seems to be upside down, with only six million of the issue set aside for fish and wildlife purposes, and the remainder for parks and recreation to spend in the development of lakes and shores created behind dams.

As mentioned previously in this column, $60 million is quite a bit of money to spend on recreational facilities, but if it has to be spent, there would appear to be no better way to spend it than to use the public coffers for providing recreational facilities.

As long as the legislature plans to keep tabs on the expenditure of the bond issue funds, rather than turning it over to the bureaucratic beaches and parks, the issue may have some merit.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

When the official Kurdistan golf team was playing in the challenge round of a tournament in Scotland, Will Alsop would have us believe, two of them, searching for a lost ball in the thick rough, suffered concussions when they crashed head-on. "We might have expected this," Referee Mackenzie dismissed the incident with a shrug. "Kurds in the heather knock together."

Wimpfheimer was aghast when he entered his apartment and found his comely bride Annie walking on the ceiling. "Hello," she hailed him. "Never mind the 'hello,'" exclaimed Wimpfheimer. "What are you doing walking on the ceiling? Don't you know that's against the law of gravity?"

There was a crash as Annie fell to the floor. Rubbing tentatively the delectable portion of her anatomy on which she had landed, she glared at him and blurted, "You had to open that big mouth of yours, didn't you?"

Story On Unleaded Gasoline Misleads

Your paper carried the attached article on Aug. 31. We are greatly concerned about the several erroneous and misleading statements contained in this article. As you probably know, Standard Oil Co. of California began marketing Chevron unleaded gasoline on Sept. 1. This is an important step toward the attainment of clean air goals . . .

The opening paragraph . . . states that present engines, even 1971 models, simply cannot cope satisfactorily with the problem of engine damage from the use of unleaded gasoline. It is indeed true that there are data showing a loss in exhaust valve life when engines are run on unleaded gasolines. What the article does not mention is that this occurs only when the more susceptible vehicles are operated continuously under very severe driving conditions (high speed, high load) for several hours. This is why we do not recommend use of Chevron unleaded gasoline for heavy duty operation, such as trailer towing, or in small cars when being driven at high speeds . . . We have been advised by the president of General Motors Corporation that their owner's manual will recommend preference for the use of unleaded gasoline for their 1971 model cars where it is available, although 1971 General Motors' cars will also run satisfactorily on leaded gasolines. Also, one major oil company has marketed an unleaded gasoline on the East Coast in substantial quantities for over 40 years. In testimony before a committee of the California State Legislature, a research executive for this company stated that there has not been a single report of excessive valve wear due to use of this product in this entire period of time. Lastly, many dozens of cars have operated a total of several million miles over the past several years in industry research programs evaluating the performance of unleaded gasolines. Engine durability has not been a problem in these tests conducted by many investigators; and, in fact, there have been reports of such benefits as increased spark plug and muffler life.

The article also refers to evidence that use of lead-free gasoline can cause emissions that are more harmful to health than leaded gasolines. This statement is related, in the article, to the need to increase the use of aromatics to boost octane number when lead is not used for this purpose. The significant point not mentioned is that the low octane unleaded gasoline being supplied, and designed for 1971 model car requirements as well as those of 15-20 per cent of the older cars on the road, does not require any significant increase in aromatic concentration over current practice. The aromatic content of Chevron unleaded gasoline will be well within the range of aromatics used in motor gasolines for the past 10 to 15 years . . .

With respect to the cancer-forming characteristics of certain aromatics, the article does not indicate that such aromatics are found in gasolines at extremely low concentrations and are not measured by any of the conventional tests for aromatics . . .

Newton Freed In Time To Promote Campus Revolt

(Reprinted from San Diego Union)

Huey P. Newton could not have asked for better timing for his release from prison. The co-founder of the Black Panther party has made his reappearance — free on $50,000 bail to await a new trial on charges of killing a policeman — on the eve of the opening of a new school year.

College and university campuses have provided an effective sounding board and sanctuary for the rhetoric of violence and revolution which Newton has made his calling card. There is nothing to indicate that his reception among campus radicals will be anything but that accorded a messiah returned from exile.

IT IS ALL TOO evident that an escalation is taking place in the war being waged by revolutionaries against all symbols of authority. Where rocks thrown through windows once sufficed, dynamite and bombs are now employed.

So, too, has Huey Newton returned to the scene with an escalation in his political call to arms. Where he once was content to express sympathy for the Communist cause in South Vietnam, Newton now proposes to recruit young Americans to fight with the Viet Cong.

Those who are welcoming Newton back to the radical camp as a martyr in their fight against the "system" are caught with their logic down. It is the meticulous pursuit of justice by our judicial system that has granted him a second chance to defend himself against charges on which he was once convicted. Philosophy departments at some of our universities, of course, have already shown themselves to be blind to such elemental logic.

THE ABSENCE of reason is anarchy, as experience has taught us when reason is abdicated on our campuses. Huey Newton returns above all as an apostle of anarchy. His own words proclaim his credo:

"We want to take the philosophy of Marx to its final goal — to create a world that has eliminated statehood. History has not yet created the communist world, just a Socialist world in which statehood still exists. We want a Communist world without statehood. We want to unite the red and black banners together."

Newton has a busy-season ahead, exercising the freedom of speech which is not denied him even by the system he is bent on destroying.

Another Electoral Reform Plan

You and I know that electoral reform, as now discussed, is impossible regardless of what the U.S. Congress does, for one-fifth of our states have more than half the popular vote. Thus "underpopulated" states' legislatures will not ratify the amendment.

But, the John Young formula for electoral reform can save the day and the Constitution. The formula:

1. Presidential aspirant getting a popular plurality in a congressional district will gain one electoral vote.

2. Presidential aspirants getting a popular plurality in a state will gain two electoral votes.

3. Whoever receives a majority of electoral votes wins. If there is no mapority, the newly elected House of Representatives decides, by elimination voting, from among the minimum number of those greatest electoral vote recipients whose cumulate electoral vote shall exceed three-fourths of the total decided upon.

4. The incumbent President (and vice president) shall remain in office for an extended term, not to exceed one extra week, if the presidential election is decided in the House of Representatives.

5. Ties in elimination voting will be decided upon by the incumbent vice president.

Arguments for: (1) This system can get state approval. (2) Chance of centralized compu'er fraud eliminated.

Two Men Out Of Government Go To Work To Improve It

WASHINGTON — With the gloom and the cynicism in the current atmosphere equal to a smog red alert, it is news — under the man-bites-dog definition — to find two leaders denying the counsels of despair. Knowing all the dire facts and figures, they are nevertheless working for constructive action to remedy ills at home and abroad.

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, and John W. Gardner of Common Cause have the courage of their conviction that people will respond to the challenge of a time of troubles compounded as rarely before.

IN A SPEECH cutting right to the bone, McNamara in Copenhagen confronted the bank's board of governors with a twofold call for action. First was the need for the developed countries, and particularly the United States, greatly to increase their share of aid to the developing countries. This country, he observed, is 11th among the 16 contributing nations, with the aid program reduced to less than .3 of one per cent of the gross national product.

The former secretary of defense assailed the "so-called security" of an ever-spiralling arms race, with the world spending $180 billion a year on arms as the figure steadily goes up.

BUT IT WAS on the population explosion that McNamara spoke out with brutal frankness. Short of a tremendously accelerated program in the whole field — family planning, research into human creativity, education — the world will be overwhelmed in the next decades with millions upon millions of people reduced to a level of living hardly better than animals, he said.

He promised that, in response to appeals from many members, the bank would organize to provide advice and financial help on a greatly expanded scale. This accords with his policy during his two years as president to make the bank more than merely a lending institution.

GARDNER, as he goes about the country, talks of many of the same things. With many quiet successes to its credit, Gardner decided to broaden the scope with Common Cause as a people's hobby. The response has been extraordinary.

Thousands of letters have come from all over the country. Many citizens, young and old, wrote that they had been waiting for an organization that would try to get action above and beyond the constricted reach of the two old parties.

Gardner's concept is broader than that of a citizens' lobby. He believes that the structure of government from city hall on up needs, as he put it recently in a speech in San Francisco, a major work of repair and redesign. Many Americans seem resigned to the fact that most state governments are incompetent, that most state legislatures are tragically inadequate, that most city governing is so designed as to make governing impossible, that the Congress of the United States needs a thorough overhaul, and that the political parties are unresponsive to the concerns of their own members.

Gardner believes that the disease is curable, that human institutions can be overhauled and reformed.

Here are two men who came out of high government office — Gardner was secretary of health, education and welfare — not overwhelmed by the inevitable frustrations of swollen bureaucracies. They are working hard on what needs urgently to be done.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Hungary Plans Cautious But Important Reforms

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

VIENNA (UPI) — Hungary has won Soviet approval for the most far-ranging reforms seen in the Communist world since the Prague Spring was crushed in Czechoslovakia two years ago.

The reforms stop far short, so far, of the total press freedom and hints of multiparty democracy that doomed the Czechoslovak experiment. But most experienced observers say Hungary is well along the road to the most liberal society possible as long as Russia rules Eastern Europe.

The Hungarian Communist Party will hold its 10th congress Nov. 23, and the tenor of that meeting has been foreshadowed by "Theses" published in August which will form the basis of congress debates.

THE "THESES" pointed with pride at the economic reforms introduced three years ago, and then, in a key passage, said: "The reform has also produced favorable changes in other areas of social life. It has opened new channels for the creative forces of society."

In plain language, that means political reforms. Many of these reforms have already been introduced, and the "Theses" made it clear that Hungary intends to press forward with them.

kHungary learned in its own revolution in 1956 what happens to a Communist country that tries to build a new order against Russian wishes and Russian troops are still in the country. It saw what happened in 1968 when Czechoslovakia's reforms went faster than the Kremlin thought wise.

For that reason, Hungarian party leader Janos Kadar has carefully kept the Russian leaders informer of his reforms—both political and economic—every step of the way and has made no move without their approval. Diplomats here said it was inconceivable that the Hungarians published the "Theses" without clearing them with Moscow.

AMONG OTHER things, the "Theses" said Communist ideology would be enforced through "arguments"—not arrests or other pressures. The Interior Ministry, in a statement unique in Eastern Europe, already has said its police have better things to do than to be ideological watchdogs.

The party reaffirmed its "support" of "Socialist realism" in art, but sa id it "will not interfere with formal questions of styles." What that means, if recent practice is any guide, is that the party has a preference but will not object if artists and writers want to experiment.

The "These" affirmed Kadar's long-time dictum that there are lots of good Hungarians outside the Communist Party. It praised the current role of "workers, peasants, intellectuals, representatives of the middle class, people with different ideologies, Communists and noparty citizens, (religious) believers and nonbelievers."

An increasing tolerance of small-scale private enterprise— especially in the service industries—was underlined when the "Theses" saluted the "useful work" being done by "artisans and shopkeepers"—all privately employed.

Most observers believe Hungary gets by with this by subordinating its foreign policy totally to Moscow's and by keeping the party firmly in power as the final arbiter of society. The "Theses" restate both these positions in capital letters.

Sonoma State Clubs May Fill Void Left By Student Association

In the absence of student government at Sonoma State College, student organizations will probably be picking up some of the slack in providing activities.

Student groups had 30 days from the opening of classes last week to apply for a school charter which allows them use of campus facilities when available. Last spring there were 35 Sonoma State student organizations, some hiding noble concerns behind cryptic names.

The Lenny Bruce Society, for instance, turned out to be an organization for students interested in sociology. Achva was a Hebrew studies organization and the Agora Society was a philosophy group.

SONOMA STATE even had a Millard Fillmore Society — comforting news to fans of the country's 13th president.

The original Millard Fillmore Society, as any true Fillmorian knows well, was founded several years at Marquette University in Milwaukee, where it concerned itself primarily with the consumption of large quantities of Milwaukee's favorite beverage while listening to readings from the two-volume "Millard Fillmore Papers."

The Phoebe Fillmore Foundation Fellows, a branch of the society named after Millard's mother, did attempt to raise the intellectual level of the society's activities by sponsoring a series of lectures on Fillmore's influence on the arts.

The first lecture, which drew a crowd of several hundred persons, was delivered by a professor of philosophy who reported that the blue-eyed Fillmore's sole influence on the arts turned out to be an elderly woman in Iowa who painted in peanut butter.

The series, unfortunately, was cancelled after one lecture when another professor protested the caps and gowns worn by ushers were an insult to academic tradition and the content of the lecture was a sham of history.

The Sonoma State Millard Fillmore Society apparently has had no such trouble, as it is a serious group of students interested in political science.

THE LIST of organizations at Sonoma State last year also included the Universal Church of the Aquarian Age 129, whose purpose was to raise legal defense funds and promote the welfare of the college and surrounding communities, and the World Peace Organism, which dedicated itself to "hipping people" to the fact they all belong to the family of man.

Rand Link, Sonoma State activities adviser, noted that all groups applying for charter must sign a form stating theirs is a nondiscriminatory organization, which opens for all the doors to the Black Students Union, the Mexican-American Student Confederation, and even the Associated Women Students.

A new group this year is the Cossack Pep Club, which will lend its support to the school's football team as it enters its first year of intercollegiate varsity competition.

ART BUCHWALD

Frederick The Ape Writes Book, And Sets Off A Controversy

WASHINGTON — A new book will soon appear on the market which will cause a sensation in scientific circles. It is titled "The Naked Man" and it was written by Frederick the III, a chimpanzee attached to the Rockefeller Institute. Frederick III was involved in some enzyme experiments at the institute which took up only a few hours of his day. Because he was restless, the directors gave him a typewriter to play with. You can imagine their surprise when instead of just messing around, Frederick wrote a book.

Frederick's book, and this is the shocker, claims that all chimpanzees, monkeys and apes evolved from man. He says that man was the first primate before there were apes of any kind.

FREDERICK IS NOT certain when man first appeared on earth, though he suspects it was at least 30 million years ago. As time went on and man went through many stages, he started to develop many ape-like qualities until today it is easy for apes to identify with man and realize how much they have in common.

Many apes and chimpanzees are horrified to think they resemble man in any way and a chimpanzee named Treetop, with the National Institute of Mental Health, has written a paper denouncing Frederick III's thesis. Treetop maintains that although in some respects men are looking more and more like apes, the ape could not have possibly evolved from man. He has attacked Frederick III's research on the grounds that except for the few men he has come into contact with at the Rockefeller Institute the only other men he has observed are flower children in the park that he can see from his caged window.

FREDERICK SAYS in his book that the similarities between apes and man are greater than one might think. Man today is behaving like apes used to behave before they were civilized. Man puts great emphasis on territory and seems to be willing to kill to protect his turf. As a lower form of ape, a man is unable to deal with any situation without screaming and shouting. Frederick cites examples where men have been placed in large apartment buildings for lengths of time and have gone berserk.

Treetop says that man's behavior is more similar to rats than to apes, and while man behaves irrationally in almost any situation and may resort to extreme measures when endangered, it does not follow that just because men beat their chests and growl that they belong in the ape family.

Frederick thinks that the primitive personality traits of man have been adapted by apes. Having studied man under laboratory conditions, Frederick has discovered that the eating habits and sex life of homo sapiens follow a pattern similar to those practiced by modern apes. Survival seems to be the basic principle in man's jungle, and while apes do not resort to violence unless provoked, man has not yet evolved to a point in his development where he can tell why he behaves the way he does.

TREETOP DISAGREES. He maintains that man has gone as far as he'll ever go, and hasn't changed from the day he was born. The instinct in men to destroy is so strong that it is slander to class them in any way with apes.

Frederick's response to that is to cite King Kong's destruction of the Empire State Building as something man might do.

Treetop says King Kong was an exception to the rule, and it's unfair to use one gorilla's behavior as a sample.

In any case, when the book comes out there will be a continuing controversy on it. On one side will be the apes who would hate to acknowledge they have inherited any characteristics from man. On the other side will be those monkeys, chimpanzees and gorillas who will admit that some of their traits are possibly man-evolved, and will now try to deal with the problem in an ape-like way.

Girl Admits To Selling Drug

Rae Dawn Hirsch, 21, of Lucas Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin superior court to charges of selling methamphetamine in November, 1968, and possessing a fraudulent check with intent to defraud on March 11, 1970.

A second bad check count was dismissed.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Miss Hirsch, who is also awaiting trial on another drug charge, for Oct. 26.

Study To Turn Richardson Bay Red

Polluted Richardson Bay, green in a recent bloom of algae, will be turned red next month in a study of its modest flushing action.

Red dye will be used in the $6,000 study by the state and federal governments, and will be visible for several days. Flushing in the constricted, shallow bay is so poor, that at least two weeks probably will be needed to clean all of the dye out of the area, according to Dr. T. C. Wu, chief of surveillance for the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Final approval of the study is slated by the State Water Resources Control Board in its regular meeting on Thursday in Los Angeles. The cost and conduct of the study are to be shared with the Federal Water Quality Administration.

Dr. Wu said that the study would guide the regional board's actions to clean up Richardson Bay. The primary nutrient for the algae is domestic sewage, he noted. Algae uses up the dissolved oxygen in the bay when it dies, thus making the water incapable of supporting fish life.

The regional board has indicated it will press for either costly tertiary treatment of sewage wastes dumped into Richardson Bay, or for completely removing all wastes from the bay.

The dye for the study will cost $2,300, with the rest of the cost for manpower to conduct the study.

Defense Will Invite Design Of New Copter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department says it will invite contractors to develop a new helicopter capable of lifting more than 25 tons —over twice the maximum capacity of any U.S. helicopter now in service.

The chopper would be used to handle heavy or bulky supplies and technical equipment, and would be placed into service in both the Army and Navy.

Marin Red Cross Will Recognize Volunteers

Marin County Chapter of the American National Red Cross will hold its 58th annual meeting and volunteer recognition program from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 8 in the chapter house, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Reservations may be made by calling the chapter house.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

I-J Begins Publication Of All Local Agencies

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils, and school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives pleading for large pay increases cited the rising cost-of-living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies frante more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin are being published by the Independent-Journal as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

Publication starts today with several departments' share of Marin County's $12,383,592 payroll. Other departments will be listed in subsequent issues of the I-J.

Board Rules On Riot, Bribe Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's Board of Supervisors settled two old law suits Monday, one concerning a riot and the other the bribing of a city assessor.

The city paid $10,000 to settle out of court a suit brought by Mathews and Eula Johnson, parents of Matthews Johnson Jr., 16, who was shot and killed by a policeman as he fled from a stolen car. His death touched off the Hunters Point riot of 1966.

Supervisors voted to accept $150,000 from the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. to settle their $950,000 suit against former assessor Russell L. Wolden and the company that bonded him.

Wolden was convicted of taking bribes in an assessment-fixing scandal.

Jail Sentence In Embezzlement

John D. Wadsworth, 42-year-old former San Rafael resident who disappeared almost three years ago along with his employer's money, yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave Wadsworth credit, however, for the time he has served since he was arrested in June in San Diego, where he had been living.

He placed Wadsworth on probation for two years and ordered him to make restitution for the $266 which his employer, Duffy Brothers Garage, had lost in the embezzlement.

On Sept. 11, 1967, Wadsworth disappeared with $4,241 in checks and cash given him to deposit in a bank.

Alioto Picks New Rec Commissioner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph L. Alioto said Monday he had named Eugene L. Friend, a merchant, to replace attorney George T. Choppelas on the Recreation and Park Commission.

Choppelas supported banning automobiles from Golden Gate Park on Sunday, opposed efforts to erect a restaurant in the park and unsuccessfully opposed a senior citizen's center near a park entrance.

Hub Planning Panel Delays Rezoning Plea

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night referred back to the applicant a proposed rezoning of about three acres behind the Red Hills Shopping Center.

The commission, considering an application from the Ross Valley Co., and Sunny Hills Children's Services for a planned development of one and two-bedroom dwellings, recommended the number of units be "substantially reduced" according to secretary Catherine Mullins.

She said the commission listed the number of two-bedroom units as excessive. The developer had listed 32 two-bedroom units and a like number of single bedroom dwellings.

The commission also recommended reduction of the land area to be developed and paved and that the city be provided a traffic survey.

The commission also approve a use permit to allow a Fotomat at 275 Greenfield Avenue subject to traffic and landscaping review in six months. The proposed structure must also be approved by the design and review board.

The commission also recommended that the city council urge county enactment of ordinances making it illegal to live in vehicles and limiting multiple occupancy of single family houses in unincorporated areas.

U.S. Court Dismissing Project Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A $2.5 million civil suit against ABC radio newscaster Alex Dreir and others over a San Mateo building project is in the process of being dismissed in federal court here, but will be refiled in California courts, an attorney said today.

Conrad Donner, attorney for plaintiff Samuel N. Garrotto, said today it is not yet decided whether to file the suit in San Rafael — where Dreier has a $131,000 showplace home — or in Riverside, where Dreier also has a residence, or in San Francisco.

Donner said attorneys for Dreier and co-defendants O. T. Hogan and Jack R. Hogan successfully argued in federal court that the case did not belong there because Dreier was a California resident and should be sued in state courts.

The Hogans, Dreier's in-laws and partners in business dealings with Garrotto, live in Chicago.

The law suit hinges on Garrotto's claims that dealings over the $15 million Mills Square office and apartment building project in San Mateo resulted in Garrotto's becoming "physically and mentally unstable." The developer was convicted in July 1969 of killing a San Mateo business partner, but was later adjudged mentally incompetent at the time of the killing.

The partner killed was Robert J. Barcocchini, 47, brother of Frank A. Barsocchini of Kentfield.

Youth Arraigned On Felony Counts

Dennis Michael Brogan, 23, of Mill Valley, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on three felony counts of battery on police officers and a misdemeanor charge of resisting arrest.

He was told to reurn to court next Monday to enter pleas.

Brogan is accused of punching and kicking three Sausalito policemen during a fracas which followed a minor automobile accident last Wednesday.

Ross Adopts Curriculum For Drug Abuse Classes

A locally formed curriculum on drug abuse was adopted as part of the Ross School District's 1970-71 course of study last night by district trustees.

The curriculum, written after a year-long effort by teacher, parents and students, replaces a course under county guidelines that was used last school year, according to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

The program will be taught to the 500 children from kindergarten through the eighth grade in the district and include counseling for upper grade students.

Anderson said the program substantially broadens last year's antidrug instruction.

In other action last night, trustees authorized hiring Dan Campbell of Kentfield as an educational consultant on ecology at $5 an hour, renewed a contract with the town council for joint maintenance of the Town Common and authorized signing of a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State College.

14-Year-Old Fairfax Boy Found Dead

A 14-year-old Fairfax youth apparently shot himself fatally in the bedroom of his 39 Manor View home yesterday.

Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan reported that George R. Lambert heard a shot about 9:15 p.m. and found his son, Scott Thomas Lambert, on the floor bleeding from a head wound. Madigan said the shot was fired from a .357 caliber ruger.

Madigan said a note was found.

Young Lambert was a student at Sir Francis Drake High School where his brother Jeff was student body president in 1967-68.

Also surviving are his mother, Carlyle, another brother, James, and a sister, Cindy.

Scott Lambert was born in Washington, but lived in Albuquerque, N.M., until moving to Marin in 1966.

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael where an autopsy was to be performed.

House Passes Bill For Air-Conditioned Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has completed congressional action on a measure to allow the government to buy air conditioning for 2,000 of the 20,000 cars it purchases every year. The cooling units would be used only in areas where it is so hot the efficiency of the employes involved would be impaired.

But Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, said he could recall when people could get along just by rolling down a window. He added "I can't really understand how our government survived. I just hope the time doesn't come when we have to supply each traveling employe an ice cold six pack of beer."

Pat To Redecorate White House Rooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon plans to make the Red Room more crimson and the blue room more blue, according to Mrs. Nixon's staff director, Connie Stuart.

Mrs. Stuart said the first lady may decide to switch from silk fabrics in the White House to cotton and wool to give the rooms a more authentic appearance of the colonial era. Mrs. Stuart said Mrs. Nixon's redecoration plans will be submitted to a committee in November.

Drugs Case Refused By Juvenile Court

A preliminary hearing on drug charges against Douglas F. Farley, 18, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, was set yesterday for Oct. 2 at 10 a.m. in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon had referred the case to juvenile court, but said the court refused to accept it. Farley was arrested Aug. 21 in Walnut Park, Petaluma, on suspicion of selling marijuana, selling amphetamines and possession of dangerous drugs.

Court Sets Hearing In Two Burglaries

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for next Tuesday for Reginald Bruce Johnson, 22, of Novato, accused of twice burglarizing a Novato residence in August.

Johnson is charged with twice taking auto parts from a house at 1290 Lynwood Drive.

San Rafael Might Be Heir Apparent To Throne

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Terra Linda High School went from riches to rags in the space of 24 hours last weekend, and as the Trojans' football stock turned to wallpaper in a brutal, 21-7 loss to Riordan Saturday night, the San Rafael Bulldogs began to look like the heir apparent to the Marin County Athletic League throne.

Friday night the Bulldogs unleashed a devastating offense that stormed to five first half touchdowns and then eased off to defeat Washington, 49-0.

Ranked No. 3 in Northern California by a poll of coaches last week, Terra Linda now rates no better than even money to win the MCAL title for a fifth straight time.

The seven MCAL teams won three preseason games and lost four over the weekend, but they outscored their non-league opposition, 115-53. Primarily responsible for that were San Rafael and the Drake Pirates, who whipped Petaluma, 39-0 Saturday night. A less impressive rout was registered by Novato over Montgomery 20-0 that afternoon.

Redwood, Tamalpais and San Marin joined Terra Linda in the losers' circle; all three lost games played outside the county. The Giants bowed to Sacred Heart, 7-0, Tam lost to Salesian, 13-9 and San Marin was blanked by Encinal, 12-0.

San Rafael and Drake were absolutely magnificent in their season debuts, especially the Bulldogs, who led Washington at halftime, 34-0 and could probably have doubled the score had it not been for the merciful disposition of coach Bob Muster.

Quarterback Dirk Gansloser ran for two touchdowns and passed for another in a superb job of field generalship for the Bulldogs. He and Novato's Marty Moroski, who passed for one score and ran for another against Montgomery, are as flashy a pair of signal callers as the MCAL has seen for some time.

Terra Linda, on the other hand, was simply overpowered by Riordan's massive pass rush, and Crusader quarterback Dan Hayes wore the Trojans out with his bombs-away passing game.

Tamalpais played the strangest game of the weekend on the strangest field. Imagine sleeping on a bed made by putting two chairs together and you'll have an idea what it's like to play football on Nichol Park field in Richmond. The field is really two softball diamonds, back to back, so the lights and the bleachers are in the end zones.

Tam coach Mike Davlin said the lights there were awfully poor. That would rank them with San Rafael's, which seem to get dimmer with each game.

Eleven MCAL games will be played at San Rafael this year, hopefully under better lighting conditions than presently exist. The responsibility for servicing the field, including the lights, falls to the San Rafael School District, which charges other county schools for the use of the field.

MCAL commissioner George Corson said yesterday that fixing the lights was not the league's responsibility, that the

A Jolly Group Of 49er Fans

Forget that "Wait 'til next year" jazz.

I lunched with some 50 gents yesterday who were mumbling something crazy like wait 'til THIS year.

Yes, the perennially optimistic San Francisco 49er Goal Rushers of Marin opened their 1970 series of weekly luncheons on a happy note, still tipsy from the heady spirits of Sunday's 26-17 victory over the Washington Redskins and beer-bellied star quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

And, they had reason to be glassy-eyed with joy because the 49ers showed a lot of muscle, hustle and class. The Rushers may have seen some sobering things on television last night when their next opponent, the Cleveland Browns, downed the New York Jets, but the 49er team we saw Sunday is one that can stay in the ball park with any National Football League opponent.

True Test Coming Up

Looking ahead to the Browns, 49er right linebacker William Gerard Vanderbundt — just call him Skip —told the Rushers: "Cleveland is a helluva ball club. Sure, they've got a lot of 'old' people, but they're real pros. They've got a great offensive line, a good corps of receivers. That (Leroy) Kelly gives them a fine running game. We've never had real good luck against Cleveland, but this time we play them I think we'll be a better team. It's great to win the opener," he added, "but we'll get the true test next week."

Skip shared the speakers' rostrum at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda with running back Bill Tucker and 49er alumni Al Endriss, the Redwood High coach, and auto salesman Bob Toneff of San Anselmo.

One Rusher asked Tucker: "Where is the 49er running game?" and he cracked: "Well, part of it's on the bench." He hasn't played much this year, not at all Sunday. "But, it's there," he added seriously. "We established it against Washington."

A Standout On The Bench

One gent admired Tucker's loud necktie, and No. 45 replied: "Well, when I was a kid I never had nothin' so I want to be noticed. I think I'll wear it next Sunday and when the coach is looking for a running back he'll see me."

Vanderbundt, the pride of Placerville by way of Oregon State, said the 49er game plan Sunday was ". . . to put pressure on Sonny, a great passer. He's probably the best quarterback as far as picking apart a zone defense. But, we pressured him good."

When someone made a remark about Jurgensen's imposing tummy, Vanderbundt parried: "He doesn't pass with his stomach."

Forty-Niner attitude came up for discussion and Vanderbundt noted: "It's the best I've seen. In the past I had the bad habit of looking for a penalty flag every time we did anything good, which isn't a good outlook. The biggest difference between the first and last place teams is attitude and we've got it good this year. I know I have a lot of confidence in my teammates."

Excited Brodie Good Example

Moderator Dave Scofield interjected: "You saw a good example after (Bruce) Gossett kicked the clinching field goal. John Brodie jumped up and threw his arms around Gossett." Old pro Brodie isn't inclined to such emotional outbursts.

Vanderbundt said the Rams of L.A. are "the team to beat in the NFL because they've got the good defense with that great front four, good offensive line, fine running backs, a good corps of receivers and, of course, Roman Gabriel, a great quarterback. Trying to tackle him is like wrestling a grizzly bear."

A Great Kicking Game

The Niner kicking game came up for praise by all in attendance. Gossett's long kickoffs, Steve Spurrier's beautiful punting plus great coverage, rarities on previous 49er teams drew cheers. Said Endriss, himself a fine punter: "I was really impressed by their kicking game, which is a great defensive weapon. It kept Washington in the hole most of the day. You can do more things defensively."

Both Endriss and Toneff, a former lineman by way of Notre Dame, cited the 49er offensive line which, by the way, was presented with the game ball for its outstanding play. "Brodie had a lot of time to pass," Toneff noted.

The Rushers meet every Monday noon at the Holiday. New president is attorney Gilford J. Medeiros, who succeeded Price Hall. During the past year Hall moved out of the area, making the club what I've always said it was. Priceless.

FASTBALLS

Vida Blue's Great Night

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie southpaw Vida Blue, shaking through the Minnesota Twins batting order in hitless fashion Monday night, contradicted an old myth of major league baseball.

The 21-year-old speedballer from Mansfield, La., threw almost no curves or changeups against the Twins. He stuck with one pitch—an active fastball—and still managed to keep the Minnesota batters off balance.

FAST BALL

"I threw about 95 per cent fastballs," the excited youngster said amid a noisy postgame celebration.

Catcher Gene Tenace confirmed that there were very few curve balls among Blue's 114 pitches in the 6-0 Oakland victory.

"I guess this proves you don't really need more than one pitch to win in the major leagues," Tenace said. "Vida actually has two fastballs. One moves in and the other moves out. It was doing all kinds of strange things in the late innings."

Blue and Tenace teamed up to strikeout the first two batters in the ninth inning and then end the game on a foul popup to first baseman Don Mincher off the bat of pesky Cesar Tovar.

PHONE CALL

When Blue got to the A's dressing room, he received a long distance phone call from club owner Charles O. Finley in Chicago. Finley rewarded the spotless pitching performance with a check for $2,000. In addition, he promised young Tenace, a bonus of $1,000.

"I hope I can get more phone calls like that," Blue said. "I'm looking forward to more good things in my baseball future, but what happened tonight just can't be put into words."

When Blue hurled a one-hitter just 10 days earlier against Kansas City, he got the silent treatment from his teammates on the bench. This time they talked it up, sensing his nervousness.

Hair Issue Crops Up Again, Trustees Say Hands Off

Hair got into the eyes of Tamalpais High School District trustees last night, but they quickly shook it out.

Board Chairman David D. Ring firmly declared the revived controversy of athletes' long tresses was "not a board question. We studied it at great length last year. This is an administrative subject to be resolved with the principal, or the superintendent."

Ring's stand followed a plea for help by Gordon Pusser, father of two Redwood High School cross-country runners among athletes suspended last year in a row which eventually went to federal court.

Pusser said last night the runners' squad and the soccer team at Redwood High were "not willing as a team to comply with grooming policies." Grooming rules have been adopted identical to last year's ban of hair below the ears or longer than collar-length.

The athletes' father also said the runners question the administration's decision not to assign math teacher Douglas B. Basham, who defended their long-hair stand last year, as coach again this year.

"We as a board," Ring replied, "expressed our very strong sympathy and support for Doug Basham — but it was an administrative decision."

Dist. Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins explained that the Redwood staff had elected this year's coach following established policy and said the students would be promised a chance to compete. Pusser had urged that the boys be allowed to race, even if only as unattached to any school's athletics program.

Another athletic policy isue was raised when Student Council spokesman Joe Franaszek asked what had happened to plans for student representation on the district's athletic policy committee.

Tam High teacher Frank J. Gold backed the student, declaring, "Unless teachers and stu-

Even Dodger Fans Applaud Willie Mays

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The only member of the San Francisco Giants that Dodger fans seem to like is Willie Mays. Mays is everybody's hero. He's one of the good guys.

To fans in Los Angeles, Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey are bad guys.

Mays got cheered and Marichal and McCovey got booed in Dodger Stadium Monday night when the Giants scored a 7-0 win in the first game of a three-game series.

The victory moved the Giants into a second place tie with the Dodgers in the National League West.

The Giants have a slight advantage in this battle for the second place cut of World Series money. They have seven games to play after the two remaining games with the Dodgers. The Dodgers have only six left. They were rained

FISH AND GAME

Why This Columnist Hates Salmon Fishing

By AL GIDDINGS

I hate salmon fishing! And you would too if you had two days like I had last week! After checking out Charlie Lawrence's 33-pound salmon from California City I decided to go down there and catch one of those monsters. Marty Medin wanted to go too, so off we went full of vim and vigor.

We launched the boat, rigged the lines, and within one minute I tied into a salmon. We were using regular salmon rods with 2-pound weights, fished at 30 feet using herring on an easy baiter hookup. The fish released the sinker on the strike, and everything went fine until we were just about to net the fish when it got off! No problem we thought at the time, but about four hours later, without another touch, and no fish on for the other 30 boats there in all this time, we figured we were beat.

THAT NIGHT I called Frank Sue of Corte Madera, telling him about the California City fishery. He suggested we go to the Muir Beach area the next day as the weather was clear and calm, and some lunkers had been taken there during the past week. This was fine with me so at 6 a.m. we were on our way. We launched Frank's 17-foot Boston Whaler at Caruso's in Sausalito.

Frank, in the meantime, figured he had forgotten his lunch in the excitement. I knew he would eat mine, so I thought I'd better buy him something.Two sandwiches, three cakes, and a box of Cheeze-its — $2.20. (I think it would have been cheaper to have come back and treated him to lunch at the Ondins!) We also saw Warren Cavanaugh of Terra Linda with a friend launched and ready to go. He said he was going to California City because the visibility outside the Golden Gate at Pt. Bonita was 100 yards! I told him it was dead at California City and to follow us, but Warren says: "Nope."

Well, we took off. The bay and ocean were calm and we made Muir Beach in one half hour, with the boat ocasionally touching the water! I've heard of the "Flying Dutchman," But now you've heard of the "Flying Chinaman." That's Frank.

AT MUIR BEACH we had no hits, so trolled up Rocky Point where Frank caught two 22-inch salmon. We used four rods; two hooked up with spoons, and two with herring using two pound weights, except for the fly rod. About lunch time, we discovered that he had brought the "left home lunch," so we had three lunches. I start opening sodas, using two hands and putting the fly rod down. Sure! I got a big hit and the last I saw of my rod it was flying through the air and then through the water too! What a fish! If someone hooks that rod about 100 yards off Rocky Point, keep it, but let me know how big the fish was! One fly rod, a Pfleuger 1498 reel, 300 yards of monofilliment, one release and one easy baiter. You'll have a $40. prize. Plus the lunker!

THEN, USING the rod, with a No. 4 Andy Reeker spoon and a one pound weight, I hooked another good fish. "Play it easy, use a light drag, don't force it, don't tear a hole in it's mouth."

Ha, I did all this but the fish still got off at the side of the boat.

I hate salmon fishing!

That was it! Frank's two fish won the pot. And that guy Warren o ver at California City got a 16 pound salmon and a bonus striper, and saw five other caught. You know — I think I need a vacation!

THE PARTY boats which eventually showed up as the fog cleared probably averaged one to two fish per rod with generally small fish, but with a good number of hefty ones too. It's really worth while going with the seas calmer and the fish really improving in size.

California City! I don't know what to say. The inside dope supposedly is to fish the last two or three hours of the outgoing. That would make this week perfect. See you there!

INCIDENTALLY, USING two rods is legal in the ocean but illegal at the California City area. Three people were cited there last week all using two rods! The salmon size limits apply both area. The ocean season closes Nov. 15, the bay is open the year around!

I RECEIVED the Sunday morning 2 a.m. call on night anglers under the Richmond Bridge again. Cited four anglers with ten stripers caught in the lights. No Marinites - all from Oakland-Hayward areas. There were other boats fishing also, but the first man cited left the area in his car, and as he crossed the Bridge enroute to Richmond, the silence of the sweet smelling air of that area was shattered by the sounds of someone yelling, "Here comes the game wardens, here comes the game wardens!"

out in Philadelphia July 29 and the game was cancelled.

Mays, the spry 39-year-old, hit his 28th homer, got two singles and drove in four runs before manager Charlie Fox took him out after seven innings. Willie showered hurriedly and was seen grabbing a cab so he had no choice words for sports writers.

Defensively he saved a few runs in the first inning when he ran to his left and made a leaping catch of a long ball hit by Willie Davis with two men on.

Marichal pitched his first shutout of the season. He was sidelined early by penicillin poisoning and is just rounding into shape. His record is 12-10.

Marichal said, "I threw my slider only twice. I used mostly screwballs and fastballs." He took only 88 pitches for eight innings but then used 25 in the last inning.

Marichal said his stomach and his right shoulder give him trouble. He says they have pained him ever since Cincinnati's Johnny Bench ran into him on a play down the first baseline Sept. 2.

Scheduled starters in the second game tonight, to be televised on Channel 2 at 8 o'clock, are Ron Bryant, 5-6, and Alan Foster, 9-13.

dents are involved . . . I can't give too much credibility" to any report the committee drafts.

Athletic policy committee chairman Harold Allison, Sir Francis Drake High School principal, said the panel is "just getting off the ground" this semester, and is to have its next meeting sometime in October in the district office. Its members include the district's three high school athletic directors, a representative of girls' teams and student body advisers in each school, he said.

As to adding student or other teachers' voices to the deliberations, Allison said, "I'd have to take that to the committee" to decide. He said the panel is seeking "as much input as possible" from anyone interested in the athletic program.

Ring and Trustee Bette Wallace asked Hawkins to draft a written assignment for the committee, which should include discussion of student and faculty participation in policy.

Allison objected that the committee might have trouble identifying "the various voices" truly representing the community.

He pointed out that the policy committee originally was formed by the district budget committee.

"I'm really discouraged," commented Mrs. Wallace, "that we have to start all over again."

Pirates Have Upper Hand In N.L. Race

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Pirates will have a combination of momentum and arithmetic going for them tonight when they and the pursuing Chicago Cubs and New York Mets resume the countdown of the National League East race.

COMMAND

The Pirates, given a "charge" when they won three out of four games from the Mets over the weekend and leading the Cubs by two games, are clearly in command of the race. They have the lead and the easiest schedule of the three contenders. The Cubs, trailing by two games, don't get another head-to-head shot at the Pirates and the Mets, behind by 3 1-2 games, have reached the stage where they can only hope and pray.

TWIN BILL

The Pirates begin their final push for the Division Title with Dock Ellis (12-9) and Bob Veale (9-15) opposing the Montreal Expos in a twi-night doubleheader at Pittsburgh. The Expos, a surprising 9-7 against the Pirates this season, are sending Bill Stoneman (5-15) and Mike Wegener (3-5) to the mound.

The Cubs, who play all their remaining 11 games on the road, open a three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals with Bill Hands (17-13) slated to oppose Bob Gibson (22-6) on the mound. Gibson is gunning for the second Cy Young Award as the NL pitcher of the Year and a victory would give him a career high of 23 for a season. The Cardinals hold a 9-6 lead over the Cubs in their season series.

SEAVER SLUMP

The Mets, limping toward the finish line with five losses in their last six games and all but desperate because of the late-season slump of Tom Seaver, start a two-game series with the Phillies in Philadelphia with Jim McAndrew (10-12) facing Jim Bunning (10-14). McAndrew has been the Mets' most effective pitcher during the last month and New York has an 11-5 season edge over the Phillies.

revenues paid by each school to San Rafael should cover that.

Jack Sims of the San Rafael High Athletic Department said that although operations are under way to fix the field's scoreboard before the first MCAL game Oct. 2, nothing has been planned regarding the lights.

Marin Catholic showed signs of coming to life, football wise with a 26-12 win over Albany Friday afternoon. The Wildcats got a 100 - plus yardage performance from running back Pat Parnow, and tailback Mark Lewis gave his usual splendid effort gaining more than 60 yards.

Perhaps the most pleasent surprise for new head coach Rev. John Heaney was the way quarterback Steve Sherry threw the ball for two touchdowns. Heaney had dispaired of having a really good passing game this year, but now it looks as though he might.

This weekend will be the last for preseason games, with all MCAL teams in action. Friday Redwood hosts Encinal at 3:30 p.m.; Drake travels to Vallejo for an 8 p.m. game; and San Rafael goes against Montgomery in Santa Rosa, also at 8.

On Saturday, Tamalpais hosts Skyline (Oakland) and San Marin is at Novato against Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park, both games starting at 1 p.m.; Marin Catholic hosts Piner of Santa Rosa at 2; and that evening at 8, Novato is at Petaluma, and Terra Linda hosts Hogan of Vallejo at San Rafael.

In a junior college contest, College of Marin plays the College of the Redwoods at Kentfield, 1 p.m.

Browns' Triumphant Grid Debut

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Twenty years ago the Cleveland Browns entered the National Football League with an opening victory and Monday night the Browns made their debut in the American Football Conference a winning one.

Homer Jones sparked the Browns to a 31-21 victory over the New York Jets by racing 96-yards with the second half kick-off and Bill Nelsen hit on 12 of 27 passes food for 145 yards including one touchdown to lead the Browns attack, before 85,703 fans, the largest in Browns history.

"It's sure been a long time since I ran that fast and hard for so long", said Jones, who was the first Browns player to runback a kick-off for a touchdown since Carl Ward did the trick in 1967.

"This was as tough a football game as we have ever played. That Joe Namath is the toughest guy we have ever met, he is just fantastic", said Coach Blanton Collier who watched Namath throw 20 completions good for 302 yards.

"The Jets have a great football team and the penalties played an important part of the game.

The Jets were penalized 161 yards and the Browns 10.

Ruling Against Gretel

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Gretel crewmen went after their first official America's Cup victory today, burdened by the knowledge they must gain a clear-cut triumph to whittle Intrepid's commanding 2-0 lead.

Australians thought they had tied the series at 1-1 Sunday, when Gretel beat the U.S. defender by a minute and seven seconds in the second straight protest race.

RULING

The triumph was denied the Aussies however, when the New York Yacht Club disqualified them for rules infractions and awarded the race to Intrepid. The club's race committee, after hearing evidence and viewing photos of the race, ruled that Gretel fouled Intrepid at the start by impeding her progress.

"We have to win every race now without any shadows being cast on our victories," said Martin Visser, Gretel's co-helmsman. "And if we get caught in a situation like Sunday's race again, we'll just go home."

ARGUES

Visser argued that Intrepid was the culprit during the starting maneuvers that resulted in a collision and caused slight damage to both 12-meter yachts. Gretel lost a two-foot farring strip from her bow and Intrepid suffered a dent in her polished wooden topside just abaft the chain plates on the port side.

Raiders Begin Preparations For Chargers

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders, haunted by their first defeat in a regular season opener since 1964, begin preparing today for a game next Sunday in San Diego against the Chargers.

The Raiders, who played poorly last season but managed to pull out some last minute victories, took it on the chin 31-21 last weekend at Cincinnati.

"We've had slow starts before," said defensive tackle Tom Keating. "But not this slow. We've never lost an opener in the five years I've been with the club."

Oakland came out of the loss to the Bengals free of injuries. However, the Raiders' pride was stung considerably when Jess Phillips of Cincinnati broke loose for a 70-yard touchdown run off a draw play on third down and long yardage. The TD gave the Bengals a commanding 28-21 lead.

"I wasn't surprised by the call," said Oakland coach John Madden. "What surprised me was that nobody tackled him."

49er Taylor Nursing Sore Ankle

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Rookie cornerback Bruce Taylor, instrumental in the San Francisco 49ers' season opening win over Washington, must overcome a reinjured ankle to be able to play Sunday against the Cleveland Browns.

Taylor, a fleet Boston University graduate drafted No. 2 on the first round, sprained his already tender ankle on a punt return last weekend during a 26-17 victory.

His tight pass coverage, along with that of left cornerback Jimmy Johnson, helped the front four penetrate the Washington line and dump quarterback Sonny Jurgensen six times.

"We'll be up against a much better offensive line against Cleveland," assistant coach Paul Wiggin said.

The 49ers took it easy Monday, returning to the practice field today to prepare for their game against the Browns at Kezar Stadium.

bat in the eighth inning," Blue said. "Just sitting around and looking at that scoreboard with all the zeroes can make a guy nervous."

Bert Campaneris and Sal Bando intensified the pressure by saving Blue's no-hitter with brilliant fielding plays in the fifth and eighth innings. Then, in the ninth, first baseman Don Mincher provided a gargantuan sigh of relief by clutching Tovar's popup for the final out.

Mincher joked afterward: "If I had dropped that one, I would have started running of the field and you wouldn't have seen me the rest of the season."

San Rafael Teacher Wins Walking Race

Tom Dooley, a teacher at San Rafael High School, won the fifth annual Fairfax Festival walking race Sunday in the time of 1 hour, 37 minutes, 53 seconds.

Bill Ranney, athletic director at San Rafael High, finished a close second, five seconds behind. Third place went to Bob Kitchen of Baltimore, Md. in 1:44 while Jim Lopes of Mill Valley came in fourth at 1:46.21.

Glory For Marin Teen-Age Netters

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Teen-agers Mike Machette of Belvedere and Sharon Walsh of San Rafael covered themselves with glory yesterday in the 44th annual Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships that also provided two big shocks — one that sent South African pro Bob Hewitt to the hospital and the other that put Australian champ Roy Enerson out of the singles competition.

Machette, Redwood High School graduate, gave the veteran old pro Pancho Gonzales a lot of hard work before Gonzales finally pounded out a 7-5, 6-4 triumph. It was a fine performance by the young Machette.

A DOUBLE

And Miss Walsh, two-time national girls champ and junior titlist at Wimbledon, whipped France's Christine Spinoza, 6-4, 6-3. Miss Walsh also teamed with Janet Newberry of aL Jolla for a 6-2, 6-3 doubles victory over Miss Spinoza and Sally Holdsworth of Great Britain.

The shock which downed Hewitt was reportedly provided by the karate chops of 75-year-old tennis club member and well known artist Anthony G. "Tony" Heinsberger. Emerson was knocked out of the singles competition by an 18-year-old named James Connors who doesn't enter college until later this year.

Heinsberger reportedly had run on the court during Hewitt's match with Joaquin Loyo-Mayo after the South African had protested calls by the linesman. Loyo-Mayo, from Mexico, won the match 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Later, Heinsberger accosted Hewitt in the dressing room and when Hewitt turned away from him, witnesses said Heinsberger chopped him in the back of the neck at least three times. Hewitt was knocked out and had to be taken to the hospital.

A mixup prevented the No. 1 ranked South African pro from being picked up for almost an hour, and when he finally reached St. Vincent's Hospital, it was discovered he was suffering from a mild concussion. He was reported in "good" condition, but was to remain for two days for observation.

Heinsberger, when reached at his home later in the evening said he "was provoked," but said his lawyer had told him not to comment further.

BACK COURT

Emerson's downfall before the blond, hard swinging Connors went relatively unnoticed as the tournament officials had apparently thought it would be no-contest for Emerson and relegated the match to a back court.

Connors, however, played Emerson to a deadlock in the first set before winning a tie-breaker. Emerson took the second set, but Connors drove back to take the final set for a 7-6, 6-7, 6-4 win.

In an earlier match, former UCLA star Arthur Ashe had to go all-out to defeat Pancho Segura 6-4 and 7-6.

Thurmond Reports To Warrior Camp

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Muscular pivotman Nate Thurmond has softened his contract holdout by reporting to the National Basketball Association training camp of the San Francisco Warriors.

Thurmond, the 6-foot-11 rebounder and defensive wizard, joined 16 Warrior teammates in a workout Monday. He will play tonight at San Jose City College where the Warriors will stage a full scale intrasquad game for the benefit of the Sight Conservation Center.

Club owner Franklin Mieuli conferred with Thurmond for two hours Monday morning. Their wide disagreement over Thurmond's pay for the 1970 season apparently is close to a solution.

Boxing

DETROIT — Joe Frazier will put up his heavyweight crown against challenger Bob Foster, the light heavyweight champ, on Nov. 18 in the Motor City. The boxers signed for the bout yesterday and it will be Frazier's first defense of his title since his technical knockout of Jimmy Ellis earlier this year.

Football

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Quarterback Sonny Sixkiller, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Washington, has been voted the Pacific-8 Conference offensive player of the week. Sixkiller, a full-blooded Cherokee, starred in the Huskies' 42-16 rout of Michigan State Saturday, firing three touchdown passes and piling up 313 yards in total offense.

OAKLAND (UPI) — Flanker Randy Vataha of Stanford and defensive lineman Rick Legherz of University of Pacific have been named players of the week by the Northern California sports scribes.

Basketball

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Center Bud Olsen of the Kentucky Colonels announced his retirement Monday night after eight years in professional basketball.

Colonels president Mike Storen said Olsen, a former San Francisco Warrior, would remain with the American Basketball Association club as a scout and assist coach Gene Rhodes in the development of rookie centers Dan Issel and Bobby Croft.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Holdings Safer When Diversified

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I retired two years ago and have the greater part of my capital in four pipeline companies' bonds. I hvae been told to sell because the natural gas shortage could cause my bonds to be worthless. You can imagine how this worries me. What do you advise me to do ? J.R.

A. While I question the validity of this reasoning, you have violated an important rule by investing in only one industry. I would advise selling BBB-rated Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line 8⅞s of 1990 and United Gas Pipe Line 5¾s of 1980. The former is trading at an eight point premium, the latter four points below your cost. As replacements, AA-rated Duquesne Lighting 8¼s of 1976 and Long Island Lighting 4⅛s of 1988 would be suitable.

Q. About 18 months ago I made my first investment — Simplicity Pattern — on your recommendation. As a teacher of home economics your advice made good sense to me. My stock since then has dropped to the low sixties twice and reached ninety once, now being five points below my cost. What do you advise now? A.H.

A Learning to live with gyrations in stock values is no easy task. If it is any consolation your stock followed rather closely the action of the market in general and was a far better performer than some high flyers which are still 50 per cent below earlier highs. Simplicity is an unusually strong company with no long-term debt, no preferred stock and current assets 3.7 times current liabilities — cash alone exceeds current liabilities by 20 per cent. In the last decade sales increased an average 24 per cent annually while earnings gained an average of 50 per cent each year. The recent liberalization in the dividend rate is the tenth increase in as many years and a 2½ per cent stock divident will be distributed again this year. Shares are now trading at about 28x estimated 1970 earnings, a generous multiple in this market. I would add to shares on any temporary corerction in price.

SUBTLE TORINO STYLE

One of the 14 1971 models, this Torino GT by Ford appeals to the sports oriented youth market. A new Torino 500 series has been added, while the Fairlane 500 and Falcon series are discontinued. New Plan On Campus Bombings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon called today for legislation to permit federal authorities to act immediately in cases of bombing or arson on college campuses even if local authorities opposed intervention.

Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., said after a meeting of Republican Congressional leaders with Nixon that the proposal would be added as an amendment to a Senate-passed anti-crime bill, now being considered by the House Judiciary Committee.

Ford, the House GOP leader, and Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican Senate leader, outlined the legislation to newsmen following the two hour, 45-minute White House meeting. Attorney General John N. Mitchell and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover also attended.

Ford said Nixon and Mitchell recommended that the FBI and other federal authorities be permitted to intervene immediately on any campus which receives any form of federal subsidy—virtually all of the colleges and universities in the nation—following an overt act such as a bombing or firebombing.

Scott also referred to "other acts of terrorism" but he declined to define them. He said the legislation would not be triggered by "throwing rocks or breaking glass."

The bill now before the House Judiciary Committee was approved by a subcommittee Monday on a day that saw Nixon gain important victories in his effort to get anti-crime

A Switch In Seashore Lease Policy

The National Park Service has partially changed its policy on leasing future land purchases in Point Reyes National Seashore back to the owners for ranching and dairy uses.

Park Supt. John L. Sansing said today that, following a restudy of the land acquisition program to determine need for public use, it was decided to lease back seashore land for a "limited period of time" if present owners request such leases.

He said he wouldn't know the terms of the leases until after discussion with owners.

Seashore policy announced Sept. 11 was that future acquisitions would not be rented back because a clause in the April 3 land acquisition appropriation prohibited it.

Sansing said ranchers had been upset about the leasing ban, and legal opinions of the meaning of the clause subsequently obtained by the park service indicated that a future leasing would be permissable after all.

However, "most of the lands above and adjacent to Drake's and Limantour esteros are within a high public use area and are needed for park purposes," Sansing said. "Consequently, they will be purchased without reservation of possession except for a

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN — A ghostly wedding party assembles in the Mill Valley city council chamber, the spirits moved, it would appear, by a vain plea last night for a real-life wedding in the timbered hall. Weddings are not in the general interest, city councilmen announced in resisting the beguiling blandishments of the bride-to-be. What city hall is missing is demonstrated by Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax who superimposed a wedding photo on one of the council chamber.

Council Divorces Wedding Idea

They say love conquers all, but the Mill Valley City Council showed last night that good old bureaucratic red tape can beat it everytime.

The council, after some discussion, turned down a request to use the council chamber for a wedding on the grounds that it would be against city policy and granting the request would set a precedent.

The request was made by Lucy Stofle of 415 Shoreline Highway who is marrying Leonard Anderson, a reporter for the Mill Valley Record, in November.

Miss Stofle told the council the "deep windows, hardwood floors and high ceiling make it a perfect place for a wedding," and added that the chamber had a special meaning to the couple as their first dates were spent there while Anderson covered the city council meetings.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard said she thought the idea was "delightful. It's the first time I've heard of anyone having a warm, romantic feeling toward the council meetings."

In the end, however, she joined Mayor George E. Wickham and Councilman Robert H. Andresen in defeating the request. They said the chambers can be used only for activities "of general interest to the citizens of Mill Valley."

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, who with Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker supported Miss Stofle's request, ventured the wedding would be in the general interest of the city's citizens.

82nd Airborne Unit On A Mideast Alert

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—Rows of nearly empty lockers line the barracks of paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division at this Army post.

The men of the 82nd packed their duffle bags and slid them under their bunks Monday after the division was placed on alert for possible use in evacuation of Americans in war-torn Jordan.

A big semiannual military firepower demonstration called "Brass Strike Seven," involving all branches of the service was called to an end five days early. The men of the 82nd are restricted to the base.

For the average soldier of the 82nd, the alert meant packing extra uniforms, shaving gear and personal articles in the duffle bags and checking out M16 rifles and bayonets from the weapons room. The weapons hang on the foot of each bunk.

The 82nd, which comprises about 10,000 of the 55,000 men stationed at Ft. Bragg, primarily is an infantry unit, and most of the men of the division have only to grab their rifles and duffle bags for transportation to their planes.

In addition, the division has an "initial ready force" always on alert which rotates between the units. Many jeeps and other support equipment are kept rigged with parachutes and ready to go.

The division was placed on alert on June 12, just over a month ago, because of the Jordan crisis, but was not used at that time for evacuation purposes.

Many of the men of the 82nd are Vietnam veterans. The Third Brigade formally rejoined the division on Dec. 16, 1969, after more than a year in Vietnam.

The Pentagon also announced the alerting of Pope Air Force Base, adjoining Ft. Bragg, and was bringing in C141 jet transports, apparently from Charleston, S.C., for possible use.

Ft. Bragg officials said the U.S. Strike Command terminated "Brass Strike Seven" because of "operational priorities of the U.S. strike command elements."

Prime Rate Drop To Aid Real Estate

The lowering of the prime interest rate charged by major banks should have an immediate effect on short-term commercial loans and a "softening" effect on local real estate loan rates within 30 days.

This is the general opinion expressed by most Marin County bank officials, who look for a possibel drop of one-quarter to one-half of 1 per cent in financing charges. Recently placed real estate loans have been earning an average of 8.5 to 9 per cent interest.

The feeling is almost unanimous that rates on personal loans will be slower to move downward.

Reagan Is Victor In Patrol Pay Battle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jess Unruh lost a legislative fight with Gov. Ronald Reagan today when the Assembly, on a preliminary vote, rejected the Democrat's request to override the governor's veto of a Highway Patrol salary increase.

The override required 54 votes and fell far short, receiving only 33 on an initial try. Seven Republicans voted to sustain the veto. Unruh kept the roll open in an attempt to gain the first override in 24 years.

The scuffle involved Reagan's trimming of a five per cent pay raise for highway patrolmen to three per cent. The governor blamed the state's "tight fiscal situation." The boost was on top of an earlier five per cent pay hike.

"This is an outrageous veto," charged Unruh, speaking to an Assembly chamber less than half filled with members.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee said the $1.6 million in additional pay raises would be "one small way that we could put our money where our mouths have been" on law enforcement.

"Apparently the governor feels paying lip service to law enforcement is enough. Quite clearly, one of the things lacking in this state is adequate compensation for law enforcement."

Unruh pointed out Reagan had signed another bill providing $7.2 million for the horse racing industry and said, "I think this is really an outrageous sense of values." The horse racing money comes from a tax on track betters.

The CHP pay hike bill was authored by Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, who was not present.

The Assembly—voting primarily along party lines—also declined to override vetoes of bills:

—By Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, to abolish tenure for San Francisco school administrators. The vote was 19-13.

—By Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, establishing urban community schools. The vote was 12-24.

—By Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, permitting San Francisco port employes to change their retirement system. The vote was 15-17.

In the Senate, a Republican broke ranks with Reagan and asked the legislature to override the veto of his bill creating a $150,000 commission to study splitting up the sprawling Los Angeles Unified School District.

Reagan vetoed the measure, but failed to telephone the author and tell him—as he had promised. The miffed GOP senator, John L. Harmer of Glendale, said he later was told the governor "lost my phone number."

Harmer placed his bill on the Senate's morning agenda and—in a rare move for a Republican—asked the body to override Reagan's veto.

Hussein Sends Two Brigades To Check Syrian Tank Moves

Arab World Appears Convinced U.S. Ready To Intervene; Threats Made

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

King Hussein sent two brigades of troops into northern Jordan today for what Israeli military dispatches said could be a showdown with invading Syrian tanks. Large scale Israeli tank movements were reported along the border as the cabinet met in emergency session in Jerusalem.

The Arab world appeared convinced the United States was ready to intervene in the spreading conflict and there were separate warnings from Syria, Egypt and the Palestinian guerrillas who said U.S. interests in the Arab world would be blown up if intervention came.

Pope Paul VI cautioned Israeli against intervention in Jordan.

In Washington, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott met with President Nixon for two hours and 45 minutes today and reported afterward Nixon was "prepared to preserve the proper interests of the United States in the current Middle East crisis."

He sidestepped questions on whether American armed intervention was discussed but called the situation "perilous."

Palestinian guerrillas said the Jordanian air force had gone into action against their positions in the northern sectors for the first time. Most of the air force was destroyed in the Six Day War but it still has 38 combat aircraft and a number of transports and helicopters.

The guerrillas said Israeli artillery had shelled Irbid early today but there was no confirmation. Previously they reported Israeli Air Force Mystere jets flying protective cover for Jordanian resupply flights.

Israel military correspondents in the city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee said Hussein sent in two brigades of troops before dawn today toward Irbid, 12 miles below the Syrian border and only 18 miles east of the cease-fire line.

They said convoys of Jordanian army trucks rolled southward on the east bank of the Jordan River later in the day but that they were empty Jordanian supply trucks returning south for more supplies.

U.S. Eyes King's Assistance Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration is considering a request for assistance from Jordan's embattled King Hussein, who was understood to have sent a similar appeal to Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials declined to speculate just how they would respond to Hussein's appeal. They indicated they have been asked for military help in the event of further setbacks in Hussein's position as his forces try to stem an invasion of Syrian troops who came to the aid of Arab guerrillas.

It has been assumed here the United States, which has placed paratroops and naval units on alert, would intervene in Jordan if it became necessary to protect and evacuate U.S. citizens there including the airline hostages still held by Arab commandos. However, the administration has given no hint whatsoever as to whether it would be prepared to intervene on Hussein's side in the fighting against Syria if the Jordanian government's existence appeared threatened.

Syrian armored forces were reported to have captured Irbid, 40 miles north of Amman, the second largest city in the country. Palestinian guerrillas still were holding out in Amman itself, although Hussein's forces had routed

Detectors Will Be Used To Screen Courtroom Visitors

Security at the Hall of Justice will be bolstered by metal detectors to screen courtroom visitors and small walkie talkies to improve communication.

These and other security measures, costing a total of $28,266, were approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors today by a unanimous 4 to 0 vote. Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation, and Louis H. Baar presided today in his place.

Undersheriff Sidney Stinson declined to disclose details of the added security measures, explaining that he does not want to tip the county's hand. "We're being deliberately vague," said Stinson.

He said metal detectors will be used "During certain trials." Locks will be changed in certain courtroom areas, and handie-talkies, a small version of the walkie-talkie, will be used by officers in both the Hall of Justice and the Civic Center Administration Building to improve communications within the quarter-mile long building.

These security measures and six additional court bailiffs are an outgrowth of the Aug. 7 kidnap-shoot-out which left four dead, including Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, and three wounded.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Lava Spills Out

VOLCANO, Hawaii (UPI) — Fiery lava Monday traveled seven miles down the slopes of Kilauea Volcano, wiped out a prehistoric Hawaiian Village and poured into the sea.

The lava started from the volcano's Alae and Aloi craters, which have been in an almost constant state of eruption for nearly six weeks.

The ancient village, which was known to anthropologists and Volcanoes National Park Rangers, was in a remote forest far from any towns or highways.

The lava's first contact with the ocean was unspectacular but by early evening when high waves began to crash ashore a huge steam cloud rose into the sky.

Inflation Plea

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — The United States said today it is doing its part to fight inflation but more must be done by others to liberalize trade and share mutual defense costs.

David M. Kennedy, Secretary of the Treasury, told the Internatioonal Monetary Fund (IMF) annual conference U.S. defense expenditure will be cut by $5 billion this year by scaling down the Vietnam conflict.

Kennedy addressed the conference after a sharp attack on the United States by French Finance Minister Valery Giscard Destaing, who compared the U.S. dollar to a broken down clock.

Giscard blamed the United States for spreading inflation and said other countries' currencies "cannot be permanently determined in relation to a standard that is no longer fixed but variable."

To Join Panthers

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — John Froines, one of two defendants in the "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial to be acquitted, is resigning from the University of Oregon faculty to help Black Panthers and other "third world" people.

"America has forced me to stop my scientific work," Froines told a news conference Monday. "Instead of creating a scientist, it has created a revolutionary."

He said he would go to New Haven, Conn., to work for the release of Black Panther Chairman Bobby Seale, charged in connection with a homicide.

The 30-year-old assistant professor of chemistry was acquitted last February of riot charges, but along with all the other defendants and their attorneys was sentenced to prison for contempt of court. He is appealing.

Special POW Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to designate Nov. 11 as a national day of support for U.S. prisoners of war was introduced today by Rep. John T. Myers, R-Ind.

Myers offered the joint resolution following a speech by Col. Frank Borman to a joint session of Congress. Borman is President Nixon's special representative on prisoner of war matters.

The Indiana Republican said it was appropriate to dedicate this year's observance of Veterans Day to the more than 1,500 Americans listed as prisoners of war or missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Priest Fund Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Thomas C. Lynch has been asked by Milton G. Gordon, Democratic candidate for treasurer, to investigate the campaign fund raising practices of incumbent Ivy Baker Priest.

Gordon told newsmen Monday that "several" California bankers had received a campaign solicitation letter from Arthur J. Dolan, Mrs. Priest's Northern California campaign chairman, soliciting funds.

"I am concerned that California bankers are being forced to make campaign contributions to the treasurer by veiled threats that the state will withdraw its funds from them," said Gordon.

Resigns Position

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)— Tengku Abdul Rahman, prime minister of Malaysia since it gained independence 13 years ago, resigned today and handed over the government to Tun Abdul Razak, an aide 20 years his junior.

Rahman, 68, stepped down with his power and prestige intact.

Rahman submitted his formal resignation to Malaysia's new king, Sultan Abdul Halim Shah, in the throne room of the national palace.

He then introduced Razak, 48, to the king—who himself was sworn in only Monday—and Abdul named Razak prime minister. The public was barred from ceremonies in the palace that once housed a Chinese millionaire's seraglio.

Candidate Tells Of Reds Success

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Peace and Freedom party candidate for U.S. Senator, Robert Scheer, Monday gave a glowing report on Communist Asia.

The former editor of Ramparts Magazine said the report was based on his tours of Red Asian capitals with Black Panther fugitive Eldridge Cleaver. Both were part of an 11-man delegation which traveled through China, North Korea and North Vietnam for the past three months.

Scheer said he was convinced of the "success of Marxist-Leninism."

SCENE OF VIOLENCE AGAIN

Police in Washington, D. C., patrol a glass-littered street in the area hardest hit during Washington's August 1968 rioting. The outbreak of rock throwing and minor looting erupted late last night after police tried to make a narcotics arrest at a hotel along Northwest 14th Street. In the rioting that followed 47 persons were arrested for rock throwing and looting. Meanwhile, Gov. John J. McKeithen has declared a state of emergency in Houma, La., following racial incidents after a football game Friday night at nearby Thibodaux, La.

Agnew, Students In Confrontation

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bitter student, face to face with Spiro T. Agnew, charged the vice president's speeches had done much to build an aura of violence and said Agnew was a "precursor of violence."

Flushing and spirited but possessed, the vice president in reply struck at "the disgusting permissive attitudes of the people in command of college campuses." To blame him for the resultant violence, he said, was "one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

The exchange flared at the end of a 90-minute taping of a television show in which Agnew debated with five student leaders Monday night. They appeared on The David Frost Show, scheduled to be aired Friday in most larger cities of its broadcast circle.

The student who voiced the charge was Richard Silverman, president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, who is studying for a doctorate in political science in the field of urban violence.

The preceding sections of the show, while often critical on both sides, was conducted with generally good spirits. Student unrest and Agnew's recent addresses got a going over.

Discussion of the Kent State University campus slayings and the "hardhat" construction worker attacks on student activists led to the heated final five minutes. Agnew said "the evidence seems to indicate the National Guard overreacted" in the Kent shootings that killed four students.

"I don't excuse what they did," Agnew said of the guard, but he added it was amazing how the American people had "forgotten the precursors" of the shooting—the two nights of rioting, the burning of the ROTC building and the cutting of hoses of firemen trying to fight the blaze.

The hardhat clashes with students were not premeditated, as were some campus disruptions, Agnew said, but resulted from "the rage of people who work to build this country." He added that "I don't condone the violence" but that "I can't equate that wave of revulsion when they saw the flag defiled" with campus unrest.

Silverman said Agnew had "a strange sense about what happened" at Kent State in suggesting the cause was rock throwing and protests.

"You don't suggest how disgusting, how abhorrent it is for those of us who feel this way to watch the United States invade Cambodia," Silverman said. "You talk about an aura of violence, about precursors of violenve. And there's one small failing left out here. And this is the distinction between your being a political joke and your being a very serious man.

"And that is that you yourself, singularly, are perhaps the greatest precursor of violence in this country. You have done more to build an aura of violence, to build a milieu in which violence is accepted, than anyone I know."

"Let me just point out one thing," Agnew replied. "Long before I became a household word, violence was rampant in this country. The Berkeley campus exploded when I was still back in county government. Columbia University turned topsy-turvy long before President Nixon was even inaugurated.

"And yet you say my rhetoric has caused the violence . . . student violence is a way of life in Germany, Japan, England and many other countries where the effect of my rhetoric is virtually nonexistent.

"Now to use me as some convenient bete noire for the violence that's existed in this country because of the disgusting permissive attitudes of the people in command of college campuses is one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

Eva Jefferson, student body president at Northwestern University and the only Negro in the debate, told Agnew that what disturbed her about his speeches was that "you're doing us a great disservice because you're making people afraid of their own children . . . When you make people afraid of each other, you isolate people."

Agnew said that if isolating people were his goal "I wouldn't be here tonight." Bete noire, a French term, the dictionary says, means "something that one especially dislikes or dreads: bugbear."

Ky Leaves For Paris; U.S. Next?

SAIGON (UPI)—Vice President and Mrs. Nguyen Cao Ky left for Paris today with every indication he would fulfill a speaking engagement Oct. 3 at a Washington, D.C. pro-Vietnam War rally. But some U.S. officials speculated Ky might never make it to the United States.

Ky and his wife, Mai, boarded a regular Air Vietnam flight to Tokyo, with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker a surprise fiugre at the colorful sendoff ceremony at Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Bunker as a safety precaution had advised Ky against going to the United States, and suggested the South Vietnamese vice president's visit might influence U.S. Congressional elections.

Asked why he showed up at the airport, Bunker chuckled.

"No comment," he said. "I am here at the invitation of the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry."

On the war front, Cambodian troops led by an elite paratrooper corps captured the North Vietnamese stronghold of Tang Kauk today in a thrust that broke an eight-day lull in the biggest government drive of the Cambodian campaign.

Early reports said the Cambodians met little resistance in seizing Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh. Heavy concentrations of Communists, most of them identified as members of the 275th North Vietnamese regiment, had stalled the embattled task force along Highway 6. Casualties were not announced.

The government troops had been heavily reinforced Monday.

Communiques from Saigon today reported loss of two U. S. helicopters, killing five Americans and wounding five others. Five men died aboard a Marine Corps CH46 Seaknight 'copter today 11 miles south-southeast of Da Nang. Five were wounded Sunday in a Uh1 medical evacuation copter shot down 45 miles south-southeast of Da Nang.

The U. S. Command said today the last units of the U. S. 9th Infantry Division had begun pulling out in preparation for leaving the war zone under President Nixon's Phase 4 withdrawal. About 2,570 men are affected. Removal of the units will leave no American infantrymen south of Saigon.

Viet Cong units early today attacked a South Vietnamese position 5 miles south of Artillery Base O'Reilly, 12 miles east of the Laotian border and 2 miles west of Hue. The defenders killed 27 Communists in driving off the assault.

Tito's Plans For A Joint Leadership

BELGRADE (UPI)—Yugoslavia's aging President Tito, who has guided his nation through a quarter-century of increasingly liberal Communist rule, says a collective leadership will replace him at the head of the government when he is gone.

Tito, still hale and hearty at 78, spoke to a meeting of Zagreb social and political workers Monday night.

"It is true that I have been on this post a long time and I would like to have more possibilities to deal with some other matters," he said.

The announcement followed—and resembled in overall shape—Tito's 18-month old plan for the future rule of the Communist party.

Under the Yugoslav constitution, Tito now heads both party and government. But at the Ninth Party Congress in March, 1969, he announced formation of a 14-man executive committee at the head of the party composed of two top Communists from each of Yugoslavia's six republics and one each from the two autonomous provinces of Kosovo and Vojvodina. It contained the party's ranking ideological, theoretical and political minds.

DRAWING OF SHIP — This is a drawing of the two-masted Brother Jonathan which sank 105 years ago with $200,000 in gold and the loss of 203 of 222 persons aboard her off the coast of Crescent City.

Vessel With $200,000 In Gold Believed Found Off Crescent City

CRESCENT CITY (UPI)— Eight northern California men believe they have located the hulk of a ship which sank 105 years ago with $200,000 in gold.

Larry Holcomb, a school psychologist and diving enthusiast who spent 19 years on the trail of the vessel, the sidewheeler Brother Jonathan, says an attempt to reach the ship may be made within the next month.

The Brother Jonathan foundered in a storm 18 miles northwest of Crescent City on the afternoon of July 30, 1865. Aboard were 222 passengers and crewmen, 900 tons of cargo and the payroll for U.S. soldiers stationed in the Pacific Northwest.

More than 200 persons drowned in the disaster.

Two years ago, Holcomb found what he believes may be the Brother Jonathan's wreckage. For understandable reasons, he won't say exactly where.

"A couple of years ago I thought I had enough information to go out and search for it, and I built a ship for that purpose," Holcomb said.

"We found a hull, but we're not sure about it at this point."

In June of this year Holcomb and seven other men formed the Brother Jonathan Co. and obtained a permit from the California State Lands Commission for all salvage rights.

John Fraser, a Del Norte County supervisor, is secretary-treasurer of the company. Other members are divers Ben Kirby Jr., James Moore and Dean Fox; Larry Bosh, an engineer; Lee Smallwood, an electronics expert; and Dr. Glen Olson, an undersea photographer.

Olson, of San Francisco State College, plans to photograph the operation and eventually write a book about it.

One of San Francisco's most popular and able seamen, Capt. Samuel J. deWolf was in command as the 220-foot long Brother Jonathan loaded freight and passengers for what was to be the final and fatal voyage.

At noon on July 28, the ship backed away from the wharf at San Francisco and sailed out the Golden Gate for the trip up the northern California coast.

The following day, north of Eureka, heavy seas and strong winds were encountered. The ship put into Crescent City harbor for the night, and continued the journey the next morning.

But the strong winds turned into a gale and Capt. deWolf decided to turn back toward the harbor he had left that morning.

Fleeing toward Crescent City, the Brother Jonathan struck a submerged rock off Point St. George about two miles south of Seal Rock and about 18 miles northwest of Crescent City.

A hole was smashed in the bottom, just forward of the engine room. Water poured in. A mast broke and hurtled down on the deck. Cannon shots fired on the ship were heard by people ashore, who gathered on a bluff to watch, helpless to assist.

Six lifeboats were launched, but only one made it to shore, carrying five women, three children, 10 crewmen and the ship's first mate. Captain deWolf and 202 others were lost.

Holcomb says that once positive identification of the ship is made, salvage operations will begin, preferably during October and November when visibility for deep-sea diving is best.

"The area is such a terrible combination of bum current and bad weather that we've had trouble in the past," he said. "At this point we're holding off until good weather."

Jordan Fighting Hinders Efforts To Free Hostages

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Palestinian guerrillas said Monday 54 hostages from three hijacked jetliners, including 38 Americans, were safe. But a five-nation committee trying to negotiate freedom for the captives said efforts had been stymied by fighting in Jordan.

"Our latest information is that the hostages have not been harmed," said an official of the Popular Front For the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) in a statement from Beirut.

"They are still being held at various locations (in and near Amman, Jordan)," the spokesman said.

The guerrilla spokesman said a third party Sunday approached the PFLP asking whether the Red Cross could negotiate on behalf of the five governments involved in efforts to free the hostages.

"We have no objection," the PFLP spokesman said. "But there is no point in negotiating at this stage. We have set our demands and they are not negotiable. The only thing to negotiate is how to implement these demands once the governments agree."

The PFLP demands released of seven Arab guerrillas from three Western European countries and release of two Algerians detained in Israel; and freedom for a Swiss accused of spying for the Arabs, 10 Lebanese held by Israel and an unspecified number of Palestinians held in Israeli jails.

There has been no word from the hostages since fighting broke out Thursday between Arab guerrillas and Jordanian army forces in Amman.

Jury Trial Set For Teens In Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the week of Oct. 26 for Stephen John Pappas, 19, of San Rafael, and Arthur George Metzger, 19, of no known address, accused of burglary and possessing stolen property.

The two youths and a third 19-year-old, Reade Collins Backer, of Ross, were arrested on April 1 when a deputy sheriff noticed their car being driven erratically in Tiburon.

Baker, who is serving a jail sentence, testified at a preliminary hearing that Pappas and Metzger stole various articles from a Tiburon residence.

All three, according to the deputy, said they were heroin addicts.

Metzger is also due to be tried the week of Oct. 19 on a charge of burglarizing a Panoramic Highway residence last December.

Corte Madera Orders Draft Of Bike Paths

The Corte Madera Town Council, faced yesterday with demands for construction of safer bicycle routes through the town, approved the drafting of a route map, an ordinance outlining bike registration and provisions for citing offensive bike riders.

The matter came before the council as 44 residents petitioned the town council to insure provisions for a bicycle lane were included in reconstruction plans for Tamalpais Avenue.

The council said such a lane parallel to the sidewalk, would cost the taxpayers about $70,000. With less than a third that amount in their budget reserve, the council quickly shifted discussion to less expensive means of providing safe passage for bike enthusiasts.

Gladys G. Polhemus of 291 Golden Hind Passage however suggested the $70,000 bicycle lane along Tamalpais Avenue could be financed over the years by a registration fee of $1 per bike.

"It would take quite a while to recoup the expense of the $70,000 improvement," she admitted but added it would be a showpiece for the county.

Other suggestions included the banning of parking along the north side of Tamalpais Avenue with the existing parking lane opened for bicycles. This was rejected because the council could foresee strong protest from residents along the avenue who would lose parking space.

"The demand for improvements is not as great for the sport bicyclists as for the children," Councilman Robert P. Simmons said suggesting the council concentrate on providing safe routes, possibly on sidewalks, for children.

After initial quibbling over whether bicycle signs should be posted designating safe streets for riders to use, or designating unsafe streets not to be used, the council directed its staff to outline relatively safe bike paths within the city and report at the next meeting.

It also directed the police department to work with the town engineer in developing an ordinance to outline bicycle safety regulations and registration. The draft will be returned at the next meeting for consideration.

"This is a first step," Mayor Edward W. Colthurst told the audience. "It's about all we can do at this time."

The council agreed that the designation of bike paths coupled with registration and strict enforcement of bicycle regulations were about the only provisions it could make in a tight budget year.

Corte Madera Theater Wins Right To Raise Sign

Operators of the Cinema I Theater in Corte Madera last night won their appeal to the town council of planning commission denial of raising a sign along Highway 101.

The split 4-to-1 vote approving raising the sign six feet, came after Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff had expressed his displeasure over the appearance of the theater, and voted against the appeal.

"I don't think raising the sign will improve your patronage materially," Wagstaff told owner Nathan Blumenfeld.

He suggested Blumenfeld make his establishment "more esthetically attractive. You're landscaping is dying on the vine."

He also took issue with the $3 charge for admittance to the theater, saying such a charge makes it prohibitive for families to attend the theater.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

MORTUARY — Approved unanimously a planning commission recommendation that the C-1, local shopping district zone, include mortuaries. The planning commission approved Aug. 10 a use permit to San Francisco mortician Nicholas P. Daphne on condition the council approved the use .

Soviet Craft Continues Toward Earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space craft carrying moon rocks never touched by human hands sped toward earth today and Russian commentators said its mission opened the way for a "safer and cheaper" exploration of outer space.

The news agency Tass emphasized the recovery of the vehicle with lunar soil would be a "complex task." It said: As the area of possible landing is rather large, the search and retrieval of the return aparatus will be a complex task."

SHOW ADVANTAGE

If successful, Luna 16 would demonstrate what the Russians have contended all along — the great advantage of unmanned flights over much more costly manned missions

American experts said last July that if Apollo 11's landing craft had been piloted by a computer alone instead of by men, it would have probably crashed on the moon.

By contrast, these experts said, the Soviet unmanned Luna 15 that shadowed Apollo 11 around the moon crash landed near the Sea of Tranquility where astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. set down.

FLAWLESS MISSION

According to official Soviet reports Luna 16 carried out its mission flawlessly.

"The Luna 16 mission," said a Moscow television commentator, "Opens the way for a cheaper and safer exploration of outer space."

The soviet craft, hurled toward the moon Sept 12, softlanded on the lunar surface Sunday, scooped a bit of moon surface and carried out a "complex of technological operations."

An electric shovel aboard the craft collected Lunar soil, placed it into a sealed container aboard Luna 16's return apparatus which was lifted off atop a rocket Monday. It is scheduled to return to earth Thursday.

Tickets are being handled by San Rafael attorney Leonard Shaw. "Order in the Court" is the subject of Younger's talk.

Alto Bowl Project Finally Approved

After a year-and-a-half of trying, Cal-Fong Investment Corp. last night got approval from the Mill Valley City Council for a density change which will allow construction of a 109-unit housing development in Alto Bowl.

By a 3-2 vote, with Councilmen Robert H. Andresen and Edward J. Boessenecker dissenting, the council agreed to let the company go ahead with plans for 104 garden cottages and five one-family residences on a 27.5-acre site. The area is zoned for three units per acre and the Cal-Fong plan calls for 3.96 units per acre.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard said she thought the plans represented a "significant difference" from a proposal calling for 4.3 units per acre which the council turned down earlier this year.

Attached to the council's approval were conditions calling for contracts for flood control work to be let and traffic arrangements having city approval before any development can begin.

Members of the audience, including representatives of the adjacent Alto-Sutton Manor and Scott Valley Homeowners' associations, argued against the plan as they have in the past on the grounds the project will contribute to a traffic problem around Edna McGuire School and on Lomita Drive and will complicate flood hazards in Alto Bowl.

A petition with 200 signatures opposing the plan was presented to Mayor George E. Wickham, although the mayor said the signatures included those of people from "Burlingame to Bolinas."

Andresen said the project was "trying to put a square peg in a round hole" because it proposes housing for young couples and some elderly and is "somewhat antichildren." He said it didn't make sense to build a development with few children near a school, and a development with elderly people some distance from shopping areas.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

INTERSECTION — Awarded a contract of $108,072 to Ghilotti Bros. of San Rafael for widening the intersection of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

REZONING — Continued to Nov. 16 consideration of an application for rezoning property near La Goma Street and Miller Avenue. The applicant, Peter Haywood, said he was amending the application and now planned to construct condominium townhouses instead of apartments.

SUBDIVISIONS — Approved a tentative subdivision map for the shelter ridge residential development, but continued until Oct. 5 consideration of a minor subdivision request for two lots near Mason and East Blithedale avenues.

MEETING — Scheduled for Nov. 10 a joint meeting with the city-county planning council.

SLIDE — Held over until a closed session at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 5 consideration of whether or not the city should spend $3,500 to determine the cause of the Miller Avenue slide.

BONDS — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 29 for a study session on possible bond issues.

The Canadian National Railway carried 13.8 million passengers in 1969 .

State Discussing Antioch Bridge Ferry

STOCKTON (UPI)—The state Division of Highways disclosed today that negotiations were under way with the Army for ferry passenger service during repairs of the Antioch Bridge.

Highways Administrator Tom Platt said the ferry would travel the San Joaquin River between Eddo's on the Sacramento County side and Driftwood on the Contra Costa County side. An Army landing barge would be used, he added.

The negotiations, Platt said, were concerned with who would man the barge and on insurance coverage for passengers. The state planned to start the service "as quickly as possible," he added.

The bridge was damaged during the Labor Day holiday weekend when the SS Washington Bear scraped fenders guarding the foundations of the south tower as it passed under the 180-foot lift span.

A division spokesman said the tower's foundation legs were bent, locking the span in the "up" position. Bridgetender Jack Davidson was stranded in his cabin until firemen lowered him to safety.

Davidson, at the time, said he was afraid of heights and would never return to the span because of his fear.

Platt said Davidson, a 10-year veteran with the division, was being reassigned to a lower bridge.

Original estimates of the damage were set at $500,000. However, a spokesman said a more thorough investigation placed damages at between $700,000 and $900,000.

Owners of the Washington Bear were sued recently for $950,000.

Repairs to the span were being made by the Peter Kiewit & Sons Construction Co. The spokesman said they would not be complete for at least five more months.

Credit Sales In Bay Area Under Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—At least six investigators for the Federal Trade Commission are investigating credit sales in the San Francisco Bay Area today, according to Charles Thurber, manager of the Better Business Bureau.

"These men are investigating whether the Federal Consumers Credit Protection Act is being enforced in the area," Thurber said.

He said the investigators were investigating all remifications of credit sales in the area involving advertising, instalment purchases and interest rates.

"The Better Business Bureau met with those in charge a week ago," Thurber said, "and offered cooperation in all ramifications of the problem."

The investigation will cover stores, loan companies and any others offering credit accommodations.

Brush Fire Rages In Oakland Hills

OAKLAND (UPI)—A brush fire in the Oakland Hills raged out of control today, endangering homes near the Caldecott Tunnel.

Flames 50 feet high raced through dry grass sending a cloud of smoke over Oakland that was visible throughout the Bay Area.

Fire units were battling to prevent the fire from engulfing homes on the side of the tunnel which takes Highway 24 through the hills.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

Fire departments in a number of East Bay cities were alerted. In addition to handling emergency calls they were swamped with calls from persons who saw the smoke.

during its brief session this week to consideration of veto overrides. The meeting legally can last up to five days, but legislative leaders hoped to adjourn Wednesday.

There hasn't been a veto overriden by a legislature since Earl Warren was governor in 1946.

Senate Democrats made two futile attempts Monday and fell far short of gaining the necessary two-thirds vote. Needing 27 affirmative votes, each override attempt failed by 18-16.

One bill, by Senate Democratic leader George Moscone, would have provided presidential counselor Robert Finch and state Supreme Court Associate Justice Stanley Mosk retirement benefits for the full terms they didn't serve as lieutenant governor and attorney general, respectively. Now they are eligible only for partial term benefits.

The other bill, by Senate Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles, would have required the appointment of two legislators to the Coliseum Commission.

The Assembly met only briefly Monday and adjourned.

Although a small attendance had been expected, all but eight of the 120 lawmakers showed up for the first day.

One of the more irritated legislators was Harmer.

The conservative senator, normally one of Reagan's staunchest supporters, told newsmen he was "dismayed and disappointed" at the governor.

Harmer said Reagan telephoned him Sunday afternoon to inform him there were "some serious questions" about his bill.

"If you do have to veto the bill, I'd appreciate hearing about it without reading it in the paper," Harmer said he told Reagan.

"I'll take care of it," the Senator said the governor replied.

He is to return to court next Monday to enter a plea.

Hussein Sends Units To Check Tank Drive

Earlier, Syrian units were reported moving south toward Amman.

Heavy fighting broke out in Amman today amidst scenes of horro. An Arab correspondent who got a dispatch out of Amman said hundreds of houses had been destroyed and thousands of bodies were in the streets and under rubble. The death toll was said to exceed 10,000 with tens of thousands wounded.

Guerrilla broadcasts said King Hussein's palace was under fire.

The Palestinian Red Crescent said "thousands of children are dying in Amman of hunger and thirst and tens of thousands of wounded are dying due to lack of medical aid and the destruction of hospitals."

The International Red Cross said in Geneva the food situation in Amman was so critical its chartered DC6 had begun flying in food rather than medical supplies. It said 6.5 tons were flown in today and that the food situation in one Palestinian refugee camp outside Amman is "absolutely catastrophic" after six days of civil war.

The Egyptian information minister said he had received a message from guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat that the shelling of the Al Wahdat refugee camp on the outskirts of Amman had killed 7,000 persons and left 120,000 refugees homeless.

Israel announced that its hospitals will treat women and children and aged victims of the fighting in Jordan if Jordan reopens the Jordan River bridges to allow the wounded to cross.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Davan and Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev briefed the cabinet today on "security problems" but no word leaked out of Israeli military plans. The country itself was on full military alert.

Military sources in Mainz, Germany, said a strong American mechanized airborne force was making hasty preparations for a possible drop into Jordan.

The military newspaper Stars and Stripes quoted Maj. Gen. Donald V. Pattan, commanding general of the 8th Infantry Division, as saying, "We have no time phase and nothing is committed at this time. We're just to button up and make all plans for an airborne drop."

With the possibility of American intervention increasing, Egypt warned the United States against stepping in, saying this would threaten world peace. Egyptian Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Hiedal said intervention would endanger American lives even further.

Syria issued a similar warning.

Arab nations led by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt called a summit conference today in Cairo to try to end the war but the meeting appeared doomed to failure before it started when the principals involved in the fighting boycotted it.

King Hussein sent his military premier Brig. Mohammed Daoud. Guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat refused to go and told the Arab leaders "go back to your palaces because you . . . no longer make the decisions." The Syrian President, in Cairo, also refused to attend.

The Israeli cabinet was called into session in Jerusalem today to assess the situation and hear Premier Golda Meir report on her American arms quest. The British cabinet also met in London in special session and shortly afterwards the new appeal was sent to Russia.

The British appeal was delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Sir Duncan Wilson. Both Britain and the United States had appealed earlier to Russia to intervene with Syria to get the Baath government to pull its troops back out of Jordan.

them from several sections of the capital.

There was some speculation in diplomatic quarters here that Israel, feeling threatened by the Syrian armor on the plains to the west, might intervene with air power to aid Hussein. However, there was no evidence whatsoever Israel actually was considering such action.

As word of Hussein's aid feeler came out, Roger P. Davies, deputy assistant secretary of state for Mideast affairs, met first with Jordanian Ambassador Ahmid Sharaf, then with Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin.

There was no word on what Davies and Rabin discussed, but Davies and Sharaf talked about the situation in general and how the Jordanian government could avail itself of two field hospitals the United States has contributed. The International Red Cross has not been able to get the hospitals into Jordan.

Sharaf said after his talk with Davies that his government had not asked for U.S. military intervention.

It was not clear exactly why Hussein had put his request in the form he did. However, it was assumed that he did not want to risk a flat rejection on the possibility of military intervention, believing it wiser to leave it up to the Western powers to decide what they could do best to aid him.

SEASHORE

few months to permit the owners time to remove their personal effects."

These areas total 4,000 to 6,000 acres, he said.

Whether policy on lands presently leased will be changed will be decided after meeting with the ranchers, Sansing said. He predicted Sept. 11 that rental agreements would be terminated within 18 months.

Three of six leased areas are within the Drake's and Limantour esteros area.

Although lands may be rented back after purchase, "included in the reservation of possession in some cases would be appropriate public access corridors and the right of the National Park Service to utilize certain portions of the land for development," Sansing indicated.

Already leased areas will be reexamined so that adjustments — if necessary — can be made to insure full public access, the park head said.

Sansing also said he would like to discuss with an interested rancher the possibility of setting up a model dairy farm and ranch which could be visited by the public.

Public ideas for other possible land uses in the seashore will be solicited by the National Park Service at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Room 311 of the Civic Center.

Funds Approved For Holding Pond

The Novato Sanitary District Board, in a special meeting last night, approved spending $2,000 for construction of a pond to store contents of the Novato plant digester tank while it is cleaned and renovated.

Cleaning and repair of the 500,000-gallon tank, which has been in operation for 15 years without cleaning, was budgeted at a total cost of $20,000 in the fiscal 1970-71 budget.

The board also accepted easement deeds for eight parcels of property on the Marin Golf and Country Club golf course through which lines were installed several years ago, but deeds were not previously accepted.

determined by the Federal Housing Administration. But there may be another drop in "points" charged buyers and sellers when such loans are placed. (One point is equivalent to 1 per cent on the face amount of the loan). The point system has been dropping for more than a year and is down to a total of two or three points.

There is some feeling among local bank officials, however, that the lowering of the prime rate was premature and resulted from government pressure on the banks. Most of them agree that there will be no dramatic additional supply of funds made immediately available, as there is presently a high "loan to deposit ratio" among California banks.

However, the present supply of money will continue to hold, it is believed, if depositors continue to take advantage of the high interest paid on savings accounts - and there is no immediate drop foreseen in these rates.

All bankers reached by the Independent-Journal said they believe there is bound to be a psychological effect on the economy and a stimulation in real estate activity.

Commercial banks across the country fell into line today behind major New York banks which cut their prime interest rates a half-point to 7.5 per cent Monday.

Belvedere Orders Dogs To Go

A Belvedere man will have to get rid of the 10 sled dogs he has had for years, the Belvedere Planning Commission decided last night.

Chairman George V. Banning said the commission denied a request from Robert I. Levorsen of 332 San Rafael Avenue to keep the dogs. Levorsen is a dog-sled fan, Banning said, and uses the dogs for exhibits and races in Alaska.

Levorsen had to apply for the permit because of a new ordinance restricting the number of dogs which can be kept to three.

Banning said three neighbors, citing possible pollution of Belvedere Lagoon, opposed the use permit.

Commissioners were also concerned with what would have been a "rather unusual precedent," Banning said.

The commission also referred to the city attorney for an opinion a request from Henry K. Mettier of 330 Beach Road for a variance to construct a new home on his property and use the present house as an accessory building.

The commission recommended to the city council adoption of an ordinance setting minimum lot sizes and frontages in single family residential zones similar to those for other zones.

16-Year-Old Hurts Leg In Cycle Crash

A 16-year-old Mill Valley boy was reported in good condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with a compound leg fracture and scalp cuts suffered in a Tamalpais Valley motorcycle accident yesterday.

Four other persons were injured, none seriously, in Marin automobile accidents yesterday and Sunday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The Mill Valley youth, Rickey E. Duerner, of 438 Wellesley Avenue, was injured when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Philip F. McGovern, 17, of 716 Cabin Drive, Mill Valley, at 5:20 p.m., the highway patrol said.

McGovern was westbound on Eastwood Way when Duerner turned onto Eastwood from Glenwood Avenue and the two collided, according to officers.

James H. Asselin, 52, of Novato, was treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and scrapes on his left arm after his car hit an embankment and overturned at 2 p.m. yesterday on Grandview Avenue in Novato near the Black Point Inn.

The patrol said Asselin, of 324 Grandview Avenue, said he swerved to avoid an oncoming car.

Richard P. Wahler, 18, of 5 Valley Circle, Mill Valley, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for cuts and bruises suffered when a car he was driving slid across Almonte Boulevard near Rosemont Avenue in Almonte and into the path of a car driven by David Miller, 46, of Daly City.

The patrol said Miller and a passenger, Marilyn Pickens, 30, of San Francisco, were also taken to Kaiser following the accident at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, but the hospital had no record of treating them.

Bolinas Quarantine To Students Sought

The quarantine at Bolinas Lagoon should apply to College of Marin students conducting Marine studies as well as to the general public, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared today by unanimous vote.

Louis H. Baar, acting as chairman in place of vacationing John F. McInnis, said college students were still using the lagoon, which has been declared off limits to the public because of water contamination and danger of hepatitis infection.

"To me it doesn't make sense," said Baar. "If it's quarantined, then everyone should be kept out." Otherwise, said Baar, outsiders would come to the lagoon, and seeing students digging for specimens or in boats, would assume that the quarantine had been lifted.

"Why flirt with the problem of hepatitis?" Baar said.

Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer, suggested that students could wear arm bands or bright jackets to identify them as sturents, but Baar insisted that this yould not deter the casual visitor, who would not take the time to ask what the arm bands or jackets meant.

"As a part-time resident of the area, I'd concur with Mr. Baar," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. He suggested that college students engaged in marine research use other areas like Suxbury Reef and Esteros areas in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors advised the College of Marin that students should stay clear of Bolinas Lagoon and offered to help the college find other areas for their studies.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

POLICE — Voted to ask the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to set up a county service area for police services, as recommended by the City-County Services Committee last night. Establishment of a county service area would allow communities in the unincorporated areas to get additional police protection if they are willing to pay for the added cost.

TAXES — Received a detailed report from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell showing an overall increase in taxes in every community in the county.

SHACKS — Asked the department of public works to come back in two weeks with photographs of dilapidated shacks in San Geronimo Valley to see what abatement action can be taken. The central citizens committee of San Geronimo Valley complained that shacks, posted as uninhabitable five years ago, are still being occupied, with no county enforcement.

Units Hunt Three Lost In Balloon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rescue units searching for a downed balloon and its three crewmembers today concentrated on two areas of the Atlantic Ocean off Cape Race, near St. John, Nfld.

Balloonists Rod Anderson, 32, his wife, actress Pamela Brown, 28, both New Yorkers, and the skipper, Briton Malcolm Brighton, 32, have not been heard from since 6 p.m. Monday. At that time, they radioed they were at 600 feet and descending. "We'll call you again when we hit the water."

The Coast Guard today said that searching for the balloon, "Free Life," were the cutters Ingham out of Norfolk, Va., the Duane, from Boston, and the Dallas, based on Governor's Island, New York, and a Royal Canadian aircraft from Halifax, N.S.

The status of the 80-foot, helium-filled balloon was "highly uncertain," the Coast Guard reported from its search and rescue center here. Two large areas roughly 450 miles southeast of St. John's, Newfoundland, were being searched, but there were no definite clues to the craft's location, a spokesman said. The search area included 52,000 square miles.

New Plan Is Sought On Creek Access

The Novato Park and Recreation Commission last night directed the recreation department staff to prepare new plans for access to Novato Creek Park from Novato Boulevard with parking to be provided behind the Novato Prehistory Museum.

Residents of San Miguel Way had protested previous plans to provide access from San Miguel Way and parking spaces to be located between rear property lines and the creek.

The Novato Parks and Recreation also:

ATTENDANCE — Heard a report that the August attendance at Novato recreation facilities, 56,463, was a drop of 47,045 from attendance in August 1969. The drop was attributed by Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, chiefly to decreased use of the Novato High School swimming pool in cooler weather.

PISCEANS — Agreed to cosponsor the Pisceans, a San Marin synchronized swimming group.

Decline In Enrollment Cuts Revenue

The Novato Unified School District board last night heard a report that low attendance figures would leave the district with $137,000 less revenue than expected when the fiscal 1970-71 budget was hammered out.

Enrollment in the district, 11,723 pupils as of Sept. 15, was expected to produce an average daily attendance 285 to 300 lower than anticipated, Supt. James G. Bunker told the board.

Savings in other parts of the budget would reduce the net loss of expected revenue to about $48,000, he said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

HIRING — Hired Lois Hellstern at $6,959 annually to teach at Hamilton Air Force Base School; Richard Lorraine at $8,108 for Hill Junior High School; Christine Morehead at $6,959 for Rancho School; Carlene Searway at $7,607 for Olive School; Nancy Thurmond at $8,183 for San Ramon School, and Harold Messenger at $11,232 to act as district purchasing agent.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Approved an agreement with San Francisco State College to provide for student teaching in district schools.

LUNCH PROTEST — Received a protest from a California School Employees Association representative that the district's contract with A.R.A. Slater Services to provide school lunches was of questionable legality and that Slater's interests were contrary to those of school cafeteria employees.

NEGOTIATIONS — Went into closed session to discuss teacher salary negotiations.

Pickets Up In Boycott Of Lettuce

Picketing of grocery stores started today as Cesar Chavez' Farm Workers Union pushed a boycott of lettuce not bearing the organization Aztec eagle union label.

Some 500 AFL-CIO United Farm Workers organizing committee members were bused from Salinas to San Francisco yesterday and attended mass at Sacred Heart Church as a prelure the picketing.

Lucky Stores in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley were hit by pickets this morning, according to Viviane Levine, Bay Area coordinator for the boycott strike of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

No store in Marin county had pickets today, but they would have "soon" she said. How soon, she would not say.

The farm workers pickets held a rally yesterday afternoon at Safeway in San Francisco, but the Safeway chain was not picketed, she said.

$253,000 Grant To Sonoma State

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Sonoma State College has been granted $253,000 in federal funds for student loans, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, reported yesterday.

The federal funds provide 90 per cent of the loan, with the remaining 10 per cent provided by the institution.

The funds were part of $236 million allocated nationwide to 2,092 institutions and nearly 650,000 students, Clausen said.

Lake Winnipesaukee, largest body of water in New Hampshire, covers 72 square miles.

The Sad Story Of Deaf Duncan— He Didn't Hear His Partner Bid

You may think that your opponents are nitwits of the first rank, but it would be a mistake to pay no attention at all to their bids. Even foolish opponents bid fairly normally, and you will get better results if you use the facts than if you disregard them. Consider the sad story of Deaf Duncan.

SAW HANDWRITING

Duncan took the first trick with the ace of hearts, drew a round of trumps and then hopefully led a low heart toward dummy. West discarded the ten of diamonds, and Duncan saw the handwriting on the wall. (He was deaf, not blind.)

East won with the ten of hearts and returned a low diamond. South stepped up with the ace of diamonds and led another heart, but East won and led a diamond to West's nine. West then returned a club, and South lost two hearts, a diamond and a club. Down one.

GOOD EARS

Deaf Duncan could have made his contract if he had good ears. East's opening bid of one heart surely promised a four-card suit. Hence there couldn't be any real chance of developing dummy's hearts in time to make the contract.

After drawing one round of trumps, South should lead a club, losing dummy's king to the ace. Declarer wins the diamond return, leads a trump to dummy in order to ruff a club, and then gives up the diamond trick, not caring whch defender wins the trick.

If West wins the diamond, he must return a diamond or a club; in either case declarer ruffs in dummy and discards a heart from his hand. If east wins the diamond, he may return a diamond or a club, with the same result; or East may return a heart, setting up dummy's queen. No return from either side can defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♦ — Q 10 9 5 2
♣ — J 9 8 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds with a rash partner, but jump to four diamonds with a normal or conservative partner. You want to shut the enemy out, but you don't want to get to a silly slam.

Traffic Safety Project Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $58,000 traffic safety project for Highway 101 in both Marin and Sonoma counties has been approved by the California Highway Commission.

The project calls for the removal or modification of existing obsolete guard rails and installation of additional new railing from 1.3 miles north of Atherton Avenue in Novato to the Todd Road overcrossing one mile north of Rohnert Park.

Griffith Park, which covers 4,200 acres in Los Angeles, is the largest municipal park in the world.

Sewer Work Engineering Firm Eyed

San Rafael City Council agreed last night to consider hiring an engineering firm to work on the planned $1.4 million sewer improvement project.

Councilmen authorized Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles to get proposals on the job and submit them to the council at its Oct. 5 meeting.

Rawles said outside help was needed because the Department of Housing and Urban Development requires that plans for the entire project be submitted at one time.

SEWER BONDS

Voters approved a $1,105,000 bond issue for the sewer work in June and the city is seeking a $289,000 grant from HUD to supplement the bond money.

If the project could have been handled in stages as originally proposed, the public works department could have handled the job, Rawles said. "But if we want participation of HUD we have to do it all at once."

Rawles said he didn't know how much it would cost to have an engineering firm take the job, but believed it would ask a fee of 7 or 8 per cent of the cost of the construction.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. said the intent is to have plans completed by Dec. 15. The city will have to seek an extension of time from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board which wanted the first three phases of the job done by Nov. 1

Under the proposed timetable for major sewer construction, work would get under way next April and be completed at the end of September 1971.

Listed as major sewer reconstruction jobs to start next April are:

From D Street and Bayview to Second Street and Francisco Boulevard, Irwin, Third, and Mary streets, Mission Avenue and Park Street, Fourth Street to Santa Margarita Drive, Grand Avenue from Third Street to Belle Avenue, Highway 101 frontage road, Paloma Avenue, Lincoln Avenue and Stevens Place, Mountain View Avenue from Grand Avenue to Sienna Way, Fourth and F streets and Fifth Avenue, Seaway, and Fifth Avenue from K Street to Sirard Lane.

Minor jobs scheduled to be done in November 1971, are Clark Street from San Rafael Avenue to Bayview Street, Court Street from Fourth to Mission Avenue, First from D to C streets, Marin Street from Bayview Street to Clorinda Avenue and Taylor Street from B to C Street.

Minor jobs scheduled for May 1972 are Third Street and Francisco Boulevard, Third Street from Lincoln Avenue to Tamalpais Avenue, Treaner Street from B to C street, and Miramar and Miraflores avenues.

San Anselmo Tour Of Schools Set

A tour of school facilities has been scheduled for Oct. 3 at 10 a.m. by the San Anselmo School District Board.

The tour will begin at Brookside School and then proceed to Isabel Cook, Red Hill, Wade Thomas, and Yolansdale schools in that older. About 45 minutes will be spent at each school.

The district's two other schools, Hidden Valley and Sleepy Hollow schools were toured Sept. 13 .

Drainage District Plans Hit A Snag

Formation of an East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District, long in the planning, ran into a two-week delay last night when the San Rafael City Council sought assurances that a levee would be constructed.

The district would cover lands on both sides of Highway 17, roughly from just beyond Bellam Boulevard to the junction of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Highway 17.

Debate flared over whether the proposed assessment district or Holiday Magic, owner of diked tidelands, would be responsible for an improved levee along San Rafael Bay.

Richard Duncan, president of Quail Hill Co., owner of filled land south of Highway 17, said the assessment district move wouldn't have started "if we knew we had to take over the levee."

Representatives of Holiday Magic said it would be unfair to place the burden of the levee on one property owner.

Engineer Carlos Gonzalez said 70 per cent of the property owners involved signed the petition for formation of a district with the understanding that the levee wasn't part of district responsibility.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said the city had to know who was going to improve the levee and when it was to be done before entering into agreements.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette explained the drainage plan was based on elevations of four feet above mean sea level, with the levee to protect the area.

Councilmen postponed several steps toward formation of the district until their Oct. 5 meeting hoping the levee matter will be resolved by that time.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

JOBS LET — Awarded Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera a contract to make drainage improvements on Bret Harte Road and replace a bridge on Forbes Avenue at Quarry Road at a cost of $18,801; Ghilotti Brothers Inc. of construct a retaining wall to precnstruct a retaining wall to prevent slides on Terradillo Avenue at a cost of $4,362; and Bresnan-Dalecio Inc. of San Rafael a contract for resurfacing stretches of 11 streets at a cost of $66,476, about half the resurfacing projects slated for 1970-71. All firms receiving contracts were low bidders.

HIRING — Authorized hiring Douglas Brown as an assistant civil engineer at $954 a month and of Robert J. Cunha as a patrolman at $812 a month.

PUMPING STATION — Approved the cul-de-sac at the end of Francisco Boulevard near Grand Avenue as a site for a pumping station to be constructed by the San Rafael Sanitation District, since state Division of Highways plans interfere with the former site selected at Second and Irwin streets.

CREEK DEBRIS — Passed to print an ordinance designating rubbish, debris, garbage, weeds, stumps, tree branches and litter obstructing the flow of a water course as a public nuisance and a related ordinance establishing procedures for abating public nuisances, including assessing a property owner if city crews do the cleanup.

HOUSE DANGER — Voted 3-1 to start abatement proceedings to tear down a house in danger of sliding at 33 Maywood Way if satisfactory improvements aren't made in two weeks, with Mayor C. Paul Bettini, who wanted to start abatement proceedings immediately, dissenting. Councilman John A. Miskimen was absent.

DRAINAGE JOB — Authoriezd a drainage correction job at San Rafael Avenue and D Streets, estimated to cost $4,000.

CULVERT — Authorized a new culvert under Fifth Avenue at Leafwood Circle, estimated to cost $17,000.

SMITH RANCH — Referred to the planning department a request by executors of the estate of Frieda Smith to remove the Smith Ranch lands, east of Highway 101 and north of Gallinas Creek, no longer used for agricultural purposes, from the agricultural preserve status. The land was designated agricultural preserve by Marin County, but has since been annexed to San Rafael.

LIBRARY STUDY — Approved an agreement whereby the Consulting Organization of San Francisco, will undertake the second phase of a master plan for the city library system at a cost of $7,000.

WATER QUALITY — Referred to the public works department for study a recommendation from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board that the city require dockside sewers at all marinas and piers capable of receiving wastes directly from vessel holding tanks.

EMPLOYEE REGULATIONS — Adopted an amendment to personnel rules and regulations incorporating changes in vacation and sick benefits previously approved and state changes in holidays.

PARK LAND — Took under study a request from Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ponseti of 74 Robinhood Drive to purchase an unused portion of Victor Jones Park, a triangular strip of 1,901 square feet adjacent to the Ponseti lot.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Oct. 5 at San Rafael City Hall.

Sausalito Vehicle Control Plan To Be Discussed

A controversial vehicle control plan for Sausalito, prepared by Sacramento traffic engineer Jackson Faustman, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

Faustman's plan prepared for the city at a cost of $3,000, includes three proposals. The first, which the engineer estimates would cost the city $440,000 a year, would encourage individuals to use a parking facility at the city's north end (which would be provided), but would allow cars downtown with no restrictions.

The second plan, estimated to cost $470,000 annually, would allow no vehicles, except perhaps sightseeing buses and emergency vehicles, downtown.

And the third proposal, at a cost of $500,000, would feature a permit system, complete with checkpoints, to allow only authorized vehicles into the city and restrict sightseers and tourists to the northern parking lot.

Man Fined $100 For Pot Charge

John Edwin Hardcastle, 25, of Bolinas, has been placed on probation for one year and fined $100 by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possessing marijuana.

Hardcastle was arrested April 26 in Bolinas when an off-duty deputy sheriff chased him down Overlook Road and cornered him in a backyard. The deputy said that Harcastle, who was nude had gone up to three girls and tried to embrace them.

He had a marijuana cigarette wedged between his fingers, the deputy said.

NWP Is Hit With Charge Of Pollution

Mayor C. Paul Bettini last night urged that the state Public Utilities Commission "clamp down" on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for "pollution" of its right-of-way in San Rafael.

Bettini's blast came after the council received a letter from the commission asking for comment on its proposal for a general order prohibiting pollution of railroad rights-of-way by railroad corporations.

"This is a thorn in my side," Bettini said. "We've directed letters to clean up the right-of-way and they never reply, and continue to pollute the railroad right-of-way."

The city should ask the commission to investigate, he said. "We have been abused by the railroad."

Jury Trial Set For Pot Charge

Craig Ritchie Westling, 23, of Inverness, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin superior court to a charge of possessing marijuana March 23 at his home.

The case was set for jury trial the week of Jan. 18, the same time as he is due to be tried on a pot charge stemming from a drug raid in Inverness in May, 1969.

Westling was arrested in March when a constable went to his home to warn Westling to keep his eight dogs tied up and noticed pot in his kitchen.

Veterinarian Wins Horse Clinic Permit

Dr. James Steere, Bolinas veterinarian, will be allowed to establish a clinic for horses and other large animals on a part of the Corda Ranch just south of the Sonoma County line.

He was granted a use permit yesterday by Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns.

Steere said he will buy seven acres of land from Lester Corda at 11111 Redwood Highway, on the west side of Highway 101 near the Sonoma County boundary. He plans a clinic, paddocks and pasture area for convalescing animals.

Cairns said Steere must submit a layout of his clinic and landscaping plans for a design and sign review, and must get a land division (separating the seven acres from the Corda Ranch) from the county planning commission.

The zoning administrator also granted Stanley Weigel permission to divide his two-acre parcel at 3614 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, into two building sites of one acre each.

He granted Frederick Longfellow permission to keep a horse at 23 Fire Road in Woodacre, and for Monica Humble to keep a small pony at 322 Calle Del Mar, Stinson Beach.

Batik Class Reopened For Evening Students

A class in traditional batik and innovative tie-and-dye fabric techniques has been reopened at Redwood High School for evening students, beginning at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Carolyn Toner, designer, will teach. Sign-ups will be taken in Room 113.

Youth Fined In Store Break-In

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Michael Thomas Hall, 22, of Larkspur, on probation for one year and fined him $250 for breaking a window and stealing articles from a Larkspur store on May 14 .

Noting that Hall was intoxicated at the time of the burglary, the judge said that he was receiving a light sentence because it seemed an unusual case. He ordered Hall, however, to pay for the window and to refrain from drinking excessively.

Hall was arrester after an officer saw him break a window at Key West Leathers, enter the store and leave.

Classified Employees Pay Hiked

Tamalpais High School District classified employees were given a new salary schedule last night by district trustees. (For story on revival of athletes hair-length controversy in the district, see sports, page 29)

The change meant a 6.2 per cent raise for most workers, and a new, five-step pay scale instead of the former seven-step scale. The raises mean about $62,000 more payroll in the district this year, according to Assistant Supt. Robert D. Torrey.

The district negotiating team — which wrapped up its chores with an hour-long closed session before last night's trustee meeting — was praised by spokesmen for the employees.

Trustees, however, did not approve the workers' request for 20-day vacations after nine years' service, requiring instead 15 years for 20 days.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

CONTINUATION SCHOOL — Requested James L. Pierce, director of instruction, to continue with plans to establish a single, daytime school in place of the evening continuation schools at the district's three high schools. But the board also asked him to explore possibilities of cooperation with San Rafael or the county schools office on combined facilities for continuation classes or vocational training.

EVENING SCHOOL — Approved 4-0 with Trustee Bette Wallace abstaining, the semester's list of classes for adult evening school. Mrs. Wallace objected strongly to an astrology class planned at Sir Francis Drake High, paying instructor Nancy Bennet $7.50 per hour.

EXTRA SERVICE — Voted extra pay for special duties by: Marion Belden, work experience counselor at Tamalpais High, $150 for the year; Tam freshman basketball coach Laurence Mayer, $250; Drake High tennis coach Reynolds Crutchfield, $172; Redwood High soccer coach Patrick Bacchus, $200; Pamela Deschler, girl's swimming track and field coach, $500; freshman football coach Robert Troppmann, $250, and counselor Judd Gee, $250.

DRIVER EDUCATION — Raised from $30 to $33 the fee for adult driver education training.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS — Raised daily pay from $26.50 to $30.

BUS CONTRACTS — Approved contracts with the county superintendent of schools to provide (through Greyhound Lines) bus service for students in Marin City at $93 a day and with Marin City Transportation Co. for service to students in Bolinas, Stinson Beach and Muir Beach, at $96 a day.

CONTRACTS — Added $2,300 from special reserves to the architectural contract with Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons for a budgeted total of $233,300 for remodeling at Drake. The action settled a controversy raised Aug. 17 over architects' fees for the job.

STAFF ADDITIONS — Approved request for hiring an attendance clerk for each high school, at a total cost this year of $19,500. Action on recommended audio-visual technician hirings and increased allowances for instructional aides and campus supervisors was postponed to an unspecified date.

ORCHESTRA — Approved continuing paying Marin Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo at his longtime rate of $15 per hour for the orchestra's training sessions at Tam. Torrey explained that the conductor travels from Palo Alto to conduct the orchestra, and that the class pays its own way.

Jerrold Ladar Takes Tam High Board Seat

Jerrold Ladar, 28, of 39 Keats Drive, Mill Valley, last night filed for election to the vacancy left by the resignation of Gloria Melbostad, and will fill out her term which runs until 1973. The election, set for Sept. 15 was called off.

He was the only candidate to took his seat as a trustee of the created by the resignation of Tamalpais High School District.

Ladar introduced his wife, Joyce, and two young sons in the audience, after the brief swearing-in ceremony.

Board chairman David D. Ring soon gave the new trustee a chore — heading the district's transportation study committee, over which Ring presided last year, and on which Ladar previously served as a citizen.

Ring asked Ladar to report on the proposed addition of one more member to the committee, and said the panel is being revived to make a study of the district's entire transportation policy.

Ladar, an attorney in the U.S. Attorney General's office in San Francisco, has been active in other Tamalpais and Mill Valley school district affairs.

Marin Youths To Study In India

Four Marin County young people are among 84 who have left or Bangalore, India for a year's study of the nonWestern World in their sophomore year at the University of Pacific's Callison College.

They will tour the far east en route to Bangalore and return by way of Europe next summer.

They are: Janice M. Leonard, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Leonard of 349 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae; Nathaniel Bowles, son of Mrs. Holly T. Outeen of 370 Bella Vista, Belvedere; Ann Reinke, daugh'er of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Reinke of 143 West Blithedale, Mill Valley and Diane Dilcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley E. Dilcher of 12 Eagle Rock Road, Mill Valley.

Artist To Display

Paintings by Mona Verzi, volunteer art teacher at Greenbrae School, will be on display for several weeks at the Larkspur Library, according to Patricia Karsin of the Friends of the Larkspur Library.

Studio Without Kitchen Asked

The Rev. Robert Hayburn, who has been trying to get approval for a studio apartment above his garage at 27 Portola Avenue, Inverness Park, is willing to settle for a guest house with no kitchen facilities.

He appeared before zoning administrator Werner Von Gundell yesterday with an application for a sideyard setback variance. His attorney, Gil Medeiros, said a variance may not be necessary because the accessory building has been in existence since 1948, and the only change since then has been wall and interior remodeling.

Von Gundell held up a decision until he can get a ruling from the county counsel on the need for a variance.

Hotel Fire Death Toll Set At 19

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The final death toll at the Ponet Square Hotel fire of Sept. 13—the city's worst structural fire—has been set at 19.

The coroner's office said Monday it expected no more bodies would be found in the rubble. The gutted four-story structure was ordered demolished for safety reasons.

One of the victims, a teen-age girl, died when she jumped from the 69-year-old building. The others—10 of whom remained unidentified — were burned to death inside.

Investigators said they had not yet determined the cause of the blaze.

Homeowner Taxes Going Up $30

The average Marin homeowner will pay about $30 more in property tax this year than he did last year because of rising tax rates.

Total tax rates in Marin for this year will range from a low of $8.567 per $100 assessed valuation in the Nicasio area to a high of $13.825 in Bel Marin Keys, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell has announced.

The total tax rate includes the basic county rate of $2.575, plus rates imposed by cities, school and special districts.

Overall, the average tax rate in Marin for this year will be $11.684 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 54.8 cents over last year. This means that the owner of a $30,000 home will pay $718.56 in taxes, where last year he paid $684.86. (These figures include the homeowners exemption of $750 in assessed value.)

Mitchell explained that in general, the western part of Marin has lower taxes because it has fewer special districts and no cities. Bey Marin Keys has a record high tax rate because the community services district there voted a tax increase for dredging improvements.

The county auditor-controller picked out 16 representative tax code areas to compare this year's tax rate with last year's and to show how much tax increase can be expected in various communities.

Following is the expected tax increase in tax payment based on a home with a market value of $30,000 with the 1970-71 tax rate, the 1969-70 tax rate in parenthesis and the increase in tax payment.

CITIES

Belvedere, $11.848 ($11.595), $15.38; Corte Madera, $11.595 ($11.), $36.99; Fairfax $12.48 (11.29), $73.19; Larkspur, $11.165 ($10.99), $10.77; Mill Valley, $12.524 ($11.565), $59.98; Ross $11.815 ($11.725), $5.54; San Anselmo, $12.365) ($12.015), $21.53; San Rafael, $10.643 ($10.36), $17.40; Sausalito $11.23 ($10.74), $30.13; Novato, $11.995 ($11.065), $57.19, and Tiburon $12.315 ($11.77), $33.52.

Unincorporated Areas

West Marin, $9.335 ($9.06), $15.68; Terra Linda, $12.72 ($11.825), $55.04; Marinwood, $12.72 (11.81), $55.97; Kentfield, $11.105 ($10.945), $9.85, and Loma Verde, $11.085 ($10.40), $42.13.

A breakdown of taxes levied shows that 60.8 per cent goes to schools, 22.5 per cent to county government, 8.4 per cent to special districts, and 8.3 per cent to city government.

"While it is no consolation," said Mitchell, "the average total tax rate on the Bay Area will be higher than that in Marin County. Again, it is unfortunate that the Governor's tax program did not pass because it would have somewhat alleviated the situation."

The auditor-controller blamed the state Legislature for the bulk of the increase in the county tax rate, which went up from $2.395 last year to $2.575 this year. He said the state shifted responsibilities to local government without funds to finance those responsibilities.

For example, said Mitchell, the state shifted about a million dollars in added cost to the county for welfare and the Medi-cal programs, and at the same time reduced the state contribution to the mental health program by almost $600,000.

San Anselmo To Discuss Parking

The San Anselmo City Council, meeting at 8 p.m. today, will consider a report from its street and traffic committee on ways of encouraging offstreet parking within the city.

The report, held over from the last council meeting, recommends among other things that one off-street parking space be provided for each dwelling unit to be constructed in the future, and, that variance fees for off street parking structures be lifted.

The council will also discuss and forward its opinions on two proposed county ordinances regulating multiple occupancy of single family dwellings and inhabitation of campers, cars, buses, and panel trucks and the discontinuance of the 8 a.m. fire alarm horn on weekends and holidays.

$4.5 Million Starfish Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed and sent to President Nixon a bill authorizing $4.5 million for research on how to control the Crown of Thorns starfish —a sea animal which has been destroying the coral reefs around many Pacific islands.

An unexplained population explosion among the starfish has caused the destruction of some reefs, endangering the natural protection of some islands. The measure directs the Interior Department and the Smithsonian Institution to work with Hawaii and other islands in the U.S. Pacific territories to attack the problem.

Fire Group Asks For Hall Improvements

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night reiterated its year-old stand that fire protection improvements must be made at the Marin County Juvenile Hall before the county seeks to annex it to the Marinwood Community Services Distict.

Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said the commission received a letter from Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, reporting that the county had delayed closing its fire substation at juvenile hall until the end of the fire season, probably about Nov. 15.

The county supervisors will seek to annex the hall to the Marinwood district next year, Bonfield said. Earlier this year, the supervisors had planned to close the substation as of July 1, but postponed the action several times.

The fire commission first took the stand in September 1969 that the county must improve water supplies and bring buildings up to code requirements before the county property can be annexed, Bonfield explained.

The commission last night approved a mutual fire aid pact with Hamilton Air Force Base, and passed it on to the community services district board for action tonight.

Bonfield said he told the commission that Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley homeowners have received a break on insurance rates, with the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau improving the Marinwood rating from Class 6 to Class 5, and parts of Lucas Valley from Class 10 to Class 5.

Hearing Set For Three In Raid

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Oct. 6 for three persons arrested in a narcotics raid on an Irwin Street garage in San Rafael last Thursday.

Charged with sale of heroin, possessing heroin for sale and sale of dangerous drugs was Donald Dean Oliver, 35, of San Rafael.

Lynlie Katherine Davison, 22, of Bodega Bay, is accused of possessing methamphetamine and a hypodermic needle, and Larry Ray Minard, 25, of Fairfax, of misdemeanor counts of using heroin and methamphetamine and having a needle.

The garage at 516 Irwin Street had been under surveillance by police because of the large amount of traffic seen there.

Rohnert Park Passes Pigeon Restrictions

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved a compromise ordinance regulating the keeping of pigeons.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the ordinance would permit the two residents who now have pigeons to continue as a nonconforming use, but would place strong restrictions on others.

Under the ordinance that was introduced, a permit would be required from the council including an application fee of $25. No section of any building housing pigeons would be permitted within 75 feet of any structure on adjacent properties.

Callinan said the distance requirement would probably bar any further keeping of pigeons in residential areas because of lot sizes. The ordinance also sets a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment for any violations.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

INTERVIEWS — Set a closed meeting for next Monday at 7 p.m. to interview candidates for the recreation commission.

WELL — Heard Callinan report that the city's new water tank and well are in operation.

CHILD CARE — Granted a use permit to Susan C. Powell to operate a child care facility at the Faith United Presbyterian Church on Arlen Drive.

SIGNS — Asked Callinan to prepare an ordinance regulating the placement and size of political campaign signs.

Drive For San Geronimo Lighting Plan Rescheduled

The drive for signatures to form a lighting district in San Geronimo Valley will be renewed in an effort to get them within a month, said Mary Bochetti, secretary of the San Geronimo Valley Association.

The association had 140 signatures in July but has not obtained any since. At last night's meeting it was decided to renew the effort to get the necessary 300 signatures.

Purpose of the district is to place 348 street lights in Woodacre, Forest Knolls, San Geronimo and Lagunitas.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger of the Marin Municipal Water District told the members that if the $11.5 million bond issue passed in the November general election, 90 per cent of the water mains in the valley would be replaced, according to Mrs. Bochetti.

Youths Charged With Pot Counts

Clayton Carr Oliver, 18, and Donald William Rodriguez, 19, both of Corte Madera, were told yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to return to court Sept. 30 to find out if their cases have been accepted for disposition in juvenile court.

Charged with cultivating marijuana they were arrested Sept. 13 after sheriff's deputies saw them watering four suspected pot plants off Paradise Drive.

Two young women arrested with them, Sandra Estell Hinkle, 18, of Larkspur, and Laura Lee Arbuckle, 18, of San Rafael, were not charged.

James Cook, an English naval officer, took possession of Australia for Britain in 1769.

Extra Time On Smokeless Jets Vetoed

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan has vetoed a bill by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, that gave airlines additional time to convert to "smokeless" jet engines.

The governor said he vetoed the bill at the urging of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District, which had objected especially to a provision that would have given enforcement powers over airlines to the state Air Resources Board.

A 1969 state law gave the powers to the Los Angeles district for aircraft operating within the district. McCarthy's bill would have made the law apply statewide, thus requiring its enforcement by the state board.

The 1969 law gave the airlines until Jan. 1, 1972, to convert their engines. McCarthy's bill would have extended the deadline by one year.

The governor said he was sympathetic to the problem of the airlines in getting enough conversion kits, but said that the 1969 law provided for exemptions if the kits were not available in large enough numbers by the deadline.

Bolinas-Stinson School Meeting Not Held

Last night's meeting of the Bolinas-Stinson School District Board was not held because the district's architect did not have new construction plans ready for presentation to the board, according to Avis Pattison, school secretary.

Mrs. Pattison said the board will meet next Monday at 8 p.m. in Bolinas School to discuss the effect of the recently defeated $210,000 bond issue and plans for new construction at the school.

Preliminary Hearing Set On Drug Charge

A preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of dangerous drugs against Edward Michael Upchurch, 18, of 212 Baker Street, Petaluma, was set yesterday for Oct. 20 at 2 p.m. in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Upchurch, released on his own recognizance by Judge Alexander J. McMahon, had been arrested Sept. 6 by Petaluma police, who said they found two red pills and marijuana in his possession.

Marin Women

Gloria Steinem Accuses Hefner

Women's liberation writer Gloria Steinem, in a recent confrontation-interview with Hugh Hefner, accused the publisher of Playboy Magazine of turning women into "objects . . . like being on a meat hook."

Hefner in turn dismissed the Women's Lib Movement as "foolishness."

The tough, lots-of-give-and-little-take dialogue, published in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, caused Miss Steinem to conclude, "What Playboy doesn't know about women could fill a book."

SHE ALSO accused Hefner of not only ignoring Women's Lib, but dismissing it in a staff memo as "our natural enemy."

In the taped session of Hefner's famous Chicago townhouse, Miss Steinem asked Hefner if he had ever talked to anybody in the Women's Lib movement.

He answered: "No. Well, I've met a few . . . what annoys me most about this Women's Lib thing is that, with so many more important problems around today, women shouldn't be wasting time on this foolishness. I don't think that in the generation or two immediately ahead, women have any major beefs. They have all the opportunities that are really important to their human potential.

"Second, I think that the militant feminists really want to be men, and I wouldn't want to live in a society with no man-woman differences."

IN TURN, Miss Steinem insisted, "Militant feminists do not want to be men; then want to be themselves. Women went through a period of believing they had to behave like men in order to make it in society, just as black people went through a period of wanting to be white. But we're mostly past that."

Answered Hefner, "I still think the militant feminists are pathetic. There's no comparison to the racial problems, because racial differences don't matter and biological ones do."

MISS STEINEM: "They matter for nine months if one chooses to have children. More than that we don't really know. You're partly responsible for Women's Lib, in a way. You supplanted brute strength as a symbol of maleness with sports cars and appliances. If men don't play their "warrior role," women don't have to play their "mother of warriors" role."

HEFNER: "I don't understand why feminists aren't grateful to us, to the Playboy philosophy. I didn't pick them out as special enemies, you know, they picked me first."

MISS STEINEM: "But don't you understand that you've made women objects, more easily exchanged than sports cars? It's like being on a meat hook. And by Playboy standards, women are objects that become useless with age."

HEFNER: "I'm all in favor of women being able to vote, own property and all that. But I want women to be attractive to men."

MISS STEINEM: "Well, I want men to be attractive to women. But I don't want their whole identity to rest on that. There are times when a woman reading Playboy feels a little like a Jew reading a Nazi manual."

HEFNER: "That's ridiculous. Obviously, women have had a non-human role for centuries, but that's because of the Judaic-Christian concept. Playboy reflects some of this, but the major thing you can say about Playboy is its fight against these things."

MISS STEINEM: "Then why did you personally turn down an objective survey of the Women's Liberation Movement and write a memo calling for a male journalist to ridicule Women's Lib? I think you called it 'our natural enemy.'"

HEFNER: "I know how the women around here feel. I think I know what they want, what makes them happy."

MISS STEINEM: "You sound a little like a good-hearted plantation owner who's deeply hurt when his childlike slaves start rebelling. Why don't you feel everybody and do an accurate article on the Women's Movement?"

HEFNER: "Well, I'll wait and see how I feel about this article."

TASHA, THE 2-year-old daughter of skating stars Tommy Allen and Juanita Percelly (Mrs. Allen) has good foot and ankle control on the ice, according to her parents. Although Tasha seems to enjoy traveling around the country with her parents, they hope to settle in Las Cruces, N.M., by the time she is of school age.

Ice Skating Couple Travel With Two-Year-Old Daughter

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)— Bringing up baby presents no particular problems for a team of precision ice skaters who are husband and wife and who travel with their toddler most of the year.

"Travel doesn't seem to bother her at all," said Mrs. Tommy Allen of daughter Tasha, 2. "When she sees the suitcases, she stacks up her books and toys and is ready to go "bye-bye." She's been traveling with her skating star parents since she was two weeks old.

The Allens (Mrs. Allen is billed professionally as Juanita Percelly) are part of the Holiday on Ice troupe and appear in 32 cities across the tour each year.

Although most of the other members of the show's cast live in trailer camps, the Allens prefer hotels. "We have more room and can move around more freely," they said. "We usually rent a suite so Tasha can have her own room."

Both said they try to keep the blonde-haired, blue-eyed Tasha on a schedule, but admitted that she doesn't take a nap in the afternoon and usually goes to bed late.

"After a show we usually go out and when we come in Tasha likes to get up and play," Mrs. Allen said in an interview. "But she sleeps late the next day." Mrs. Allen said that sometimes babysitters are upset because Tasha stays up so late. They use professional babysitting agencies in the cities where they perform. "But I feel you should raise your child the way you want," Mrs. Allen said. "I don't think it's necessary to have to read up on how to raise a child. We're doing it our way and Tasha is healthy and happy

As for the problem of young playmates for Tasha, Mrs. Allen said it isn't solved. "There really aren't any children she can play with since most of them live in the trailer camps during the tours. With the babysitters and us, she's around grownups most of the time," she said.

The Allens said they hope to settle down year-round in their home in Las Cruces, N.M., by the time their daughter is of school age.

"But I could never just sit at home and do nothing," Mrs. Allen, 26, said. "After traveling for 20 years, that would be hard."

She was born into a circus family in Frankfurt, Germany, and joined the family acrobatic act at the age of 5. A few years later the Percelly Family joined one of the European companies of Holiday on Ice, and Mrs. Allen changed from tumbling tights to skating costumes. She has been performing with the American company for the past nine years.

Her husband started with the company at the age of 16. Born in Minnesota, he won the National Novice skating title and the Midwest Junior and Senior titles in 1955.

In 1956, he took his eighth and final test to become Gold Medalist, the highest award for amateurs. He

Rumor About Selling Fingernails Has Persisted For Generations

DEAR HELEN:

Caughtcha!

You said there is no truth in the "rumor" that you can sell a one-inch long fingernail to a cosmetic company for $50 I happen to know that Revlon will pay good money for them. — SMART

DEAR SMART:

I sent your "facts" to Revlon and received the following reply:

DEAR HELEN:

For serveral generations a rumor has persisted that a friend of a friend sold her long finernails to Revlon for $50. This has never been true, and we are at a loss to explain how the tale started or why it flourishes. Your helping to eliminate further growth of the canard by labelling it as totally untrue would save many a girl from nursing along Mandarin length nails in the mistaken hope of reaping great financial rewards. We work to make it possible for women to enjoy lovely nails — on their own hands. Sincerely yours, ANNE MEREDITH, REVLON "

DEAR HELEN:

I guess there's always room for one more "What is a Mother?" so here's mine:

A mother is the one who:

Borrows money from you and when she pays you back she puts in some extra.

Calls your hamster a rat when you first get it but when it dies she's as sad as you are and she helps you bury it.

Gets a part time job so she can buy you more stuff without bothering your Dad about bills.

Changes the filter on the fish aquariums when you're too tired.

Hunts all over town for that one dress or certain pair of shoes you want.

Listens to your secrets and you know she won't tell anyone — and tells you hers too.

Buys you something for your birthday and then says it's from your brother because he forgot to get you anything.

Cheers you up when you're sad and takes good care of you when you're sick.

Makes the best spaghetti sauce in the world even though it's never the same twice.

Gives you a VIP tour of where she works.

She's the one you'd rather have as a mother than anyone else you ever knew.

Helen, I hear so many other kids complaining about their parents that I just had to write and tell you mine are the best. — L.B. AGE 13

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a little overweight and this guy teases me. I asked him not to make me the butt of joke, and he said, "Why not, when you've got a joke of a butt?" Is that kind? — MAD

DEAR MAD:

No, but kinda clever. Why not compliment this guy on his fast comebacks and maybe he'll start playing up to you instead of playing you down. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

placed second in the National Juniors and was made an alternate on the World Team in 1958. He joined the professional company the next year.

The Allens have been skating partners for three years.

"When Tasha sees us during the show, she recognizes us right away and yells out, "Daddy," Mrs. Allen said "She seems fascinated."

Tasha, however, may have her eye on the ice, too. She already has skates, the smallest pair the company that donated them ever made. Her parents said she already has good foot and ankle control.

Ninety Per Cent In Agreement

On one point — whether husbands and wives should share in family decision making —the views of young people and their elders are in surprisingly close agreement, according to a survey conducted by University of Wisconsin sociologists. Among 66 families, each with grandparents, parents and at least one college-age member, over 90 per cent in each age group favored joint decision making.

Answers to other questions, however, showed only a widening generation gap. A belief that the gap is now the greatest ever was the sole other point of agreement.

Sewing for the classroom? Don't forget the two-in-one outfit that's the latest look for school girls of all ages. It's the pants-plus-dress costume. Search For Gonorrhea And Pediculosis Recommended

A search for peduculosis (crab louse infestation) and gonorrhea might well become part of a routine gynecologic examination.

Albert Altchek, MD, recommends such a search in an editorial in the official journal of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. He reports an upsurge of both conditions in all strata of society, especially among adolescents and young adults.

Pediculosis, as gonorrhea, is readily spread through physical contact. It is also spread by interchange of infected clothing and from toilet seats. It is marked by intense itching. An individual who suspects he may have contracted this infestation should seek help from a physician.

"The preferred form of therapy," Dr. Altchek advises, is the use benzene hexachloride in shampoo, cream or lotion form.

Cowgirl Look

The cowgirl look, with lots of fringe and buckskin, brings shades of the Old West to the classroom this fall. New buckskin garments are often made of cotton suede with a crushed pile surface. Cowgirl suedes are often seen in gaucho pants outfits with short belted jackets.

Many Widows Face Future Alone And Assume Dual Role

Facing the future alone is just one of the hardships a widow encounters. If she has children, she may have to assume the dual role of father and mother.

And there's a good chance the widow will choose not to remarry, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

Latest statistics for widows show:

Only 3 of every 10 between 21 and 25 remarry

Only 2 of every 10 between 26 and 30 remarry

Only 2 of every 15 between 31 and 35 remarry

Only 1 of every 15 between 36 and 40 remarry

A March, 1970 report by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association and the Life Underwriter Training Council stated that 725,000 women became windows in one recent year, including 318,000 whose husbands died before they had reached 65. More than 20 per cent of American households were headed by widows that year.

Of these numbers, some will remarry. However, the majority will remain single and raise families alone.

Does this necessarily mean a lonely life? Depending on the invividual woman, it could be a very full and satisfying one.

Following the loss of her husband, the younger widow faces the immediate problem of her children, her home and finances and any changes in life style that might occur.

Take the case of Rosemary J.., a 32-year-old Massachusetts housewife, who made a decision to return to nursing after her 33-year-old husband died of a heart attack. She had three school-age children, a mortaged home and car and several debts. Her husband had been a personnel director at a small tool company, earning $12,000 a year. Besides a small savings account, he left a $30,000 life insurance policy.

Rosemary at least found herself in much better shape financially than many widows older than herself. Because her husband was earning a substantial income at the time of his death, he had provided a meaty amount of coverage for his small family. Older widows typically have smaller insurance coverage because their husbands probably stopped buying life insurance back in the 1930s when they were earning $3,000 or under. The widow in the 55-70 age bracket may find herself left with a $5,000 policy.

Today, the older widow who wishes to return to work may find it harder than someone younger, like Rosemary. By returning to work, Rosemary joined the more than 2.5 million widows who hold jobs. She was lucky because she could return to the nursing profession and had the education to continue in her career without refresher courses. By taking a job while her children were in school, she filled up lonely hours and felt productive.

Other widows might find a rude awakening when they job hunt. Women who marry young often find that a high school diploma is a poor qualification in today's degree-happy world. The widow may find she has to return to school or take a training course because her former skills are unmarketable.

The U.S. Dartment of Labor has a guide assisting mature women toward finding a job. The pamphlet, "Jobfinding Techniques for Mature Women," which is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C., contains tips on preparing a resume, a letter of application and how to respond effectively during an interview. Training opportunities, including high school programs, private trade or business course, federally-aided training opportunities and correspondence courses are briefly outlined for the jobseeker.

Panel To Consider New Transit Post

Hiring a public relations consultant to promote the Golden Gate Bridge District's long-range transit plan will be considered by the joint transportation and legislation-public relations committee at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday in toll plaza offices.

Okamoto-Liskamm, the district's urban design consultants for the transit plan, have been pushing unsuccessfully for months to have a public relations consultant hired to help explain the plan to the public. The plan, ordered by the 1969 Legillature, is due for presentation to the 1971 Legilsature.

Also on the agenda is setting a schedule of public hearings on a draft of the plan, due for completion in mid-December.

The regular meeting of the full board of directors will be at 10 a.m. on Friday, and includes action on a recommendation by the building and operating committee that a $355,000 contract be made with Ammann and Whitney, New York engineers, for bridge repair and improvements. The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

Bay Water Board To Hear Pollution Order

OAKLAND — A hearing on a cease and desist order against the Mill Valley Air Force Station, which reportedly has been polluting Marin Municipal Water District drinking water supplies with sewage runoff, will be held by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board on Thursday in Martinez.

The board will meet from 9:30 a.m. to noon, and from 1:30 p.m. to the conclusion of business in the Contra Costa County Administration Building, Pine and Escobar streets.

Also on the agenda is setting a deadline of March 1, 1972, for houseboats in Richardson Bay to conform to all sewage treatment provisions in a new ordinance recently adopted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The regional board also will consider requirements for Novato Sanitary District's San Pablo Bay outfall, which will replace the one in Novato Creek.

Formal enforcement proceedings against Gilardi's Resort on the Petaluma River in Sonoma County also will be heard. Raw sewage is still being dumped from some structures on the resort property, despite a cease and desist order against its owners, according to the staff or the regional board.

Youth Admits To Quarry Burglary, Having Dynamite

Gerald Clair Crane, 18-year-old Larkspur youth, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he burglarized the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae and also possessed 100 pounds of dynamite on March 15.

A second count of burglarizing the same quarry was dismissed.

The district attorney's office indicated that it would recommend a jail sentence of four months for the youth, who was reported to have no known connection with subversive groups.

The youth was referred to the probation department for a presentence report, and was told by Judge E. Warren McGuire to return to court Oct. 26 for sentencing.

Crane had led police to more hidden explosives after they stopped him and he showed them dynamite in the trunk of his car.

Workers Back At Test Site Jobs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)— Workers at the Nevada Test Site were to return to their jobs today, ending a 112-day strike which postponed at least two U.S. underground nuclear tests.

The strike officially was halted Monday when the building and trades council, acting on behalf of 10 striking unions, signed agreements calling for binding arbitration.

The Labor Relations Panel of the Atomic Energy Commission will arbitrate the dispute.

PROBATION SPEAKER — Dr. Ivan H. Scheier, author of several books and articles dealing with probation problems, will give two lectures in Marin County on the need for volunteers in probation work. He will speak Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Adaline E. Kent School and Sept. 29 at 9:30 a.m. at the First Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael.

Benefits For Veterans Will Be Explained

Disability and education benefits for all Marin County veterans will be explained at a special counseling sesssion at San Rafael High School cafeteria on Oct. 1 from 7 to 9:30.p.m.

"We will not only inform veterans of their rights, but will take action to file claims for them on the spot," said Gordon R. Elliott, director of the Northern California Veterans administration regional office in San Francisco. "We know there are many veterans and their dependents in the community who are eligible for benefits and may not know it."

The coundeling session will be sponsored by the regional office in cooperation with James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans service officer, and various service organizations.

One of the primary objectives of this meeting, said Ellictt, well be to contact Vietnam veterans personally and encourage them to return to high school or to consider going on to college or entering an apprenticeship training program.

Riders To Compete For Rex Trophy

Men, and women 17 years and older will compete Sunday in the 31st annual Tamalpais Trail Riders horse test.

The difficult ride over a course featuring 10 hazards will begin at 9:30 a.m. from the Girl Scout camp entrance on the Marin Municipal Water District lands, according to Robert Ross of San Anselmo, ride chairman.

Post entries will be taken up to departure time, or may be mailed to Karlee Swainston, Tamalpais Trail Riders secretary, at Post Office Box 62, San Geronimo.

The winner of the test will not only be declared to ride Marin's top trail horse, but will also become holder of the Rex trophy, Ross said. The tricky course is designed to see how horse and rider handle themselves under adverse conditions, he explained.

The trail riders also stage a test each year for riders from 8 to 17 years old. This year the junior trail ride was Aug. 7, Ross said.

Larkspur Residents To Voice Future Concerns

A group of about 50 Larkspur residents have agreed to voice their concern for the future of Larkspur at a twon meeting similar to those held in other Marin communities.

Joan Sestak, co-chairman of a steering committee to organize the town meeting, said yesterday residents who attended last Thursday's meeting at the city hall listed planning of undeveloped lands as one of the most critical matters facing the city.

Besides zoning and development, other proposed discussion topics for the town meeting include population density, downtown improvement, proposed ferry terminal, recreation, transportation within the city, sources of city income, communications between city agencies, the relationship of Greenbrae to the city,, the Northridge development area, drug abuse and law enforcement.

The group agreed the steering committee has been set for this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the city hall, to draft the questionnaire and then set a tentative date for the meeting.

The proposed town meeting would be co-sponsored by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. through its Congress for Community Progress program. Such programs have been held in San Anselmo, Fairfax and Novato where citizens selected topics, formed panels, and recommended alternatives to city government on such topics as education, transportation, business and industry, recreation and human relations.

Pleads Guilty To Pot Charges

Russell Michael Guidi, 22, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of attempting to transport marijuana and possessing it for sale on April 9.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Oct. 26.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, the district attorney's office moved that an allegation of a prior conviction for pot possession against Guidi, which would have made a state prison sentence mandatory, be dismissed.

Guidi was arrested in April after Mill Valley police found him acting suspiciously near a car on Miller Avenue. The officers said they found three sticks of hashish under the front seat.

Boat Owners To Compete In Parade

Boat owners can sign up, beginning this week, to vie for trophies in the fifth annual Marine Holiday boat parade sponsored by the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce..

The parade will be Oct. 18 along San Rafael's waterfront, beginning at 1 p.m. Bruce Thompson, chairman of the chamber committee for the Marine Holiday, said boats are expected from all over San Francisco Bay for the event.

Trophies will be offered through third place for boats decorated in the best Marine Holiday theme, most unique design or best over-all decoration. An additional trophy will go to the yacht club with the most representation in the parade. However, entrants do not have to be yacht club members to participate.

Judges will be the commodores of all Marin yacht clubs.

The waterfront celebration also will feature free boat rides for the public from 8 a.m. to noon, aboard Marin County commercial craft, Thompson said. Many San Rafael waterfront businesses will take part in the daylong celebration.

Entry forms for the boat parade are available in any San Rafael marine supply shop, Thompson said.

Tiburon Eyes Open Space Bond Plans

Tiburon City Council last night acknowledged it may have to hold a bond election to raise money for open space and park land acquisition and that an open space plan is needed immediately to prevent overdevelopment.

These related realizations came at the end of an informal, rambling meeting at which the council called for a joint meeting with the city's planning commission and parks and recreation commission within the next six weeks.

"We're going to have to start thinking seriously about a bond issue for open space acquisition," said Mayor Denis T. Rice.

Previously, the council had indicated that it might solicit public donations to raise money for park and open space. No target date was set for a bond election.

The land acquisition question arose when Councilman Albert H. Sennett made a general recommendation that the planning commission make a study of all nonsubdivided land in Tiburon to determine its best planned use.

"I think it's up to the city to determine land use, not the developers," Sennett said.

"I think what you're suggesting is a radical thing to do," said Councilman M. Carlisle Becker, "but I think it's commendable. What we want to be on guard against is legislating tsate . . . the basic thing we need to look forward to is more integrated housing. Every time we legislate density, we exclude some economic group."

"Density is something we need to do a little rethinking on," said Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood. "I think we owe it to ourselves to provide some leadership in the county where we still have some open space."

Sennett insisted he was not seeking specific action at this time, but emphasized that it should be known it is the sense of the council that it is dissatisfied with present zoning laws and is reexamining its priorities on land usage.

"If the market conditions change," Sennett said, referring to yesterday's drop in the prime interest rate by many banks, "then we may face a land rush (in Tiburon) and we ought to prepare for that eventuality. . .

"We all agree, I think, that we want to preserve the remaining open space and present zoning doesn't do that. I'm suggesting we adopt this in principle and then get the expertise. If we don't do it (make a plan for open space and its acquisition), this peninsula will disappear."

The Tiburon City Council Also:

LIGHTING — Authorized $500 for a consultant to design street lights on Tiburon Boulevard, between Beach Road and Juanita Lane, conduits for the lights to be put underground beginning in November and done within 90 days.

POLICE — Agreed to take up the matter of getting a city police department, possibly jointly with Belvedere, to replace the Sheriff's department, which contracts its services to Tiburon at present.

COUNCIL POLICIES — Adopted several long-standing informal procedural policies for the council, including allowing a 15-minute open period for the public to address the council on nonagenda matters; insisting that all recommendations, ordinances and resolutions come before the council as a whole before being assigned to committee and encouraging community participation by holding at least two meetings each year in various places in the city.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned till 7:30 p.m. next Monday in city hall.

Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the state Resources Agency will present a plaque at Ayala Cove in ceremonies sponsored by the California Department of Parks and Recreation in cooperation with the City of Tiburon.

Ceremonies will begin at 2:30 p.m. and will include a talk on the history of the island by Dr. Elliot Evans, curator of the Society of California Pioneers in San Francisco.

Ayala Cove was previously declared a state historical landmark. The designation was extended to the entire island by the California Historical Landmarks Advisory Committee in March.

Ayala Day activities will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a barbecue.

The first Ayala Day sponsored by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last year featured the renaming of Hospital Cove to Ayala Cove in honor of Lt. Juan Manuel De Ayala, commander of the first ship known to enter San Francisco Bay.

Ayala's ship anchored at Ayala Cove for six weeks in 1775 while he directed the first survey of the Bay.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee says it has discovered at least 38 countries are behind or have welshed on their debts to the United States. It called a hearing to list names and amounts.

Subcommittee sources said the debts ranged from $10 owed by Algeria to scores of millions owed by the United Arab Republic. Israel also is on the overdue list, the sources reported.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1970 17

MUSIC BREAK — One World Family members take a moment out from their everyday chores to hold an impromptu concert on the front porch of the group's home in Larkspur. They favor such songs as "Love Is Service Given" and "The Brotherhood Of Man."

ONE WORLD FAMILY

Life In A Commune: Love–Service Done

By GEORGE NEVIN

(Second of Two Articles)

It is Sunday at the One World Family's Larkspur commune.

The evening meal has been eaten — green salad, soy bean soup and steamed vegetables over brown rice — the dishes have been cleared away, and the family now gathers in the meditation room to talk and sing.

Twenty voices join in singing songs, hymns really, most of them written by family members. "Love Is Service Done," they sing, and "The Brotherhood of Man."

One commune member plays the piano. Several others strum guitars. All sing with an enthusiasm hard to find in a modern-day church.

They end the songfest with a long chant of "O-o-o-m-m-m-m." Then there is silence.

After a time, commune leader Allen Noonan begins to speak softly. He tells how he was shown a vision in 1947, how alien beings showed him how to tap into a cosmic energy source.

"I am the Messiah, and I have been given a plan that will unify the world and bring everyone into absolute freedom, security and abundance."

Noonan's appearance contrasts markedly with that of the family. He is fond of wearing brightly colored pants, shirts, and socks and a beanie cap. His thinning gray hair stands out among the shaggy locks of most of the others.

His bright blue eyes peer at the family members as he describes a plan, which he says will bring "a new age revolution to the world. It will break the economic system, and then all things will be held in common."

The new order, Noonan believes, will be based on the world bill of rights and new covenant, which he wrote. He quotes from it:

"Let each of us own all the world — the Kingdom of God — and call one place of our choosing our own and be free to come and go in the world and stay at any dwelling accommodating travelers.

"Let each of us give of ourselves to the extent of our abilities to the One World Company, and in return all things shall be added to us. Let each person be judged only by their conscience in God and let no one judge their fellow beings, but rather judge themselves."

Noonan continues reciting the credo that has guided the family since he founded it in 1967:

"Let the government seat be only the storehouse and inventories of the people's products. Let all things be done unto edification, for God is not the author of confusion."

Noonan now begins to talk about the kind of revolution that the One World Family anticipates:

"We don't want an armed revolution, but a spiritual one which will be the final karmic cleansing of the world. Then everyone will return to nature, and the right use of all material things."

In fact, Noonan emphasizes, the commune movement is trying to "save the system from itself. If the establishment doesn't come to an understanding of youth, there is going to be a real shooting revolution. Our movement will stop that."

(Until the "gentle revolution," though, the One World Family will continue to exist in the capitalistic world, and that means using money as a medium of exchange. After the revolution, money will not be needed.)

The session ends with another "Om" chant, and family members drift away to their own pursuits. Some will sew clothing in the sewing room, others will work on tie-dyeing or batiking curtains and still others will put the children to bed.

There's a lot of work to be done at the commune, and family members put in a hard day. Babies have to be washed, fed and entertained. A full crew is needed to staff the Mustard Seed restaurant in the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center. The garden must be tended, the house cleaned and the kitchen kept in order.

But Family members say they wouldn't have it any other way. "Love is service done," they like to repeat.

With the routine chores out of the way, the members turn to their areas of specialty. Take Barry Koral, for instance. Much of his time is spent running the Berkeley House, but his real interest is art.

"I'm a photographer-artist, creating a vision for the new age," he said. "We have to replace the old order with the new, which is manifested in what I call flow art.

What is flow art? "It is art that teaches you to flow through life, tuned in to the universal energy source." The Family believes that art is a tool for teaching as well as an esthetic experience. That is why the art at the Larkspur house, with its children, differs from that of the Berkeley commune.

"Art is needed to stimulate people, to get them to a higher state of consciousness," said Koral, who holds a master's degree from the Institute of Design in Chicago.

Once they reach that high state, the Family believes, the movement toward the commune is inevitable and unstoppable.

"The United States of the world is our destiny, and it won't be won through war," Noonan said. "This is the truth, and all the people who stand on anything but the truth will fall."

Noonan and his Family are biding their time, confident that their way of life is spreading, convinced that the new age is coming.

Larkspur may be attempting to evict them from the home because of an alleged zoning violation, and the management of the Strawberry Shopping Center may be trying to force them out of the Mustard Seed, but the One World Family has a vision that today's power structure is not long for this world.

"Our movement is not weeds popping up in the establishment's garden, as they think," Noonan said, "but beautiful flowers popping up in their weed patch. And the flowers are going to keep popping up faster than they can pull them out."

Marin Suicide Prevention Center Boost

Organization of a Marin County suicide prevention center got a big boost yesterday with the announcement that San Rafael developer Harry H. Heifetz had donated space for the round-the-clock telephone counseling service.

Sheila Cerofeci, a member of the organizing group, reported Heifetz had agreed to donate office space free for the first few months until the center becomes self-sustaining.

Rae S. Taub, president of the Marin Association for Mental Health, explained that the address of the suicide prevention center will not be made public because it will provide only counseling by telephone and will not be equipped as a walk-in service.

ELECTS CHAIRMAN

The group elected Kay Lyons of San Rafael chairman; Berni Craig of Novato, secretary and Peggy Gartman of San Rafael, treasurer.

"The Marin Association of Mental Health has been trying for two years to set up a suicide prevention center in Marin," said Mrs. Taub. "Now we're finally ready to go into business." However, it may be Jan. 1 before the counseling service is actually in operation because telephones must be installed, and office workers must be recruited and trained to man the center 24 hours a day.

"Marin is the only county in the Bay Area without a suicide prevention center," said Mrs. Taub. At present, many distraught residents of Marin call for help to the San Francisco Suicide Prevention Center.

LEGAL COUNSEL

James M. Kennedy, San Rafael attorney, handling the articles of incorporation for the group, said he hopes approval for the non-profit corporation will come from the Secretary of State in Sacramento this week.

Next meeting of the group is set for 4 p.m. Oct. 5 at Civic Center.

Mrs. Taub announced that Dr. Edwin Shneidman, national authority on suicide prevention, is scheduled to be in Marin on Oct. 28 to help present a skit, based on Shneidman's book, "Quiet Christ." The skit will explain some of the suicidal clues, which are often overlooked.

Lack Of Quorum

Directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District did not meet last night for lack of a quorum and rescheduled their session for 9 p. m. today in the firehouse, according to secretary Helen Lontz.

Riles For Expanding Pre-School Program

Wilson C. Riles, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, came out strongly last night for expansion of early childhood education and the principle of accountability for the schools.

Riles addressed a capacity crowd of more than 350 in the Congregation Rodef Sholem auditorium in Santa Venetia, supported by a panel including James Standard, College of Marin student who was the first president of the Marin Peace Coalition; Marcia Smith of Corte Madera, president of the Marin Kindergarten Association; John F. Plank, superintendent of San Rafael city schools, and Dr. Ellen Binckley of Strawberry, former member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. President S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College was moderator.

"I want to see the preschool program extended," said Riles. "If it works for the most disadventaged, ot can work for everyone ... In the long run, it will be much cheaper than trying to do remedial work at seventh and eighth grades."

On accountability, which Riles made a key issue throughout his primary campaign, he urged "a systematic method by which we can define what our goals are, so parents and students know what we're trying to do."

When Dr. Binckley questioned whether means are available to adequately assess schools' performance, Riles responded: "We've got to do it. If we don't, somebody else will do it for us." He pointed out that the present state testing program was forced on the schools by the legislature.

The candidate, who ran second to incumbent Max Rafferty in an eight-candidate primary field, drew his greatest applause for his answer to a question from the floor as to how accountability could be made to work with teachers protected by tenure and collective bargaining.

"The obvious answer," said Riles, "is that we have to revise our tenure laws so we can support and help the competent, and we have to get rid of the incompetent."

Another questioner wanted to know, "What about teachers who come to class and say, 'What shall we talk about today?'"

"When I talk about goal setting, I think I'd eliminate this kind of business," said Riles.

He called for greater state support of the public schools, pointing to the loss of many recent tax and bond issues. The state constitution gives education first claim on the state general fund, he noted.

The candidate also came out for year-round school operation, with staggered vacation schedules.

To a question of what he would do about University of California and the state colleges if elected, he responded:

"If we do a better job at elementary and high school levels, some of the problems at the college level, they won't have to face."

Riles scarcely mentioned Rafferty during the two and one-half hour panel discussion, concentrating on what he hopes to do if elected in November. He repeatedly stressed the need for parent involvement in school decisions, and for cooperation with the legislature and with such groups as chambers of commerce and taxpayer associations to win wider support for schools.

"I want to be part of the solution, not part of the problem," he said to a burst of applause.

Dr. William L. Clark of Mill Valley, Riles' Marin campaign chairman, announced three fund-raising events: a flea market at the Marin Co-op in Corte Madera on Sept. 27, an art auction at the Sausalito Art Club on Oct. 4 and a benefit play in Mill Valley on Oct. 10.

Marin Players To Wind Up Season

The costumes may be borrowed, but the play's the thing, as the Marin Shakespeare Festival winds up its 10th season this week.

Friendly competitors in the American Conservatory Theater, collegiate drama groups and private benefactors have helped put the Marin players back in costume after arsonist-set blazes wiped out most of the theater's costumes and sewing equipment, Aug. 30.

On the bill for the final week are "Henry V" at 8 p.m. Thursday; "The Tempest" at 8 p.m. Friday, and "Taming of the Shrew" at 8 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday on the outdoor stage of Forest Meadows Theater, Dominican College, San Rafael.

Petaluma Sets Undergrounding Of Utilities In Two More Sections

Underground utility districts were established in two sections of Petaluma last night after the city council found costs to howeowners would not be excessive.

Approval of undergrounding plans on McDowell Boulevard at East Washington Street and on East Washington near Hopper Street was withheld two weeks ago pending estimates.

Coy Gore of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said that costs to the 10 homeowners on North McDowell Boulevard should be less than $100 per home. He said they would be responsible only for the cost of trench digging and electrical reconnections.

Gore said the company would provide 100 feet of electrical line to each home and that it should be sufficient in each case. He said exact cost figures could not be given because the line placement would be different at each home.

Arlie Blankenship of 94 North McDowell Boulevard said he was concerned that he and other homeowners would be paying for a beautification project that would be benefiting the entire city.

Mayor Helen Putnam explained that the undergroundng projects would be extended to other sections of the city when utility funds are made available for the major portion of the work.

No problem was raised in connection with the East Washington Street project, but another delay was called in undergrounding plans for Petaluma Boulevard North at Magnolia Avenue.

Victor De Carli, who owns several parcels on Magnolia Avenue, asked that his property be removed from the proposed district because it is served by rear yard lines and would not be affected.

The Petaluma City Council also:

REZONING — Approved the rezoning of one-third acre on Casa Grande Road at Lakeville Highway from agricultural to highway-commercial to permit a service station.

Extra Taxes Are Supported On Future Police Protection

The City-County Services Committee decided by split vote last night that the unincorporated areas should not pay any more for the present level of sheriff's services but should be levied extra taxes for police services added in the future.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. moved that a county service area for police protection be set up in the unincorporated areas, with the understanding that the present $2,240,000 sheriff's budget be considered a countywide tax levy as at present. The unincorporated areas would pay extra for any added police protection. Supervisor Louis H. Baar and County Aditor-Controller Michael Mitchell voted for the motion.

Mayor Frank J. Egger of Fairfax dissented, and Councilman Alfred J. Malvino of Larkspur abstained. Both Egger and Malvino, the city representatives, argued that the unincorporated areas should pay a bigger share of the present sheriff's cost because cities pay for their own police departments, as well as sharing in sheriff's costs.

Malvino and Egger suggested that a county service area for police protection be set up in unincorporated areas, and the question of cost sharing be left open. But they were outvoted by the three county representatives.

The majority recommendation will go to the board of supervisors.

Woman Arraigned In P-TA Theft

The former secretary of the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Association, Petaluma, was charged yesterday with grand theft of more than $200 from the club treasury.

Delores May Brattin, 384 Monte Vista Lane, was arraigned by Judge Alexander J. McMahon in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. She will plead Monday at 1:30 p.m. She is free on $1,250 bail.

Mrs. Brattin was arrested Sept. 8 after an audit of the club's books by accountant John C. Mohrman disclosed the missing funds. She had served as secretary from April through June.

Disrespect For Courts Has Variety Of Causes

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the California Supreme Court told the Conference of California Judges last week in Beverly Hills that public respect for the courts has eroded.

One reason, he said, is "moonlighting by members of the judiciary" which results in conflict-of-interest charges.

Across the continent from Beverly Hills, Chief Judge J. Edward Lumbard was telling the 54 judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second District at Lake Placid, N.Y., that public confidence in the courts is "sorely lacking."

One reason, he said, is too-long appeals procedures, made worse by meddling of federal judges in state criminal cases.

A month earlier in St. Louis, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the United States Supreme Court warned the American Bar Association convention that confidence in the courts, which he said "is essential to maintain the fabric of ordered liberty for a free people," can be destroyed if Americans come to believe inefficiency will delay and prevent justice.

WE ARE PLEASED to see such wide recognition by the bench of the ills that plague it. The question is: what to do about them?

The Conference of California Judges will vote next year on a new code of ethics which might help to curb the "moonlighting" that Justice Wright deplored. It would prohibit judges from nonjudicial activities for pay other than teaching or writing which do not interfere with their courtroom duties.

In the meantime, however, the judges could divorce themselves from outside interests without any formal prohibition. It would help restore confidence in the courts.

JUDGE LUMBARD had a simple and radical solution to the delays caused by intermeddling of federal and state jurisdictions: keep hands off state cases.

"For all our work on thousands of state prisoners' cases I have yet to hear of one where an innocent man had been convicted," he told his fellow judges. "The net result of our fruitless meddling in search of the nonexistent needle in the ever-larger haystack has been a serious detriment to the administration of criminal justice by the states."

Justice Burger had a whole series of suggestions on ways to speed up the legal process. His goal would be to have criminal cases tried within 60 days after indictment. "I predict it would sharply reduce the crime rate," he said.

NEITHER JUSTICE WRIGHT, Judge Lumbard nor Justice Burger, apparently, referred to something else that is causing disrespect for the courts: the disrespect shown by some in the legal profession itself.

Outside the New York courtroom where 13 Black Panthers are on trial this month on murder and conspiracy charges, the Panthers held a rally which was addressed by William M. Kunstler, an attorney who represented the "Chicago Seven." Kunstler declared the 13 were being tried "by a judge who is determined to convict them and a jury that will be stamped-ed by informers and undercover agents."

It was not the first such attack on the courts by Kunstler; nor is he the only lawyer who denounces the judicial system he is sworn to uphold, yet continues to practice as "an officer of the court."

If the legal profession does not enforce respect for the courts in its own ranks, can the public be expected to respect them?

"It's the ONLY way to fly!"

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Two Bond Issues Among 20 State Propositions On Ballot

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A heavy schedule of propositions faces the voter at the November general election, and before going into the 20 propositions in detail, it may be well to sum up the package handed the public by the state legislature.

There is no proposition on the ballot initiated by the people, nor is there a referendum. Everything is the result of legislative action.

FIRST, the legislature wants a new bond issue of $250 million for "clean water" and a second issue for $60 million for wildlife enhancement. These are the only two issues with specific price tags, although the rest of the proposition will cost some money.

There is no argument against Proposition 1, the clean water proposal, despite the fact that there is no guarantee that $250 million, plus about the same amount in interest, will provide clean water for California.

The proposal is to use this bond money as state matching funds for installation of sewage treatment plants and facilities for waste treatment by local government, with the federal government contributing a proportionate share. Thus, before the state is done with its clean water program, the $250 million probably will be just a drop in the bucket of the total amount to be spent.

However, no one is against clean water, especially after having to drink the chlorinated mess that comes through the faucets in this day and age. And despite the fact there is no assurance that a $250 million bond issue will provide clean water, it may help a little.

THE OTHER BOND issue is the last item on the ballot, Proposition 20, for $60 million. Probably it's not for more money because the state can't spend it fast enough, and will be back later with new and larger requests for recreation, fish and wildlife enhancement.

It would appear to be a worthy cause to spend this amount of money on recreation, but the program seems to be upside down, with only six million of the issue set aside for fish and wildlife purposes, and the remainder for parks and recreation to spend in the development of lakes and shores created behind dams.

As mentioned previously in this column, $60 million is quite a bit of money to spend on recreational facilities, but if it has to be spent, there would appear to be no better way to spend it than to use the public coffers for providing recreational facilities.

As long as the legislature plans to keep tabs on the expenditure of the bond issue funds, rather than turning it over to the bureaucratic beaches and parks, the issue may have some merit.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

When the official Kurdistan golf team was playing in the challenge round of a tournament in Scotland, Will Alsop would have us believe, two of them, searching for a lost ball in the thick rough, suffered concussions when they crashed head-on. "We might have expected this," Referee Mackenzie dismissed the incident with a shrug. "Kurds in the heather knock together."

Wimpfheimer was aghast when he entered his apartment and found his comely bride Annie walking on the ceiling. "Hello," she hailed him. "Never mind the 'hello,'" exclaimed Wimpfheimer. "What are you doing walking on the ceiling? Don't you know that's against the law of gravity?"

There was a crash as Annie fell to the floor. Rubbing tentatively the delectable portion of her anatomy on which she had landed, she glared at him and blurted, "You had to open that big mouth of yours, didn't you?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Story On Unleaded Gasoline Misleads

Your paper carried the attached article on Aug. 31. We are greatly concerned about the several erroneous and misleading statements contained in this article. As you probably know, Standard Oil Co. of California began marketing Chevron unleaded gasoline on Sept. 1. This is an important step toward the attainment of clean air goals . . .

The opening paragraph . . . states that present engines, even 1971 models, simply cannot cope satisfactorily with the problem of engine damage from the use of unleaded gasoline. It is indeed true that there are data showing a loss in exhaust valve life when engines are run on unleaded gasolines. What the article does not mention is that this occurs only when the more susceptible vehicles are operated continuously under very severe driving conditions (high speed, high load) for several hours. This is why we do not recommend use of Chevron unleaded gasoline for heavy duty operation, such as trailer towing, or in small cars when being driven at high speeds . . . We have been advised by the president of General Motors Corporation that their owner's manual will recommend preference for the use of unleaded gasoline for their 1971 model cars where it is available, although 1971 General Motors' cars will also run satisfactorily on leaded gasolines. Also, one major oil company has marketed an unleaded gasoline on the East Coast in substantial quantities for over 40 years. In testimony before a committee of the California State Legislature, a research executive for this company stated that there has not been a single report of excessive valve wear due to use of this product in this entire period of time. Lastly, many dozens of cars have operated a total of several million miles over the past several years in industry research programs evaluating the performance of unleaded gasolines. Engine durability has not been a problem in these tests conducted by many investigators; and, in fact, there have been reports of such benefits as increased spark plug and muffler life.

The article also refers to evidence that use of lead-free gasoline can cause emissions that are more harmful to health than leaded gasolines. This statement is related, in the article, to the need to increase the use of aromatics to boost octane number when lead is not used for this purpose. The significant point not mentioned is that the low octane unleaded gasoline being supplied, and designed for 1971 model car requirements as well as those of 15-20 per cent of the older cars on the road, does not require any significant increase in aromatic concentration over current practice. The aromatic content of Chevron unleaded gasoline will be well within the range of aromatics used in motor gasolines for the past 10 to 15 years . . .

With respect to the cancer-forming characteristics of certain aromatics, the article does not indicate that such aromatics are found in gasolines at extremely low concentrations and are not measured by any of the conventional tests for aromatics . . .

Another Electoral Reform Plan

You and I know that electoral reform, as now discussed, is impossible regardless of what the U.S. Congress does, for one-fifth of our states have more than half the popular vote. Thus "underpopulated" states' legislatures will not ratify the amendment.

But, the John Young formula for electoral reform can save the day and the Constitution. The formula:

1. Presidential aspirant getting a popular plurality in a congressional district will gain one electoral vote.

2. Presidential aspirants getting a popular plurality in a state will gain two electoral votes.

3. Whoever receives a majority of electoral votes wins. If there is no mapority, the newly elected House of Representatives decides, by elimination voting, from among the minimum number of those greatest electoral vote recipients whose cumulate electoral vote shall exceed three-fourths of the total decided upon.

4. The incumbent President (and vice president) shall remain in office for an extended term, not to exceed one extra week, if the presidential election is decided in the House of Representatives.

5. Ties in elimination voting will be decided upon by the incumbent vice president.

Arguments for: (1) This system can get state approval. (2) Chance of centralized compu'er fraud eliminated.

Newton Freed In Time To Promote Campus Revolt

(Reprinted from San Diego Union)

Huey P. Newton could not have asked for better timing for his release from prison. The co-founder of the Black Panther party has made his reappearance — free on $50,000 bail to await a new trial on charges of killing a policeman — on the eve of the opening of a new school year.

College and university campuses have provided an effective sounding board and sanctuary for the rhetoric of violence and revolution which Newton has made his calling card. There is nothing to indicate that his reception among campus radicals will be anything but that accorded a messiah returned from exile.

IT IS ALL TOO evident that an escalation is taking place in the war being waged by revolutionaries against all symbols of authority. Where rocks thrown through windows once sufficed, dynamite and bombs are now employed.

So, too, has Huey Newton returned to the scene with an escalation in his political call to arms. Where he once was content to express sympathy for the Communist cause in South Vietnam, Newton now proposes to recruit young Americans to fight with the Viet Cong.

Those who are welcoming Newton back to the radical camp as a martyr in their fight against the "system" are caught with their logic down. It is the meticulous pursuit of justice by our judicial system that has granted him a second chance to defend himself against charges on which he was once convicted. Philosophy departments at some of our universities, of course, have already shown themselves to be blind to such elemental logic.

THE ABSENCE of reason is anarchy, as experience has taught us when reason is abdicated on our campuses. Huey Newton returns above all as an apostle of anarchy. His own words proclaim his credo:

"We want to take the philosophy of Marx to its final goal — to create a world that has eliminated statehood. History has not yet created the communist world, just a Socialist world in which statehood still exists. We want a Communist world without statehood. We want to unite the red and black banners together."

Newton has a busy-season ahead, exercising the freedom of speech which is not denied him even by the system he is bent on destroying.

Two Men Out Of Government Go To Work To Improve It

WASHINGTON — With the gloom and the cynicism in the current atmosphere equal to a smog red alert, it is news — under the man-bites-dog definition — to find two leaders denying the counsels of despair. Knowing all the dire facts and figures, they are nevertheless working for constructive action to remedy ills at home and abroad.

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, and John W. Gardner of Common Cause have the courage of their conviction that people will respond to the challenge of a time of troubles compounded as rarely before.

IN A SPEECH cutting right to the bone, McNamara in Copenhagen confronted the bank's board of governors with a twofold call for action. First was the need for the developed countries, and particularly the United States, greatly to increase their share of aid to the developing countries. This country, he observed, is 11th among the 16 contributing nations, with the aid program reduced to less than .3 of one per cent of the gross national product.

The former secretary of defense assailed the "so-called security" of an ever-spiralling arms race, with the world spending $180 billion a year on arms as the figure steadily goes up.

BUT IT WAS on the population explosion that McNamara spoke out with brutal frankness. Short of a tremendously accelerated program in the whole field — family planning, research into human creativity, education — the world will be overwhelmed in the next decades with millions upon millions of people reduced to a level of living hardly better than animals, he said.

He promised that, in response to appeals from many members, the bank would organize to provide advice and financial help on a greatly expanded scale. This accords with his policy during his two years as president to make the bank more than merely a lending institution.

GARDNER, as he goes about the country, talks of many of the same things. With many quiet successes to its credit, Gardner decided to broaden the scope with Common Cause as a people's hobby. The response has been extraordinary.

Thousands of letters have come from all over the country. Many citizens, young and old, wrote that they had been waiting for an organization that would try to get action above and beyond the constricted reach of the two old parties.

Gardner's concept is broader than that of a citizens' lobby. He believes that the structure of government from city hall on up needs, as he put it recently in a speech in San Francisco, a major work of repair and redesign. Many Americans seem resigned to the fact that most state governments are incompetent, that most state legislatures are tragically inadequate, that most city governing is so designed as to make governing impossible, that the Congress of the United States needs a thorough overhaul, and that the political parties are unresponsive to the concerns of their own members.

Gardner believes that the disease is curable, that human institutions can be overhauled and reformed.

Here are two men who came out of high government office — Gardner was secretary of health, education and welfare — not overwhelmed by the inevitable frustrations of swollen bureaucracies. They are working hard on what needs urgently to be done.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

VIENNA (UPI) — Hungary has won Soviet approval for the most far-ranging reforms seen in the Communist world since the Prague Spring was crushed in Czechoslovakia two years ago.

The reforms stop far short, so far, of the total press freedom and hints of multiparty democracy that doomed the Czechoslovak experiment. But most experienced observers say Hungary is well along the road to the most liberal society possible as long as Russia rules Eastern Europe.

The Hungarian Communist Party will hold its 10th congress Nov. 23, and the tenor of that meeting has been foreshadowed by "Theses" published in August which will form the basis of congress debates.

THE "THESES" pointed with pride at the economic reforms introduced three years ago, and then, in a key passage, said: "The reform has also produced favorable changes in other areas of social life. It has opened new channels for the creative forces of society."

In plain language, that means political reforms. Many of these reforms have already been introduced, and the "Theses" made it clear that Hungary intends to press forward with them.

kHungary learned in its own revolution in 1956 what happens to a Communist country that tries to build a new order against Russian wishes and Russian troops are still in the country. It saw what happened in 1968 when Czechoslovakia's reforms went faster than the Kremlin thought wise.

For that reason, Hungarian party leader Janos Kadar has carefully kept the Russian leaders informer of his reforms—both political and economic—every step of the way and has made no move without their approval. Diplomats here said it was inconceivable that the Hungarians published the "Theses" without clearing them with Moscow.

AMONG OTHER things, the "Theses" said Communist ideology would be enforced through "arguments"—not arrests or other pressures. The Interior Ministry, in a statement unique in Eastern Europe, already has said its police have better things to do than to be ideological watchdogs.

The party reaffirmed its "support" of "Socialist realism" in art, but sa id it "will not interfere with formal questions of styles." What that means, if recent practice is any guide, is that the party has a preference but will not object if artists and writers want to experiment.

The "These" affirmed Kadar's long-time dictum that there are lots of good Hungarians outside the Communist Party. It praised the current role of "workers, peasants, intellectuals, representatives of the middle class, people with different ideologies, Communists and noparty citizens, (religious) believers and nonbelievers."

An increasing tolerance of small-scale private enterprise— especially in the service industries—was underlined when the "Theses" saluted the "useful work" being done by "artisans and shopkeepers"—all privately employed.

Most observers believe Hungary gets by with this by subordinating its foreign policy totally to Moscow's and by keeping the party firmly in power as the final arbiter of society. The "Theses" restate both these positions in capital letters.

Sonoma State Clubs May Fill Void Left By Student Association

In the absence of student government at Sonoma State College, student organizations will probably be picking up some of the slack in providing activities.

Student groups had 30 days from the opening of classes last week to apply for a school charter which allows them use of campus facilities when available. Last spring there were 35 Sonoma State student organizations, some hiding noble concerns behind cryptic names.

The Lenny Bruce Society, for instance, turned out to be an organization for students interested in sociology. Achva was a Hebrew studies organization and the Agora Society was a philosophy group.

SONOMA STATE even had a Millard Fillmore Society — comforting news to fans of the country's 13th president.

The original Millard Fillmore Society, as any true Fillmorian knows well, was founded several years at Marquette University in Milwaukee, where it concerned itself primarily with the consumption of large quantities of Milwaukee's favorite beverage while listening to readings from the two-volume "Millard Fillmore Papers."

The Phoebe Fillmore Foundation Fellows, a branch of the society named after Millard's mother, did attempt to raise the intellectual level of the society's activities by sponsoring a series of lectures on Fillmore's influence on the arts.

The first lecture, which drew a crowd of several hundred persons, was delivered by a professor of philosophy who reported that the blue-eyed Fillmore's sole influence on the arts turned out to be an elderly woman in Iowa who painted in peanut butter.

The series, unfortunately, was cancelled after one lecture when another professor protested the caps and gowns worn by ushers were an insult to academic tradition and the content of the lecture was a sham of history.

The Sonoma State Millard Fillmore Society apparently has had no such trouble, as it is a serious group of students interested in political science.

THE LIST of organizations at Sonoma State last year also included the Universal Church of the Aquarian Age 129, whose purpose was to raise legal defense funds and promote the welfare of the college and surrounding communities, and the World Peace Organism, which dedicated itself to "hipping people" to the fact they all belong to the family of man.

Rand Link, Sonoma State activities adviser, noted that all groups applying for charter must sign a form stating theirs is a nondiscriminatory organization, which opens for all the doors to the Black Students Union, the Mexican-American Student Confederation, and even the Associated Women Students.

A new group this year is the Cossack Pep Club, which will lend its support to the school's football team as it enters its first year of intercollegiate varsity competition.

Frederick The Ape Writes Book, And Sets Off A Controversy

WASHINGTON — A new book will soon appear on the market which will cause a sensation in scientific circles. It is titled "The Naked Man" and it was written by Frederick the III, a chimpanzee attached to the Rockefeller Institute. Frederick III was involved in some enzyme experiments at the institute which took up only a few hours of his day. Because he was restless, the directors gave him a typewriter to play with. You can imagine their surprise when instead of just messing around, Frederick wrote a book.

Frederick's book, and this is the shocker, claims that all chimpanzees, monkeys and apes evolved from man. He says that man was the first primate before there were apes of any kind.

FREDERICK IS NOT certain when man first appeared on earth, though he suspects it was at least 30 million years ago. As time went on and man went through many stages, he started to develop many apelike qualities until today it is easy for apes to identify with man and realize how much they have in common.

Many apes and chimpanzees are horrified to think they resemble man in any way and a chimpanzee named Treetop, with the National Institute of Mental Health, has written a paper denouncing Frederick III's thesis. Treetop maintains that although in some respects men are looking more and more like apes, the ape could not have possibly evolved from man. He has attacked Frederick III's research on the grounds that except for the few men he has come into contact with at the Rockefeller Institute the only other men he has observed are flower children in the park that he can see from his caged window.

FREDERICK SAYS in his book that the similarities between apes and man are greater than one might think. Man today is behaving like apes used to behave before they were civilized. Man puts great emphasis on territory and seems to be willing to kill to protect his turf. As a lower form of ape, a man is unable to deal with any situation without screaming and shouting. Frederick cites examples where men have been placed in large apartment buildings for lengths of time and have gone berserk.

Treetop says that man's behavior is more similar to rats than to apes, and while man behaves irrationally in almost any situation and may resort to extreme measures when endangered, it does not follow that just because men beat their chests and growl that they belong in the ape family.

Frederick thinks that the primitive personality traits of man have been adapted by apes. Having studied man under laboratory conditions, Frederick has discovered that the eating habits and sex life of homo sapiens follow a pattern similar to those practiced by modern apes. Survival seems to be the basic principle in man's jungle, and while apes do not resort to violence unless provoked, man has not yet evolved to a point in his development where he can tell why he behaves the way he does.

TREETOP DISAGREES. He maintains that man has gone as far as he'll ever go, and hasn't changed from the day he was born. The instinct in men to destroy is so strong that it is slander to class them in any way with apes.

Frederick's response to that is to cite King Kong's destruction of the Empire State Building as something man might do.

Treetop says King Kong was an exception to the rule, and it's unfair to use one gorilla's behavior as a sample.

In any case, when the book comes out there will be a continuing controversy on it. On one side will be the apes who would hate to acknowledge they have inherited any characteristics from man. On the other side will be those monkeys, chimpanzees and gorillas who will admit that some of their traits are possibly man-evolved, and will now try to deal with the problem in an ape-like way.

Girl Admits To Selling Drug

Rae Dawn Hirsch, 21, of Lucas Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin superior court to charges of selling methamphetamine in November, 1968, and possessing a fraudulent check with intent to defraud on March 11, 1970.

A second bad check count was dismissed.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Miss Hirsch, who is also awaiting trial on another drug charge, for Oct. 26.

Study To Turn Richardson Bay Red

Polluted Richardson Bay, green in a recent bloom of algae, will be turned red next month in a study of its modest flushing action.

Red dye will be used in the $6,000 study by the state and federal governments, and will be visible for several days. Flushing in the constricted, shallow bay is so poor, that at least two weeks probably will be needed to clean all of the dye out of the area, according to Dr. T. C. Wu, chief of surveillance for the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Final approval of the study is slated by the State Water Resources Control Board in its regular meeting on Thursday in Los Angeles. The cost and conduct of the study are to be shared with the Federal Water Quality Administration.

Dr. Wu said that the study would guide the regional board's actions to clean up Richardson Bay. The primary nutrient for the algae is domestic sewage, he noted. Algae uses up the dissolved oxygen in the bay when it dies, thus making the water incapable of supporting fish life.

The regional board has indicated it will press for either costly tertiary treatment of sewage wastes dumped into Richardson Bay, or for completely removing all wastes from the bay.

The dye for the study will cost $2,300, with the rest of the cost for manpower to conduct the study.

Defense Will Invite Design Of New Copter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department says it will invite contractors to develop a new helicopter capable of lifting more than 25 tons —over twice the maximum capacity of any U.S. helicopter now in service.

The chopper would be used to handle heavy or bulky supplies and technical equipment, and would be placed into service in both the Army and Navy.

Marin Red Cross Will Recognize Volunteers

Marin County Chapter of the American National Red Cross will hold its 52th annual meeting and volunteer recognition program from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 8 in the chapter house, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

I-J Begins Publication Of All Local Agencies

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils, and school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives pleading for large pay increases cited the rising cost-of-living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies frante more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin are being published by the Independent-Journal as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

Publication starts today with several departments' share of Marin County's $12,383,592 payroll. Other departments will be listed in subsequent issues of the I-J.

Board Rules On Riot, Bribe Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's Board of Supervisors settled two old law suits Monday, one concerning a riot and the other the bribing of a city assessor.

The city paid $10,000 to settle out of court a suit brought by Mathews and Eula Johnson, parents of Matthews Johnson Jr., 16, who was shot and killed by a policeman as he fled from a stolen car. His death touched off the Hunters Point riot of 1966.

Supervisors voted to accept $150,000 from the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. to settle their $950,000 suit against former assessor Russell L. Wolden and the company that bonded him.

Wolden was convicted of taking bribes in an assessment-fixing scandal.

Jail Sentence In Embezzlement

John D. Wadsworth, 42-year-old former San Rafael resident who disappeared almost three years ago along with his employer's money, yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave Wadsworth credit, however, for the time he has served since he was arrested in June in San Diego, where he had been living.

He placed Wadsworth on probation for two years and ordered him to make restitution for the $266 which his employer, Duffy Brothers Garage, had lost in the embezzlement.

On Sept. 11, 1967, Wadsworth disappeared with $4,241 in checks and cash given him to deposit in a bank.

Alioto Picks New Rec Commissioner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph L. Alioto said Monday he had named Eugene L. Friend, a merchant, to replace attorney George T. Choppelas on the Recreation and Park Commission.

Choppelas supported banning automobiles from Golden Gate Park on Sunday, opposed efforts to erect a restaurant in the park and unsuccessfully opposed a senior citizen's center near a park entrance.

Hub Planning Panel Delays Rezoning Plea

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night referred back to the applicant a proposed rezoning of about three acres behind the Red Hills Shopping Center.

The commission, considering an application from the Ross Valley Co., and Sunny Hills Children's Services for a planned development of one and two-bedroom dwellings, recommended the number of units be "substantially reduced" according to secretary Catherine Mullins.

She said the commission listed the number of two-bedroom units as excessive. The developer had listed 32 two-bedroom units and a like number of single bedroom dwellings.

The commission also recommended reduction of the land area to be developed and paved and that the city be provided a traffic survey.

The commission also approve a use permit to allow a Fotomat at 275 Greenfield Avenue subject to traffic and landscaping review in six months. The proposed structure must also be approved by the design and review board.

The commission also recommended that the city council urge county enactment of ordinances making it illegal to live in vehicles and limiting multiple occupancy of single family houses in unincorporated areas.

U.S. Court Dismissing Project Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A $2.5 million civil suit against ABC radio newscaster Alex Dreir and others over a San Mateo building project is in the process of being dismissed in federal court here, but will be refiled in California courts, an attorney said today.

Conrad Donner, attorney for plaintiff Samuel N. Garrotto, said today it is not yet decided whether to file the suit in San Rafael — where Dreier has a $131,000 showplace home — or in Riverside, where Dreier also has a residence, or in San Francisco.

Donner said attorneys for Dreier and co-defendants O. T. Hogan and Jack R. Hogan successfully argued in federal court that the case did not belong there because Dreier was a California resident and should be sued in state courts.

The Hogans, Dreier's in-laws and partners in business dealings with Garrotto, live in Chicago.

The law suit hinges on Garrotto's claims that dealings over the $15 million Mills Square office and apartment building project in San Mateo resulted in Garrotto's becoming "physically and mentally unstable." The developer was convicted in July 1969 of killing a San Mateo business partner, but was later adjudged mentally incompetent at the time of the killing.

The partner killed was Robert J. Barocchini, 47, brother of Frank A. Barsocchini of Kentfield.

Youth Arraigned On Felony Counts

Dennis Michael Brogan, 23, of Mill Valley, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on three felony counts of battery on police officers and a misdemeanor charge of resisting arrest.

He was told to reurn to court next Monday to enter pleas.

Brogan is accused of punching and kicking three Sausalito policemen during a fracas which followed a minor automobile accident last Wednesday.

Ross Adopts Curriculum For Drug Abuse Classes

A locally formed curriculum on drug abuse was adopted as part of the Ross School District's 1970-71 course of study last night by district trustees.

The curriculum, written after a year-long effort by teacher, parents and students, replaces a course under county guidelines that was used last school year, according to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

The program will be taught to the 500 children from kindergarten through the eighth grade in the district and include counseling for upper grade students.

Anderson said the program substantially broadens last year's antidrug instruction.

In other action last night, trustees authorized hiring Dan Campbell of Kentfield as an educational consultant on ecology at $5 an hour, renewed a contract with the town council for joint maintenance of the Town Common and authorized signing of a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State College.

14-Year-Old Fairfax Boy Found Dead

A 14-year-old Fairfax youth apparently shot himself fatally in the bedroom of his 39 Manor View home yesterday.

Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan reported that George R. Lambert heard a shot about 9:15 p.m. and found his son, Scott Thomas Lambert, on the floor bleeding from a head wound. Madigan said the shot was fired from a .357 caliber ruger.

Madigan said a note was found.

Young Lambert was a student at Sir Francis Drake High School where his brother Jeff was student body president in 1967-68.

Also surviving are his mother, Carlyle, another brother, James, and a sister, Cindy.

Scott Lambert was born in Washington, but lived in Albuquerque, N.M., until moving to Marin in 1966.

The body was taken to Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael where an autopsy was to be performed.

Pat To Redecorate White House Rooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon plans to make the Red Room more crimson and the blue room more blue, according to Mrs. Nixon's staff director, Connie Stuart.

Mrs. Stuart said the first lady may decide to switch from silk fabrics in the White House to cotton and wool to give the rooms a more authentic appearance of the colonial era. Mrs. Stuart said Mrs. Nixon's redecoration plans will be submitted to a committee in November.

Court Sets Hearing In Two Burglaries

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for next Tuesday for Reginald Bruce Johnson, 22, of Novato, accused of twice burglarizing a Novato residence in August.

Johnson is charged with twice taking auto parts from a house at 1290 Lynwood Drive.

House Passes Bill For Air-Conditioned Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has completed congressional action on a measure to allow the government to buy air conditioning for 2,000 of the 20,000 cars it purchases every year. The cooling units would be used only in areas where it is so hot the efficiency of the employes involved would be impaired.

But Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, said he could recall when people could get along just by rolling down a window. He added "I can't really understand how our government survived. I just hope the time doesn't come when we have to supply each traveling employe an ice cold six pack of beer."

Drugs Case Refused By Juvenile Court

A preliminary hearing on drug charges against Douglas F. Farley, 18, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, was set yesterday for Oct. 2 at 10 a.m. in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon had referred the case to juvenile court, but said the court refused to accept it. Farley was arrested Aug. 21 in Walnut Park, Petaluma, on suspicion of selling marijuana, selling amphetamines and possession of dangerous drugs.

San Rafael Might Be Heir Apparent To Throne

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Terra Linda High School went from riches to rags in the space of 24 hours last weekend, and as the Trojans' football stock turned to wallpaper in a brutal, 21-7 loss to Riordan Saturday night, the San Rafael Bulldogs began to look like the heir apparent to the Marin County Athletic League throne.

Friday night the Bulldogs unleashed a devastating offense that stormed to five first half touchdowns and then eased off to defeat Washington, 40-0.

Ranked No. 3 in Northern California by a poll of coaches last week, Terra Linda now rates no better than even money to win the MCAL title for a fifth straight time.

The seven MCAL teams won three preseason games and lost four over the weekend, but they outscored their non-league opposition, 115-53. Primarily responsible for that were San Rafael and the Drake Pirates, who whipped Petaluma, 39-0 Saturday night. A less impressive rout was registered by Novato over Montgomery 20-0 that afternoon.

Redwood, Tamalpais and San Marin joined Terra Linda in the losers' circle; all three lost games played outside the county. The Giants bowed to Sacred Heart, 7-0, Tam lost to Salesian, 13-9 and San Marin was blanked by Encinal, 12-0.

San Rafael and Drake were absolutely magnificent in their season debuts, especially the Bulldogs, who led Washington at halftime, 34-0 and could probably have doubled the score had it not been for the merciful disposition of coach Bob Muster.

Quarterback Dirk Gansloser ran for two touchdowns and passed for another in a superb job of field generalship for the Bulldogs. He and Novato's Marty Moroski, who passed for one score and ran for another against Montgomery, are as flashy a pair of signal callers as the MCAL has seen for some time.

Terra Linda, on the other hand, was simply overpowered by Riordan's massive pass rush, and Crusader quarterback Dan Hayes wore the Trojans out with his bombs-away passing game.

Tamalpais played the strangest game of the weekend on the strangest field. Imagine sleeping on a bed made by putting two chairs together and you'll have an idea what it's like to play football on Nichol Park field in Richmond. The field is really two softball diamonds, back to back, so the lights and the bleachers are in the end zones.

Tam coach Mike Davlin said the lights there were awfully poor. That would rank them with San Rafael's, which seem to get dimmer with each game.

Eleven MCAL games will be played at San Rafael this year, hopefully under better lighting conditions than presently exist. The responsibility for servicing the field, including the lights, falls to the San Rafael School District, which charges other county schools for the use of the field.

MCAL commissioner George Corson said yesterday that fixing the lights was not the league's responsibility, that the

A Jolly Group Of 49er Fans

Forget that "Wait 'til next year" jazz.

I lunched with some 50 gents yesterday who were mumbling something crazy like wait 'til THIS year.

Yes, the perennially optimistic San Francisco 49er Goal Rushers of Marin opened their 1970 series of weekly luncheons on a happy note, still tipsy from the heady spirits of Sunday's 26-17 victory over the Washington Redskins and beer-bellied star quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

And, they had reason to be glassy-eyed with joy because the 49ers showed a lot of muscle, hustle and class. The Rushers may have seen some sobering things on television last night when their next opponent, the Cleveland Browns, downed the New York Jets, but the 49er team we saw Sunday is one that can stay in the ball park with any National Football League opponent.

True Test Coming Up

Looking ahead to the Browns, 49er right linebacker William Gerard Vanderbundt — just call him Skip —told the Rushers: "Cleveland is a helluva ball club. Sure, they've got a lot of 'old' people, but they're real pros. They've got a great offensive line, a good corps of receivers. That (Leroy) Kelly gives them a fine running game. We've never had real good luck against Cleveland, but this time we play them I think we'll be a better team. It's great to win the opener," he added, "but we'll get the true test next week."

Skip shared the speakers' rostrum at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda with running back Bill Tucker and 49er alumni Al Endriss, the Redwood High coach, and auto salesman Bob Toneff of San Anselmo.

One Rusher asked Tucker: "Where is the 49er running game?" and he cracked: "Well, part of it's on the bench." He hasn't played much this year, not at all Sunday. "But, it's there," he added seriously. "We established it against Washington."

A Standout On The Bench

One gent admired Tucker's loud necktie, and No. 45 replied: "Well, when I was a kid I never had nothin' so I want to be noticed. I think I'll wear it next Sunday and when the coach is looking for a running back he'll see me."

Vanderbundt, the pride of Placerville by way of Oregon State, said the 49er game plan Sunday was ". . . to put pressure on Sonny, a great passer. He's probably the best quarterback as far as picking apart a zone defense. But, we pressured him good."

When someone made a remark about Jurgensen's imposing tummy, Vanderbundt parried: "He doesn't pass with his stomach."

Forty-Niner attitude came up for discussion and Vanderbundt noted: "It's the best I've seen. In the past I had the bad habit of looking for a penalty flag every time we did anything good, which isn't a good outlook. The biggest difference between the first and last place teams is attitude and we've got it good this year. I know I have a lot of confidence in my teammates."

Excited Brodie Good Example

Moderator Dave Scofield interjected: "You saw a good example after (Bruce) Gossett kicked the clinching field goal. John Brodie jumped up and threw his arms around Gossett." Old pro Brodie isn't inclined to such emotional outbursts.

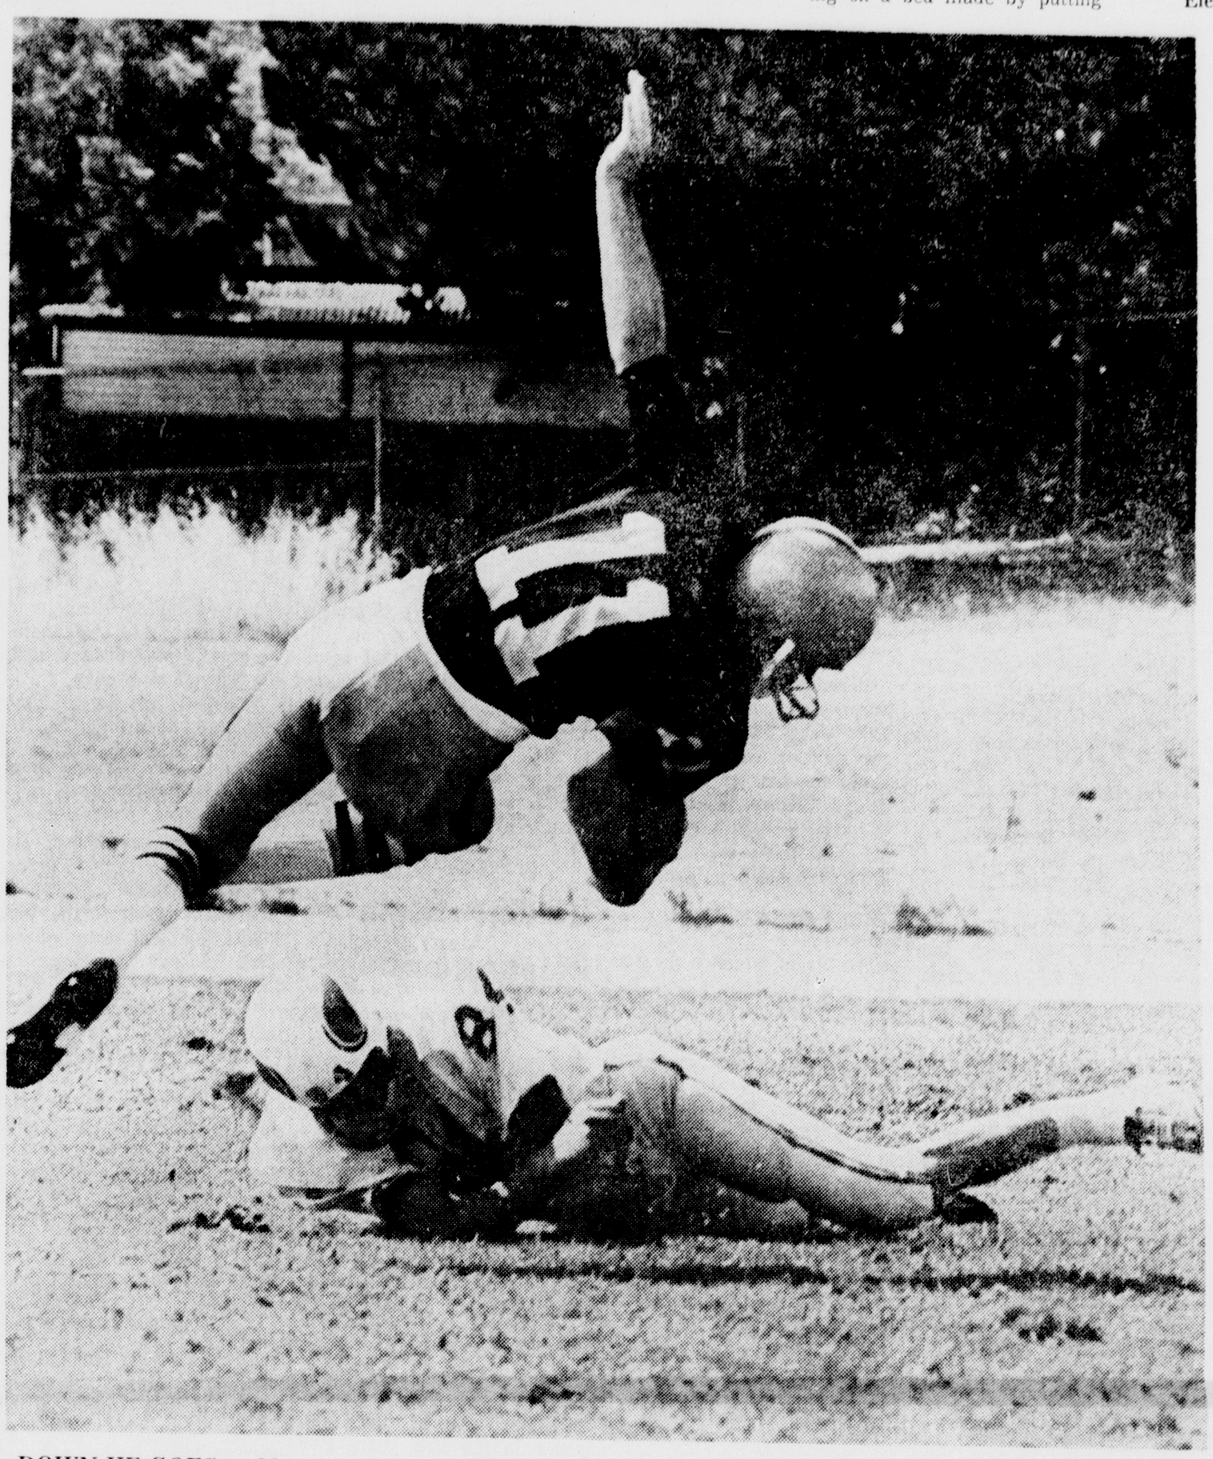
Vanderbundt said the Rams of L.A. are "the team to beat in the NFL because they've got the good defense with that great front four, good offensive line, fine running backs, a good corps of receivers and, of course, Roman Gabriel, a great quarterback. Trying to tackle him is like wrestling a grizzly bear."

A Great Kicking Game

The Niner kicking game came up for praise by all in attendance. Gossett's long kickoffs, Steve Spurrier's beautiful punting plus great coverage, rarities on previous 49er teams drew cheers. Said Endriss, himself a fine punter: "I was really impressed by their kicking game, which is a great defensive weapon. It kept Washington in the hole most of the day. You can do more things defensively."

Both Endriss and Toneff, a former lineman by way of Notre Dame, cited the 49er offensive line which, by the way, was presented with the game ball for its outstanding play. "Brodie had a lot of time to pass," Toneff noted.

The Rushers meet every Monday noon at the Holiday. New president is attorney Gilford J. Medeiros, who succeeded Price Hall. During the past year Hall moved out of the area, making the club what I've always said it was. Priceless.



DOWN HE GOES — Novato's flashy halfback Leo Magers was upended on a punt return by Montgomery's Gary Guanella Saturday at Novato, where the Hornets shut out the Santa Rosa team, 20-0 in a preseason game.

FASTBALLS

Vida Blue's Great Night

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie southpaw Vida Blue, shaking through the Minnesota Twins batting order in hitless fashion Monday night, contradicted an old myth of major league baseball.

The 21-year-old speedballer from Mansfield, La., threw almost no curves or changeups against the Twins. He stuck with one pitch—an active fastball—and still managed to keep the Minnesota batters off balance.

FAST BALL

"I threw about 95 per cent fastballs," the excited youngster said amid a noisy postgame celebration.

Catcher Gene Tenace confirmed that there were very few curve balls among Blue's 114 pitches in the 6-0 Oakland victory.

"I guess this proves you don't really need more than one pitch to win in the major leagues," Tenace said. "Vida actually has two fastballs. One moves in and the other moves out. It was doing all kinds of strange things in the late innings."

Blue and Tenace teamed up to strikeout the first two batters in the ninth inning and then end the game on a foul popup to first baseman Don Mincher off the bat of pesky Cesar Tovar.

PHONE CALL

When Blue got to the A's dressing room, he received a long distance phone call from club owner Charles O. Finley in Chicago. Finley rewarded the spotless pitching performance with a check for $2,000. In addition, he promised young Tenace, a bonus of $1,000.

"I hope I can get more phone calls like that," Blue said. "I'm looking forward to more good things in my baseball future, but what happened tonight just can't be put into words."

When Blue hurled a one-hitter just 10 days earlier against Kansas City, he got the silent treatment from his teammates on the bench. This time they talked it up, sensing his nervousness.

NERVOUS

Hair Issue Crops Up Again, Trustees Say Hands Off

Hair got into the eyes of Tamalpais High School District trustees last night, but they quickly shook it out.

Board Chairman David D. Ring firmly declared the revived controversy of athletes' long tresses was "not a board question. We studied it at great length last year. This is an administrative subject to be resolved with the principal, or the superintendent."

Ring's stand followed a plea for help by Gordon Pusser, father of two Redwood High School cross-country runners among athletes suspended last year in a row which eventually went to federal court.

Pusser said last night the runners' squad and the soccer team at Redwood High were "not willing as a team to comply with grooming policies." Grooming rules have been adopted identical to last year's ban of hair below the ears or longer than collar-length.

The athletes' father also said the runners question the administration's decision not to assign math teacher Douglas B. Basham, who defended their long-hair stand last year, as coach again this year.

"We as a board," Ring replied, "expressed our very strong sympathy and support for Doug Basham — but it was an administrative decision."

Dist. Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins explained that the Redwood staff had elected this year's coach following established policy and said the students would be promised a chance to compete. Pusser had urged that the boys be allowed to race, even if only as unattached to any school's athletics program.

Another athletic policy isue was raised when Student Council spokesman Joe Franaszek asked what had happened to plans for student representation on the district's athletic policy committee.

Tam High teacher Frank J. Gold backed the student, declaring, "Unless teachers and stu-

Even Dodger Fans Applaud Willie Mays

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The only member of the San Francisco Giants that Dodger fans seem to like is Willie Mays. Mays is everybody's hero. He's one of the good guys.

To fans in Los Angeles, Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey are bad guys.

Mays got cheered and Marichal and McCovey got booed in Dodger Stadium Monday night when the Giants scored a 7-0 win in the first game of a three-game series.

The victory moved the Giants into a second place tie with the Dodgers in the National League West.

The Giants have a slight advantage in this battle for the second place cut of World Series money. They have seven games to play after the two remaining games with the Dodgers. The Dodgers have only six left. They were rained

Why This Columnist Hates Salmon Fishing

By AL GIDDINGS

I hate salmon fishing! And you would too if you had two days like I had last week! After checking out Charlie Lawrence's 33-pound salmon from California City I decided to go down there and catch one of those monsters. Marty Medin wanted to go too, so off we went full of vim and vigor.

We launched the boat, rigged the lines, and within one minute I tied into a salmon. We were using regular salmon rods with 2-pound weights, fished at 30 feet using herring on an easy baiter hookup. The fish released the sinker on the strike, and everything went fine until we were just about to net the fish when it got off! No problem we thought at the time, but about four hours later, without another touch, and no fish on for the other 30 boats there in all this time, we figured we were beat.

THAT NIGHT I called Frank Sue of Corte Madera, telling him about the California City fishery. He suggested we go to the Muir Beach area the next day as the weather was clear and calm, and some lunkers had been taken there during the past week. This was fine with me so at 6 a.m. we were on our way. We launched Frank's 17-foot Boston Whaler at Caruso's in Sausalito.

Frank, in the meantime, figured he had forgotten his lunch in the excitement. I knew he would eat mine, so I thought I'd better buy him something.Two sandwiches, three cakes, and a box of Cheeze-its — $2.20. (I think it would have been cheaper to have come back and treated him to lunch at the Ondins!) We also saw Warren Cavanaugh of Terra Linda with a friend launched and ready to go. He said he was going to California City because the visibility outside the Golden Gate at Pt. Bonita was 100 yards! I told him it was dead at California City and to follow us, but Warren says: "Nope."

Well, we took off. The bay and ocean were calm and we made Muir Beach in one half hour, with the boat ocasionally touching the water! I've heard of the "Flying Dutchman," But now you've heard of the "Flying Chinaman." That's Frank.

AT MUIR BEACH we had no hits, so trolled up Rocky Point where Frank caught two 22-inch salmon. We used four rods; two hooked up with spoons, and two with herring using two pound weights, except for the fly rod. About lunch time, we discovered that he had brought the "left horne lunch," so we had three lunches. I start opening sodas, using two hands and putting the fly rod down. Sure! I got a big hit and the last I saw of my rod it was flying through the air and then through the water too! What a fish! If someone hooks that rod about 100 yards off Rocky Point, keep it, but let me know how big the fish was! One fly rod, a Pfleuger 1498 reel, 300 yards of monofilliment, one release and one easy baiter. You'll have a $40. prize. Plus the lunker!

THEN, USING the rod, with a No. 4 Andy Reeker spoon and a one pound weight, I hooked another good fish. "Play it easy, use a light drag, don't force it, don't tear a hole in it's mouth."

Ha, I did all this but the fish still got off at the side of the boat.

I hate salmon fishing!

That was it! Frank's two fish won the pot. And that guy Warren o ver at California City got a 16 pound salmon and a bonus striper, and saw five other caught. You know — I think I need a vacation!

THE PARTY boats which eventually showed up as the fog cleared probably averaged one to two fish per rod with generally small fish, but with a good number of hefty ones too. It's really worth while going with the seas calmer and the fish really improving in size.

California City! I don't know what to say. The inside dope supposedly is to fish the last two or three hours of the outgoing. That would make this week perfect. See you there!

INCIDENTALLY, USING two rods is legal in the ocean but illegal at the California City area. Three people were cited there last week all using two rods! The salmon size limits apply both area. The ocean season closes Nov. 15, the bay is open the year around!

I RECEIVED the Sunday morning 2 a.m. call on night anglers under the Richmond Bridge again. Cited four anglers with ten stripers caught in the lights. No Marinites - all from Oakland-Hayward areas. There were other boats fishing also, but the first man cited left the area in his car, and as he crossed the Bridge enroute to Richmond, the silence of the sweet smelling air of that area was shattered by the sounds of someone yelling, "Here comes the game wardens, here comes the game wardens!"

out in Philadelphia July 29 and the game was cancelled.

Mays, the spry 39-year-old, hit his 28th homer, got two singles and drove in four runs before manager Charlie Fox took him out after seven innings. Willie showered hurriedly and was seen grabbing a cab so he had no choice words for sports writers.

Defensively he saved a few runs in the first inning when he ran to his left and made a leaping catch of a long ball hit by Willie Davis with two men on.

Marichal pitched his first shutout of the season. He was sidelined early by penicillin poisoning and is just rounding into shape. His record is 12-10.

Marichal said, "I threw my slider only twice. I used mostly screwballs and fastballs." He took only 88 pitches for eight innings but then used 25 in the last inning.

Marichal said his stomach and his right shoulder give him trouble. He says they have pained him ever since Cincinnati's Johnny Bench ran into him on a play down the first baseline Sept. 2.

Scheduled starters in the second game tonight, to be televised on Channel 2 at 8 o'clock, are Ron Bryant, 5-6, and Alan Foster, 9-13.

dents are involved . . . I can't give too much credibility" to any report the committee drafts.

Athletic policy committee chairman Harold Allison, Sir Francis Drake High School principal, said the panel is "just getting off the ground" this semester, and is to have its next meeting sometime in October in the district office. Its members include the district's three high school athletic directors, a representative of girls' teams and student body advisers in each school, he said.

As to adding student or other teachers' voices to the deliberations, Allison said, "I'd have to take that to the committee" to decide. He said the panel is seeking "as much input as possible" from anyone interested in the athletic program.

Ring and Trustee Bette Wallace asked Hawkins to draft a written assignment for the committee, which should include discussion of student and faculty participation in policy.

Allison objected that the committee might have trouble identifying "the various voices" truly representing the community.

He pointed out that the policy committee originally was formed by the district budget committee.

"I'm really discouraged," commented Mrs. Wallace, "that we have to start all over again."

Pirates Have Upper Hand In N.L. Race

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Pirates will have a combination of momentum and arithmetic going for them tonight when they and the pursuing Chicago Cubs and New York Mets resume the countdown of the National League East race.

COMMAND

The Pirates, given a "charge" when they won three out of four games from the Mets over the weekend and leading the Cubs by two games, are clearly in command of the race. They have the lead and the easiest schedule of the three contenders. The Cubs, trailing by two games, don't get another head-to-head shot at the Pirates and the Mets, behind by 3 1-2 games, have reached the stage where they can only hope and pray.

TWIN BILL

The Pirates begin their final push for the Division Title with Dock Ellis (12-9) and Bob Veale (9-15) opposing the Montreal Expos in a twi-night doubleheader at Pittsburgh. The Expos, a surprising 9-7 against the Pirates this season, are sending Bill Stoneman (5-15) and Mike Wegener (3-5) to the mound.

The Cubs, who play all their remaining 11 games on the road, open a three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals with Bill Hands (17-13) slated to oppose Bob Gibson (22-6) on the mound. Gibson is gunning for the second Cy Young Award as the NL pitcher of the Year and a victory would give him a career high of 23 for a season. The Cardinals hold a 9-6 lead over the Cubs in their season series.

SEAVER SLUMP

The Mets, limping toward the finish line with five losses in their last six games and all but desperate because of the late-season slump of Tom Seaver, start a two-game series with the Phillies in Philadelphia with Jim McAndrew (10-12) facing Jim Bunning (10-14). McAndrew has been the Mets' most effective pitcher during the last month and New York has an 11-5 season edge over the Phillies.

revenues paid by each school to San Rafael should cover that.

Jack Sims of the San Rafael High Athletic Department said that although operations are under way to fix the field's scoreboard before the first MCAL game Oct. 2, nothing has been planned regarding the lights.

Marin Catholic showed signs of coming to life, football wise with a 26-12 win over Albany Friday afternoon. The Wildcats got a 100 - plus yardage performance from running back Pat Parnow, and tailback Mark Lewis gave his usual splendid effort gaining more than 60 yards.

Perhaps the most pleasent surprise for new head coach Rev. John Heaney was the way quarterback Steve Sherry threw the ball for two touchdowns. Heaney had dispaired of having a really good passing game this year, but now it looks as though he might.

This weekend will be the last for preseason games, with all MCAL teams in action. Friday Redwood hosts Encinal at 3:30 p.m.; Drake travels to Vallejo for an 8 p.m. game; and San Rafael goes against Montgomery in Santa Rosa, also at 8.

On Saturday, Tamalpais hosts Skyline (Oakland) and San Marin is at Novato against Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park, both games starting at 1 p.m.; Marin Catholic hosts Piner of Santa Rosa at 2; and that evening at 8, Novato is at Petaluma, and Terra Linda hosts Hogan of Vallejo at San Rafael.

In a junior college contest, College of Marin plays the College of the Redwoods at Kentfield, 1 p.m.

Browns' Triumphant Grid Debut

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Twenty years ago the Cleveland Browns entered the National Football League with an opening victory and Monday night the Browns made their debut in the American Football Conference a winning one.

Homer Jones sparked the Browns to a 31-21 victory over the New York Jets by racing 96-yards with the second half kick-off and Bill Nelsen hit on 12 of 27 passes food for 145 yards including one touchdown to lead the Browns attack, before 85,703 fans, the largest in Browns history.

"It's sure been a long time since I ran that fast and hard for so long", said Jones, who was the first Browns player to runback a kick-off for a touchdown since Carl Ward did the trick in 1967.

"This was as tough a football game as we have ever played. That Joe Namath is the toughest guy we have ever met, he is just fantastic", said Coach Blanton Collier who watched Namath throw 20 completions good for 302 yards.

"The Jets have a great football team and the penalties played an important part of the game.

The Jets were penalized 161 yards and the Browns 10.

Ruling Against Gretel

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Gretel crewmen went after their first official America's Cup victory today, burdened by the knowledge they must gain a clear-cut triumph to whittle Intrepid's commanding 2-0 lead.

Australians thought they had tied the series at 1-1 Sunday, when Gretel beat the U.S. defender by a minute and seven seconds in the second straight protest race.

RULING

The triumph was denied the Aussies however, when the New York Yacht Club disqualified them for rules infractions and awarded the race to Intrepid. The club's race committee, after hearing evidence and viewing photos of the race, ruled that Gretel fouled Intrepid at the start by impeding her progress.

"We have to win every race now without any shadows being cast on our victories," said Martin Visser, Gretel's co-helmsman. "And if we get caught in a situation like Sunday's race again, we'll just go home."

ARGUES

Visser argued that Intrepid was the culprit during the starting maneuvers that resulted in a collision and caused slight damage to both 12-meter yachts. Gretel lost a two-foot farring strip from her bow and Intrepid suffered a dent in her polished wooden topside just abaft the chain plates on the port side.

Raiders Begin Preparations For Chargers

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders, haunted by their first defeat in a regular season opener since 1964, begin preparing today for a game next Sunday in San Diego against the Chargers.

The Raiders, who played poorly last season but managed to pull out some last minute victories, took it on the chin 31-21 last weekend at Cincinnati.

"We've had slow starts before," said defensive tackle Tom Keating. "But not this slow. We've never lost an opener in the five years I've been with the club."

Oakland came out of the loss to the Bengals free of injuries. However, the Raiders' pride was stung considerably when Jess Phillips of Cincinnati broke loose for a 70-yard touchdown run off a draw play on third down and long yardage. The TD gave the Bengals a commanding 28-21 lead.

"I wasn't surprised by the call," said Oakland coach John Madden. "What surprised me was that nobody tackled him."

49er Taylor Nursing Sore Ankle

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Rookie cornerback Bruce Taylor, instrumental in the San Francisco 49ers' season opening win over Washington, must overcome a reinjured ankle to be able to play Sunday against the Cleveland Browns.

Taylor, a fleet Boston University graduate drafted No. 2 on the first round, sprained his already tender ankle on a punt return last weekend during a 26-17 victory.

His tight pass coverage, along with that of left cornerback Jimmy Johnson, helped the front four penetrate the Washington line and dump quarterback Sonny Jurgensen six times.

"We'll be up against a much better offensive line against Cleveland," assistant coach Paul Wiggin said.

The 49ers took it easy Monday, returning to the practice field today to prepare for their game against the Browns at Kezar Stadium.

Bert Campaneris and Sal Bando intensified the pressure by saving Blue's no-hitter with brilliant fielding plays in the fifth and eighth innings. Then, in the ninth, first baseman Don Mincher provided a gargantuan sigh of relief by clutching Tovar's popup for the final out.

Mincher joked afterward: "If I had dropped that one, I would have started running of the field and you wouldn't have seen me the rest of the season."

San Rafael Teacher Wins Walking Race

Tom Dooley, a teacher at San Rafael High School, won the fifth annual Fairfax Festival walking race Sunday in the time of 1 hour, 37 minutes, 53 seconds.

Bill Ranney, athletic director at San Rafael High, finished a close second, five seconds behind. Third place went to Bob Kitchen of Baltimore, Md. in 1:44 while Jim Lopes of Mill Valley came in fourth at 1:46.21.

Free Tennis Clinic

A youth tennis clinic, sponsored by Redwood Bank of San Rafael and featuring former national champion Barry MacKay, will be held at noon tomorrow at Fourth and E Streets in San Rafael. MacKay and at least one other professional player will be on hand to give free tips to youngsters.

Glory For Marin Teen-Age Netters

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Teen-agers Mike Machette of Belvedere and Sharon Walsh of San Rafael covered themselves with glory yesterday in the 44th annual Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships that also provided two big shocks — one that sent South African pro Bob Hewitt to the hospital and the other that put Australian champ Roy Enerson out of the singles competition.

Machette, Redwood High School graduate, gave the veteran old pro Pancho Gonzales a lot of hard work before Gonzales finally pounded out a 7-5, 6-4 triumph. It was a fine performance by the young Machette.

A DOUBLE

And Miss Walsh, two-time national girls champ and junior titlist at Wimbledon, whipped France's Christine Spinoza, 6-4, 6-3. Miss Walsh also teamed with Janet Newberry of aL Jolla for a 6-2, 6-3 doubles victory over Miss Spinoza and Sally Holdsworth of Great Britain.

The shock which downed Hewitt was reportedly provided by the karate chops of 75-year-old tennis club member and well known artist Anthony G. "Tony" Heinsberger. Emerson was knocked out of the singles competition by an 18-year-old named James Connors who doesn't enter college until later this year.

Heinsberger reportedly had run on the court during Hewitt's match with Joaquin Loyo-Mayo after the South African had protested calls by the linesman. Loyo-Mayo, from Mexico, won the match 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Later, Heinsberger accosted Hewitt in the dressing room and when Hewitt turned away from him, witnesses said Heinsberger chopped him in the back of the neck at least three times. Hewitt was knocked out and had to be taken to the hospital.

A mixup prevented the No. 1 ranked South African pro from being picked up for almost an hour, and when he finally reached St. Vincent's Hospital, it was discovered he was suffering from a mild concussion. He was reported in "good" condition, but was to remain for two days for observation.

Heinsberger, when reached at his home later in the evening said he "was provoked," but said his lawyer had told him not to comment further.

BACK COURT

Emerson's downfall before the blond, hard swinging Connors went relatively unnoticed as the tournament officials had apparently thought it would be no-contest for Emerson and relegated the match to a back court.

Connors, however, played Emerson to a deadlock in the first set before winning a tie-breaker. Emerson took the second set, but Connors drove back to take the final set for a 7-6, 6-7, 6-4 win.

In an earlier match, former UCLA star Arthur Ashe had to go all-out to defeat Pancho Segura 6-4 and 7-6.

Thurmond Reports To Warrior Camp

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Muscular pivotman Nate Thurmond has softened his contract holdout by reporting to the National Basketball Association training camp of the San Francisco Warriors.

Thurmond, the 6-foot-11 rebounder and defensive wizard, joined 16 Warrior teammates in a workout Monday. He will play tonight at San Jose City College where the Warriors will stage a full scale intrasquad game for the benefit of the Sight Conservation Center.

Club owner Franklin Mieuli conferred with Thurmond for two hours Monday morning. Their wide disagreement over Thurmond's pay for the 1970 season apparently is close to a solution.

Boxing

DETROIT — Joe Frazier will put up his heavyweight crown against challenger Bob Foster, the light heavyweight champ, on Nov. 18 in the Motor City. The boxers signed for the bout yesterday and it will be Frazier's first defense of his title since his technical knockout of Jimmy Ellis earlier this year.

Football

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Quarterback Sonny Sixkiller, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Washington, has been voted the Pacific-8 Conference offensive player of the week. Sixkiller, a full-blooded Cherokee, starred in the Huskies' 42-16 rout of Michigan State Saturday, firing three touchdown passes and piling up 313 yards in total offense.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I retired two years ago and have the greater part of my capital in four pipeline companies' bonds. I hvae been told to sell because the natural gas shortage could cause my bonds to be worthless. You can imagine how this worries me. What do you advise me to do ? J.R.

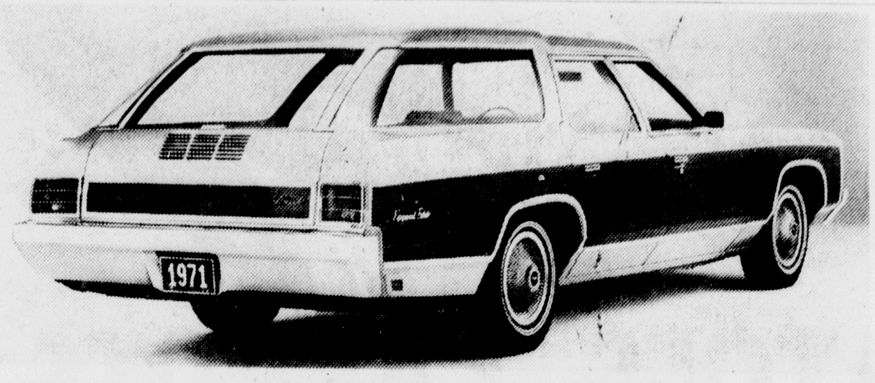
A. While I question the validity of this reasoning, you have violated an important rule by investing in only one industry. I would advise selling BBB-rated Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line 8⅞s of 1990 and United Gas Pipe Line 5¾s of 1980. The former is trading at an eight point premium, the latter four points below your cost. As replacements, AA-rated Duquesne Lighting 8¼s of 1976 and Long Island Lighting 4⅛s of 1988 would be suitable.

Q. About 18 months ago I made my first investment — Simplicity Pattern — on your recommendation. As a teacher of home economics your advice made good sense to me. My stock since then has dropped to the low sixties twice and reached ninety once, now being five points below my cost. What do you advise now? A.H.

A Learning to live with gyrations in stock values is no easy task. If it is any consolation your stock followed rather closely the action of the market in general and was a far better performer than some high flyers which are still 50 per cent below earlier highs. Simplicity is an unusually strong company with no long-term debt, no preferred stock and current assets 3.7 times current liabilities — cash alone exceeds current liabilities by 20 per cent. In the last decade sales increased an average 24 per cent annually while earnings gained an average of 50 per cent each year. The recent liberalization in the dividend rate is the tenth increase in as many years and a 2½ per cent stock divident will be distributed again this year. Shares are now trading at about 28x estimated 1970 earnings, a generous multiple in this market. I would add to shares on any temporary corerction in price.

SUBTLE TORINO STYLE

One of the 14 1971 models, this Torino GT by Ford appeals to the sports oriented youth market. A new Torino 500 series has been added, while the Fairlane 500 and Falcon series are discontinued. Standard engine for all models is the 250-cubic inch six. Cars ave available Sept. 18 at Lyons-Ryan Ford, San Rafael; L.J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato; and J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera.



NEW CHEVROLET WAGON

Greater room and a new tailgate are features of the full-size 1971 Cherolet station wagons. Three-seat wagons have a forward-facing third seat. The tailgate slides manually downunder the load floor; power-operated window moves upward into the roof. Cars will be on sale Sept. 29 at De Long Chevrolet, San Rafael; Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet, Corte Madera; Cheda Chevrolet, Point Reyes Station and Ted Schuman Chevrolet, Novato.

Stocks Lower In Moderate Activity

STOCK LOWERS --124-3

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks took it on the chin again today amid fair of possible U.S. intervention in Jordan. Trading was moderately active.

The White House announced King Hussein has asked the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France for diplomatic help in restoring peace to Jordan. But there was no firm word on whether Hussein had also sought American military assistance.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones Industrial Average was off about 4 1-2 points at 747.40.

Closing prices included: AT&T 44 off 3-8; Beth St. 22 1-2 up 1-8; Chrysler 26 1-8 off 3-4; DuPont 118 1-2 off 1 1-4; Ford 49 1-4 off 3-8; Gen El 81 up 5-8; Gen Motors 71 3-4 off 5-8; and IBM 273 1-4 off 2 1-4.

Among the day's most active issues were Electric & Musical Industries, Telex Corp., Fannie Mae, Denny's Restaurants, Pittston, and Chase Manhattan Corp. The last traded an early block of 90,900 shares at 47 in a partial cross for institutional investors.

Prices also eased in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

Tired of slaving over a hot stove? Then Wards electronic oven is just for you. Modern electronic energy replaces old-fashioned heat—nothing to scorch your oven or heat up your kitchen. And, no more pots and pans to scour—you use paper plates, glass, wood, even china. It's easy! Just plug oven in, anywhere (it's portable, uses normal household current), set seconds or minutes needed to cook your food, and relax. Cooking stops automatically when pre-set time is up. Handy cookbook included with recipes for seafood, sauces, meats, pies and more. Why spend unnecessary hours in your kitchen when you can cook the fast, new "cool" way? Ask for a demonstration, at Wards, today!
